LITTLE FIGHTERS TRAINING CAMPS.

Denver Sporting Writer Visits Quarters of Corbett and McGovern.

THE CHAMPION'S CONDITION

He is a Great Favorite in Cincinnati And is Picked to Defeat the Brooklyn Wonder.

The following interesting article on Corbett The preparation of "Young" Corbett the preparation of "Young" Corbett and Terry McGovern for their cham-and the preparation of the period of bionship outlie, is from the pen of Otto Floto, sporting writer for the Den-ver Post. Floto is now in Cincinnati where the little fellows are training. Arrived at Camp Corbett, which Arrived at calling condition which is pleasantiy situated at the Price Hill house, just on the outskirts of Cincinnati, this (Thurs-day) morning. The little champion and day) morning. The fittle champion and his trainers had just finished their breakfast and were taking a rest prior to the big morning jaunt. It is so arranged that one morning. Wille arranged that one morning Willie Mack accomanies him and the next day Willie Fitzgerald acts as chaperon on the road. Trainer Tuthill has fixed it in this way so as to have a good fresh man every morning cap-able of pacing the champion at a good stiff rate. When I arrived an old entime was slitting on the front stiff rate. When I arrived an old gentleman was sitting on the front perch, smoking his pipe in peace, I inquired for Corres and said: "What a splendid place this is to

"I should say so," replied the vete-ran. "a man who can't win after train-ing at this beautiful spot ought to quit

I confess I quite agreed with him. the business The Price Hill house sets up on a huff along the side of which flows the Ohlo river and in the distance the three big bridges that span the stream meet your gaze. The suspension, the C. & O and the Cincinnati Southern are their names. The boys sit on the porch and wager with each other how long it takes the steamers with big tows of coal barges lashed all around them to make the time from bridge to bridge. So far little Corbett has been right more times than any of his companfors. To the right we have Newport, fous. To the right we have Newport, Covington and Ludlow, Kentucky. While Mack in describing the scenery in his enthusiastic manner said: "You ought to be up here at night when they have a big fire in the city. It is a grand sight. I wish there was me tonight so you could see it for pourself." I assured him I did not care about fire, but that it must be a splendid though awful sight. About 9:39 this morning Corbett and WEIfe Fitzgera'd started on the road. We vatched them go some distance as they climbed the hills about a mile away. This country is rather "hilly" away. This country is rather may and it makes the legs very weary-of that there can be no doubt. During the time that the champion was on the road, Trainer Tuthill and Willie Mack prepared his bath, laid out dry clothes for him, and, in fact, got everything in readiness to look properly after his wants. It was about 11 o'clock, when In the distance two figures were seen bing the house, on a trot, and as they neared the quarters they increased their speed until at the end Corbett came tumbling in falling on his couch "all out." "He is a great little fellow on the road." said Tuthill. "Just look how hard he goes at it."

He expresses the utmost confidence in his ability to duplicate the trick that he accomplished at Hartford last Thanksgiving night. It is not that con-fidence on the order of braggadocio. It is the confidence of a conviction. That conviction is that he is the master of Terry McGovern of Brooklyn in any kind of battle, any time or any place. you were to listen to him you would immediately rush to the pool rooms and get a big fat bet down on his chances in the bout a week from next Monday night.

SAMMY HARRIS IS THERE

this afternoon to look after Terry from now until the day of the fight, there was not much work going on at Nor-wood Inn, which is the name of the McGovern quarters, and are located in an opposite direction of the city from Corbett. Of course Sammy outwardly appears confident and is advising that feat into victory this time. Well, Samuel has a right to his own opin-ion, the same as any one else. But one thing I can youch for, and that is that not many within hearing of his prediction agreed with him. Terry did but light work and no boxing at all. Terry did Shadow work in the gymnasium and skipping the rope constituted about all for the day. As Joe Humphries exfor the day. As Joe Humphries ex-pressed: "What's the use of working him so hard; he is down to weight right

