The remains of Martha H. The funeral services over her remains were held in the Fifth ward meeting house at 12 o'clock, Eishop John Watson officiating. The services were commenced by the male chorus, under Prof. Joseph Ballantyne, singing, "I need Thee every hour." Elder George H. Islaub offered the opening pracer. The male chorus sang, "Her noble work is done," President L. W. Shurtliff was the first speaker. He speke very feelingly of the sudden demise of the deceased and her great usefulness in mortality as a loving mother, a good neighbor, and a faith ful Latter-day Saint. He also referred to the absence of her son, Prof. Squire Coop, who is studying music in a foreign land. Bishop Beatle of the Seventeenth ward, Salt Lake City, who was on a mission in England, laboring in the Leeds conference, spoke upon the early life of the deceased in the Church, and of her kindness in providing for the Elders, and was faithful, as a mother, in doing for them all she could.

City, who was on a mission in Leeds the same time as the former speaker, spoke of the unceasing efforts of the deceased at that time in providing a home for the Elders and her faithfulnome for the principles of the Gospel. "Remembered," a choice solo, was beautifully rendered by Hadgert An-derson, Elders James H, Douglass and homas A. Shreeve, eulogized the Godfearing life of the deceased, while a resident of Ogden, and portrayed the glorious reward that awaits the faith-ful. The ward choir sang, "The Resulrection Day," and benediction was pro-nounced by Elder H. H. Thomas.

The meeting house was filled with ympathizing friends and many beautiul floral tributes were laid on the sket, evidencing the high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community. A large funeral cortege folowed the remains to the city cemeery, where they were laid to rest in the family burial ground. IMPORTANT DAMAGE SUITS.

President Winder, who had not met with the Saints in Utah Stake since 1886, when the annual conference was held here, and when he was sustained as one of the presiding Bishopric, spoke on the great work that was being done in the Temples for the dead, and of its great importance, impressing upon the Saints their responsibilities in this direction and urging them not to neglect their duties and privileges in onnection with this great principle of the Gospel of vicarious work for the lead. He read a number of the sayings of the Prophet Joseph Smith on this principle. During the past eight and a half years, ordinances had been per-formed in the Salt Lake Temple for 666,331 souls, and the number officiated for in 1901 was 74.331. Patriarch John Smith reported that in his travels among the people he had found that they had a desire to do the will of God. He encouraged the young men to so five and labor that they might obtain a testimony of the truthfulness of the Gospel at home, and become acquainted with the principles of the Gospel at home, and not wait till they were called on missions. This could be done by listening to the whis-perings of the Holy Spirit and by being guided by its promptings

Apostle John Henry Smith said that was in Ogden yesterday visiting with taken place, as he did not remember

had been said by the previous speakers, all of which he verily believed had been prompted by the good Spirit. He was pleased with the large attendance which spoke well of the spirit of the Saints and of the efforts of those who presided over the Stake. He spoke of the necessity for men who held posi-tions as leaders and instructors of the people, being converted to the truth and prepared to impart it to the people. He had in mind a man (who had until lately been a Bishop) who had been advancing the idea to the young people that the Lord and His Son had greater affairs to engage their attention that visit this earth and communicate with Joseph Smith. eror that such a man had been pernitted to retain a position as a te Israel. If any held positions of leaders among the people who had not faith in the Gospel they should be converted, and if they could not be converted they should be removed from their positions. President Smith read from the revelation given September 21st, 1823, to Joseph Smith, and asked whether the Saints, who has received the blessings

President Smith, in speaking of the liscipline and procedure of the Church, instructed that the presiding authority of a Stake have full authority in mat ters of fellowship, and that matters re lating thereto as well as other contro-versies, would not be considered by the First Presidency, except on regular appeal from the High Council of the Stake. He closed by commending the people for the response to the law of tithing. He believed now that there were more members in the Church who observed the law of tithing than at any other time in its history.

Apostle Reed Smoot was the first speaker in the forenoon meeting. He referred to the increase of tithe payers in the Utah Stake, and stated that many who had not paid tithing for years, before, had paid tithing in 1901, and many of those had testified to him that they felt better for doing so. This, together with the large increase in the ttendance at the meetings of this conerence, was an indication to him that the people had experienced a revival in their desire to live up to the priniples of the Gospel. Come from Texas, Canada and Wyo ming, and this demand will increas from time to time until the Saints will become the head and not the tail, a has been promised by the Lord. Speaking of jealousy in regard to the possession and exercise of gifts among the people, President Smith said tha no one would be jealous of any man who was blessed with the gift of heal ing and who exercised it in humility and gave the honor to God, and recog nized the organized authority in the Church. If, however, he took honor to nimself, he was on dangerous ground and was in a position of antagonism o the Church President Smith explained the reason

WHY HE PAID TITHING.

It was because the Lord required It and it made no difference to him wha was done with the tithing; although it was wasted those who permitted th waste would be held responsible. There was another reason that would probably appeal to some, to whom the first reason was not sufficient. This was the blessings provided to those who kep the law; but those who observed th aw for the first reason-that the Lor had commanded it-would also receiv blessings, and President Smith the considered the first the better motive

SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

The tabernacle was crowded in th afternoon, many being unable to find eate The general and stake authoritie were sustained, and the resignation of Mrs. Emma Choules Burles as Stake organist was accepted with thanks for her past faithful labors. Sister Clara E. Cluff was sustained as organist to fill the vacancy occasioned by the res-ignation of Sister Burles.

A statistical report for the year was read, showing 6,920 officers and members and 2,487 children under 8 years of age in the Stake,

Apostle John Henry Smith was the first speaker. He referred to the won-derful progress made since the restoration of the Gospel in this dispensation and yet the work is in its infancy. Th comparative ease with which Elde the misionary field where they devot all their time to the work, keep aliv the spirit of working for the progres of the Gospel. The many agencies that in the gathered condition of the Saints tend to dull this spirit and to cause the Elders to become indifferent were refered to. The necessity for counteracting this tendency to indifference, was pointed out and the Bishops and other ministering servants among the people were admonished to devote more time to the education of the young in an understanding of the truth, doing this in a tactful, loving manner, so that the young may become firmly grounded in the principles of the Gospel, and prepared for the duties will devolve upon them as men and women in the Church.

The same diligence and tact should be displayed in this work, that characterize a good teacher in a school in his efforts to impart secular knowledge to his pupils.

Patriarch John Smith followed in the line of thought advanced by Apostle Smith, chowing lacking in faith, and could exist between the servants of God. Whenever a man feels that his brethren are jealous of some power or gift which he possesses, he should make an examination of himself, and he will find that he is in the wrong; the blessings which God bestows through the ordinances of the Gospel, such as healing of the sick, came not
