The case came before the court in the way of contempt proceedings, Mrs. Gamble alleging that the amount which should have been paid Nov. 14, was long past due. Mr. Gamble explained that he had been unable to meet the ob-ligation because he had been compelled to advance money to an assistant, and collections had been light. He said Mrs. Mary Gamble retained the home that was formerly owned by both, but admitted that it was left to her to pay the mortgage. He admitted also that he had contracted a second marriage lately, but denied that that event had added to his expenses. "I will give you until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to pay the de-linquent $25," said Judge Morse, after elicting from Mr. Gamble that he had collected $125 within the month. The defendint pulled from his pocket a bank book, which he said would show that he had no funds in bank, but the court remarked that the book would cut no figure. He was told to appear in court at 10 o'clock this morning with proof that he had complied with the order. Mrs. Isabel Snaith proved to the satisfaction of the court that her hus-band, James Snaith, had neglected for a long time to support her and that he is a habitual drunkard. In addition to these charges, she said that he is now in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of attempting her life. A decree of divorce was granted, but Mrs. Snaith said she thought it useless to ask for alimony or attorney's fees. Adam F. specified should be made up in part of saline lands. A minority report on this phase of the cuabling act recommended phase of the enabling act recommended the addition of 3,000 acres of saline lands to the other proposed grant, but it was rejected, obviously as being too small. The supreme court holds that the word "including," meant an acre-age additional to the 110,000 acres. The suggestion is made in the ruling that the word had, in the intent of the framers of the enabling act, the meanthe word had, in the intent of the framers of the enabling act, the mean-ing and scope of the word also.

MAY BE APPEALED.

MAT BE AFFEALED. That the case will be carried to still higher jurisdiction, is intimated by counsel for the Montello Salt company. Judge W. L. Maginnis of Ogden, attor-ney for the company stated it to be his opinion that an appeal would be taken to the supreme court of the United States

While the case for the state was con While the case for the state was con-ducted in part by the attorney-general, Atty, W. D. Riter, special counsel for the University of Utah, and Maj. Rich-ard W. Young, a regent of the univer-sity, were actively engaged in looking after the interests of the educational locational Institution.

The lands in controversy cover an area about 100 miles long and 60 miles wide. The deposit of salt is said to area about 100 miles long and 60 miles wide. The deposit of salt is said to be several feet in thickness, "blanket" formation, and the amount is estimated to be upwards of 1,250,000 tons to the square mile. At even a nominal price per ton, the output would mean mil-lions of dollars to be added to the fund for university purposes. CLAYTON'S VIEW.

The value of 10 cents a ton for crude salt, which it is claimed by some per-sons would be a low price for the material underlying the university lands is estimated by others as being entirely too high.

"Whatever may be the intrinsic value of the deposits of salt owned by the state, the commercial value amounts to but very little," said Secy. I. A. Clayout very note, said Sey, 1 A. Cay-ton of the inland Crystal Salt company today, "At our works we can easily produce 200,000 tons of salt annually, produce 200.000 tons of sail annually, equal in grade and condition to the de-posits alluded to, at a cost not to ex-ceed three cents a ton. The pumping of water is the only cost of producing sait on the shores of the Great Sail lake, and the money to be made from the sail business lies almost entirely in refining, and the work incidental to the shipping of the various grades, in-cluding the crude product."

PREST, KINGSBURY'S VIEW. While the land in question may not productive of great revenue to the he productive of great revenue to the university in the near future. I believe that the day is not far distant when the resource will be a vitality important one to this institution," said President Joseph T. Kinghbury of the University of the today of Utah today.

"It would require careful thought to determine just what the decision of yesterday means in the way of dollars and cents," continued Mr. Kingsbury. and cents." continued Mr. Kingsbury. "In the first place, the quantity and the quality of the sait deposits must be as-certained, and also it must be ascer-tained whether the work of refulng and shipment can be done as cheaply as elsewhere. I believe that the state should retain possession of all the lands affected by the decision of the supreme court, and I am firmly of the opinion that it means much for the university. that it means much for the university and, affecting the university as it does, will mean much for the State of Utah.