I will have another opportunity to visit the McGovern quarters tomorrow afternoon, and will then give you my opinions as to his condition and work. But interest in the fight is at fever heat and $10 tickets are already being running special trains, and it is safe to say that many will be turned away that night, unable to gain admission. camps were scenes of activity all day. At Camp Corbett Johnny Considine and ther New Yorkers arrived to look the champion over and all went away well atisfied at the fine shape in which they found him. John Considine last night offered to bet Sam Harris $5,000 even, but Sam will think it over for a lay or two. The champion did above ve miles on the road this morning and

I remember at the sullivan-Kilrain fight down in Missis-ippl, Jimmy was there. He told me hat he left Boston with just 15 cents and after the fight he displayed a roll as large as your fist. To call him an Englishman meant a rough and tumble fight. Although born in Engand, his sole aim was to be classed as an Irishman.

He was considered a dangerous man in a fight for a few rounds, as his and rushes were of the wild and don't-care order. I remember a fight he engaged in in Boston. He was up against a elever fellow and was stopping most of his opponent's blows with his face. A friend of Jimmy's called out:

'Why don't you stop those heavy ones?

"Ye don't see any passin' me head, do ye?" answered Jimmy between gasps, "He was at the Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight in Carson City. On the way to Nevada he was put off the special train three times because he did not have the fare, but when the next station would be reached Jimmy would bob up and again take his seat in the Pullman. MCOY CHALLENGES FITZ. Hearing of Bob's Intention to Fight

He Issues Defi.

Kid McCoy, having read of Bob Fitzsimmons' intention to re-enter the ring, proposes to post a forfeit of $5,000 to clinch a match with the Cornishman. McCoy has for some time been anx-lous to get on a match with Fitzsim-mons, but the latter has been too busy o heed a challenge from the Hoosier over. Fitzsimmons' defeat by Jim Jefries, however, seems to have convinced 'the Old Man'' that he has no chance with the champion, for he announces that he has passed up the bollermaker. but will take on any of the other heavy weights

In this announcement McCoy thinks he sees the opening he has waited for sq long. The $5,000 is to remain up as i forfeit and if Filtzsimmons signs arthe battle McCoy will bet the $5,000 for that purpose.

In his announcement Fitzsimmons says he would be pleased to meet either Jim Corbett or Gus Rublin and makes no special mention of McCoy.

GETS A RUB DOWN.

His wet clothes were quickly removed. andafter a short rub-down hewas again wrapped in blankets to keep his pores open. Then another "dry" rub-down and then a bath, after which the old-time alcohol and other sweet smelling spirits did their share of the perform-ance. He then dressed and read his mall, after which dinner was ready. Talk about an appetite. Well, he can make a hungry man ashamed of him-self. After dinner he took his "Remington," and placing pennies on a tree, shot them as souveniers for the many people about the place who desired them. Then playing cards were pinned on the trees and he shot at them. As this was the safe it was "Visitors' day" this being the only day on which the general public is admitted to watch him work. A crowd of over 1,600 peoam work. A crowd of over 1,000 peo-je were present, which only demon-strates the great interest being taken in the coming contest for the world's featherweight championship. It was a sknt to see that crowd packed in the bowling alley. Here was his routine for the afternoon:

Swinging the Indian clubs for about ten minutes, boxing three rounds each with Mack and Fitzgeraid. This part of the program was of course the most intreating of the entire affair accord-ing to the speciators. Two men of a more different investigation of the special specia ing to the spectators. Two men of a more different type of boxing would be had to find than Fitzgerald and Mack. The latter is a slim rangy fellow with the deverness of Frank Martley, whom Denverites all remember. If anything heis even more clever than Frank was, hels even more clever than Frank was, but he would greatly remind you of him if you saw him work. The rounds are cut up so that Mack boxes the first round and Fitzgerald the second. Mack jumps around and keeps the champion buy while Fitzgerald stands up to his work and slugs. And such slugging you never saw. I venture to say that the two rough rounds between Corbett and Fitzgerald will not be duplicated in his coming fight. No two men could stand up and give and take like that stand up and give and take like that train without one or the other being knocked out. Both bled freely and remain times they staggered under the ranishment. The spectators were sim-By wild with enthusiasm and one more approximately the state of the enthusiastic admirer than some of the enthusiastic admirer than some of the feet threw his hat in the air and shout-ed.
