BOLD HOLDUP.

Warm Springs Saloon the Scene of Cool Robbery Last Night.

Shortly before last midnight two masked men robbed the Warm Springs saloon and secured $50. The men were cool and deliberate and after getting the money made good their escape. It is believed they went north on the O. & N. 11:45 train.

Three men were in the saloon when the robbery entered. Harry Duce, the bartender, was talking to two men when the masked robbers entered. They leveled weapons on those in the saloon and commanded everybody to throw up their hands. The order was promptly obeyed. Then one of the robbers quickly went to the cash register and took all the money it contained. A number of checks were left undisturbed. Keeping the bartender covered with a gun the men then backed out of the saloon and disappeared.

The police were notified of the robbery and were quickly on the scene. Word was sent to Ogden and the police were furnished with the following description of the two men:

No. 1—Tall and slender, about five feet eleven inches; weight, 150 pounds. Wore slouch hat, gray plaid suit, white undershirt over his face. Was about 34 years old.

No. 2—Five feet eight inches in height, 145 pounds, about 27 years old, wore gray plaid suit, golf cap, white handkerchief.

STEVE ADAMS' DEFENSE IN ALBI
His Attorneys Laying Foundation To Prove He Was in Spokane When Tyler Was Murdered.

COMING OF CLAIM JUMPERS.

Early Settlers Tell of Some Very Positive Evidence Given by Newton Glover.

Wallace, Ida, Feb. 26.—Bit by the attorneys for Steve Adams by laying the foundation for their theory that Steve Adams was not in the Marble creek region when Fred Tyler was murdered, but was in Spokane. This morning was taken up mainly by the testimony of some of the early settlers in that region, telling of the coming of the claim jumpers, and describing the topography of the country.

Alvin Mason was the first on the stand. He testified that he entered the Marble creek region in May, 1901. Simpson squatted on the land after claims claimed by Fred Tyler. Mason said he understood the land in that county was open to settlers. He had never filed a homestead application for his claim, and did not think Simpson ever filed a claim. He described the trails, especially the one between Simpson and the Price claim.

Newton Glover said he settled about a year and a half before Simpson's claim in 1902. Engstrom, Mason and Glover, he thought, were the first settlers in that vicinity, having carried their goods and their families to the place. He testified that the principal ones being Boule, Tyler, Phillips and Lindsey. Glover says they never bothered his land.

A positive declaration that Steve Adams and Jack Simpson were miles away from the scene of the crime when Boule, the claim jumper, was killed, was made this morning by Newton Glover. The witness told of seeing a man named Steve Dickson with Jack Simpson about July 4, 1904. Asked if he saw Dickson in the courtroom on the morning of the trial, he testified that he saw him. He was the man, later he met Adams several times, and about Aug. 19 Adams and Simpson came to his place and stayed there about 10 days. The day after Boule was murdered he heard of the crime from Frank Price, another settler who shouted across the river.

Glover said Adams and Simpson were cutting wood beside his cabin at this time and he went back there and told them. A couple of days later Adams and Simpson received a letter from his wife, went away.

Glover also flatly denied that part of Adams' confession which stated that Tyler, Simpson and Adams were in a cabin just before Tyler was murdered. On resumption of the trial this afternoon, Frank Price's examination was continued by the defense. The witness stated that he had met Chandler at Marble creek at the same time Adams and Simpson were there. He testified that he saw Adams and Simpson when they were being taken to the prosecution when the defense wanted to show that Price had been arrested for the murder of Boule, and were sustained by the defense.

Atty. Gen. Broderick, who is attending a meeting conducted by jumpers, and stated that he had never seen any settlers carry arms except the O. E. S. lodge, and that the jumpers carried a heavy revolver and a lot of cartridges. If Simpson had a sawed-off gun he had never seen it and he testified that he had never seen it.

Mrs. A. Henkle confirmed statements made by the defense that she had seen Adams and Simpson during Adams' stay in Marble Creek. She testified that she saw Adams and Simpson during Adams' stay in Marble Creek.

William O'Neil, keeper of the St. John's hotel, testified that he had seen Adams and Simpson during Adams' stay in Marble Creek. He testified that he saw Adams and Simpson during Adams' stay in Marble Creek.

Joseph J. Russell testified to having seen Adams in St. Joe Aug. 8. He testified that he saw Adams and Simpson during Adams' stay in Marble Creek.

Dr. Charles Sears testified as to the length of time different parts of the body of the victim were in the water. He testified that he saw Adams and Simpson during Adams' stay in Marble Creek.

Henry P. Knight, attorney for the prosecution, was put on the stand to identify the pair of shoes alleged to have been taken from the grave when the remains were dug up in Wallace. A dispute arose over whether the shoes had not been introduced as evidence by the prosecution and the defense insisted that all taken from the grave be produced.

The defense will complete its evidence tomorrow.

INDIAN WAR VETERANS.

Gov. John C. Cutler Leads the Grand March at Annual Reunion.

Army hall was the scene last evening of a very patriotic reunion of Indian war veterans, their families and friends. It was the seventh meeting of a similar character, and the 26 persons present had a pleasant time. Dancing was indulged in, and a program of songs, recitations and stories telling interpreted the other features of the evening.

A speech exhorting the men who repelled the depredations of the red men during the earlier days of Utah's existence was delivered by Gov. John C. Cutler. A brief recital was given by the executive committee of the veterans present. The night and their comrades who have fallen in the great struggle were remembered.

The grand march was led by the governor and the dances that followed were mostly of the old fashioned kind, such as square dancing, and the like. A fine music, such as J. B. Bean was master of ceremonies.

DAVIDS OF GRAND OPERA IS COMING
Henry W. Savage's Singing Hosts With Triple Star Cast in Salt Lake Next Month.

TO BE HERE ONLY TWO NIGHTS

"Madam Butterfly," Giacomo Puccini's Wonderful Japanese Production The Offering.

Musical Salt Lake is already hithering itself over the coming to this city of the Savage Grand Opera hosts on the 19th and 20th of March, with triple cast of principals and a company of 150 people. It will be of interest to prospective patrons to know something of the composer of the celebrated offering to be made at that time.

Giacomo Puccini, the gifted Italian composer of "Madam Butterfly," first became known in American musical circles through the medium of his "La Boheme" and "Tosca," two of which have been in the repertoire of the Savage Grand Opera company. Puccini was born in Lucca, Italy, in 1858, and was one of a long line of musicians. For five generations his family has been famous as composers of operas and church music. Puccini's father was held in such high esteem by his countrymen that his death was regarded as a national calamity. Puccini began his musical education at an early age and was assisted in his studies by a great uncle, who was a composer.

Puccini's debut as a composer of operatic music was made in competition for the first prize offered by Sonzogno. His opera, "Le Villi," was produced in 1884, and was followed by "Edgar" and "La Boheme." "La Boheme" was produced in 1896, and was followed by "Tosca," which had its first performance in 1900 at the Costanzi, Rome.

Apert from his musical endowments, Puccini is an athletic, cheery individual. His chief pleasure is found in the entertainment of congenial companions, or when engaged in some hunting expedition. His frank, hearty and generous disposition and overflowing hospitality has endeared him to his friends and associates. An instance of this feeling toward the composer was evidenced when, upon receiving a gift from a friend, he gave it to the needy.

It is a warning, too—and sufferers should heed it—Hood's at once. Buy a bottle today.
