SOME SONS OF PRESIDENTS.

A problem that has confronted the merican people for a century or more what to do with our ex-Presidents intermed have talked stoot it, poli-Statemen have taked about it, poll-linus have played upon it, publicalists have brought the weight of laint latellinenes is bear upon it, and in some intensee the ex-Presidents themselves have becomes horse than a becoming seat in it. Latterly death has all-too promptly solved the problem in the case of seems, while in the case of others the matter has been removed from the field of controvers by their glad return to the waits in which then first much prom-lemes or to which their facture of larred, thus relieving the ustics of larred, thus relieving the ustics of larter connects or embarrassement of their accounts.

insees et a which their inciteation braved, the relieving the nation of further concern or embarrasenses of intriber concern or embarrasenses of intriber account.

But the same old problem, modified in one degree, has bobble dup, and threatens to continue to do so, tedure incumbents of the presidential chair. "What," sake the older magistrate, stready into its death by the importunity of placebuniers—"what shall do with the note of my predecessor?" Mr. McKinhy is already having his share of algebraic the stream of the stream of isst job of a collector of internal revenue.

It is too bad that the President should allow immeft to be annoyed by such meanful be annoyed by such meanfulours princelings. The feet that they act as though their belief any present item a patent right to a soft government place is of itself any present poor of their until-ness, because it shows an unite miscence-plan of American ideas of patriotem, equality and independence. The senore President McKitaley pecks these young fellows of about their bealess and tells then to go and win their bealess and tells then to go and win their papers before they beg to be allowed by wear them, the belief for him, for them and for all American youth and manhood generally.

MOSTANA'S INDIAN PROUBLE.

A Montana dispatch today states that the Indian morderers of Sheep-barder Heaver (same of whom have been arrested, which action is likely to be followed by the taking into entedby of the others), will be turned over to the cherric, but that it is probable they will be taken from that officer and tynched by the settlers. If the latter model be the essen it would be an outrage upon envirtanting, for allowing which the Montana officers would have no justification, for allowing which the Montana officers would have no justification, the efficials are able easily to prevent its leany carried out. There was considerable inclument when, affect the morder was committed, there appared a prospect that the Indiana general morder was considerable included. The would be an indice outbreak. But now that the placed if there ahould be an indice outbreak. But now that the Indiana generally have shown their docre for pasce and have reergained the law by surresidering all their unsher connected with the homeloids, the alleged petil to rettlers down out they allow the indiana content of much when the latter, through a savage desire her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, through a savage desire her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, through a savage desire her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, through a savage desire her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, through a savage desire her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, through a savage feels her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, through a savage feels her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, through a savage feels her revenge to smoot for much when the latter, and the latter has been a feeling and the latter when the threat housing the latter has been a feeling to the savage feels and the latter has been a feeling to the savage feeling the sa

KNELL OF A STRIKE.

The mannery of the great railinery sirils if Tibb's is parity obscured by time and the many important evening that have transpired the past divergence of the great disturbance to traffic caused by the strike and attendant violence. But such an accurrence that can call to mind vividity in science of the great disturbance to traffic caused by the strike and attendant violence. But such an accurrence is set for fomorrow, Friday, in a California islit.
