Pratt's Astral Oil!

WILL not explode or take fire if the lamp becomes upset and broken.
Burns in the ordinary Kerosene Lamp.
Gives a clear, uniform and beautiful light, unequalled by gas.
Over 100,000 families continue to use it, and no accidents, directly or indirectly, have ever occurred from burning, storing or handling it.

Some one called Richard Steele the "vilest of mankind." He retorted with proud humility, "It would be a glorious world if I were."

A philosopher wants to know, if $3 50 is good pay for a fair day's work, how much should be considered equivalent for a wet day's work?

"Mon, I had an awfu' dream last night," said Grant Thorborn, one morning. "Ah what was't?—did ye dream yer wife was dead?"—"waur than that, mon, I dreamed they sent me back tae Scotland!"

The romance of elopement is sadly neutralized in New York by the inconsiderate manner in which the injured parents invariably forgive the delinquents and give them "grand receptions."

An Indiana man took laudanum, remarking that he had an engagement with General Jackson that afternoon.
Active exercise on the part of a stomach pump caused the engagement to be broken.

A housewife in New Orleans, in filling up her schedule of the census paper, described herself as the head of the family, while, in respect to the trade of her husband, she wrote: "He turns my mangle."

John King, a Quaker, was the first teetotaler in Great Britain. He is now seventy-five years old, and is living with his fourth wife. All the teetotalers of the United Kingdom are going to give a penny each for his benefit.

According to the Hudson Register, so great is the opposition at Catskill between the omnibuses and carriages to and from the cars and boats, that in several instances passengers have not only had free rides to the village, but have been "treated."

Santa Fe is the oldest town in the United States but one, which is St.
Augustine, Florida. If any one has a curiosity to see how a town looked more than a century ago, he has only to visit Santa Fe and he will have a pretty clear conception of things as they appeared at that early day in the settlement of this continent.

In the neighborhood of Jerome Park, New York, is the Grange, the house of General Alexander Hamilton, standing secluded at some distance from the road.
Near the mansion is a group of thirteen trees, planted by the General, and named after the original States; the one named South Carolina alone grew up crooked.

The explosion of the volcano on the island of St. Vincent, which occurred in 1812, hurled a cloud of dust to Barbadoes, lying some eighty miles distant, where the earthy matter fell like a silent rain, causing almost total darkness, so that a gentleman who went out among his trees on the lawn could find them only by feeling for their trunks.
It is said that a scientific man then residing in the West Indies was at Barbadoes at this time, and that, immediately upon perceiving the fine dust on the window-sill of his house, he exclaimed: "The volcano of St. Vincent has broken out at last, and this is the dust of it."

The New York steamboat men are struggling with a knotty problem.
General Belknap said, before the close of the government investigation of the Westfield disaster, that it was the duty of every boiler inspector to go inside the boiler under examination and test the inner plates and braces, Mr. Matthews, one of the inspectors is a Fal-staff, and the end of a boiler would have to be knocked off to enable him to get into it, and he couldn't do it then, unless it was a large boiler and well greased on the inside. Now, the question is, whether large boilers are to be made, or Matthews is to be dieted and rubbed down until he can get into the present ones.

An "old colored sister" of Atlanta, Ga., thus accounted for a recent destructive storm in that city:

"I can jes tell you what is de reason for all dis hail and wind and rain what de good Lord has poured out upon us poor sinners—it all comes of that ice mersheen what de white folks hab started in dis town. Its agin nater—makin' of freezin' cold ice here in de month of July, and de good Lord is punishin' us fur tryin' to be smarter dan He is. He don't make ice in de summer time, and when poor sinful man gets to goin' agin de Lord, den He's sure to punish 'em with storm of hail and rain and wind and tarafyin' fevers—bless de Lord!"
