SALARIES PREFERRED

State Treasurer Must Pay Salaries of State Officers First.

Attorney General Dickson has promulgated the following opinions to the officers addressed:

State Officers' Warrants.

Hon. Jos. Chipman, State Treasurer, Salt Lake City, Utah:

Dear Sir—I have your letter of the 8th inst asking to be advised upon the following questions: First—Have I the right to pay warrants drawn for salaries of State and district officers in preference to outstanding warrants for other and several purposes which have been presented and first cast for want of funds and thereafter without opportunity to register kept for that purpose, as is provided by law?"

"If you should decide the first question in the affirmative, then will you please indicate to me who would properly be considered 'state officers.'"

"Suppose a warrant for salary of such officer has been presented, and paid for want of funds and registered as required by law, since the last preceding regular election, but has not been paid for want of funds and registered as required by law, since the last regular election, but has not been presented at all, or presented and registered since the last regular election, which warrant is entitled to be paid first?"

Answering your first question, I do not deem it necessary to enter into an elaborate discussion of the subject matter.

I have given the question as careful consideration as the time I have been able to devote to it would permit, and am of the opinion that it is your duty as state treasurer to pay warrants drawn for salaries of State and district officers in preference to all other outstanding warrants of a general character notwithstanding the fact that such outstanding warrants have been presented and registered as required by law.

The constitutional provision reads the legislature shall prescribe by law the salaries of state officers, and determine for time to time the duties of such officers; and may change the salaries of such officers, but such change shall not take effect during the term of office. The legislature has not seen fit to change the salaries of state officers since the adoption of the constitution, and the salaries of such officers are fixed by law. The constitutional provision to which I refer was evidently inserted for the purpose of preventing the legislature from increasing or diminishing the salaries of state officers during the term for which they were elected, and I am not aware that the legislature has ever attempted to change the salaries of state officers during the term for which they were elected. The legislature has not seen fit to change the salaries of state officers since the adoption of the constitution, and the salaries of such officers are fixed by law. The constitutional provision to which I refer was evidently inserted for the purpose of preventing the legislature from increasing or diminishing the salaries of state officers during the term for which they were elected, and I am not aware that the legislature has ever attempted to change the salaries of state officers during the term for which they were elected.

Section 176 of said act provides that it shall not take effect upon its passage, but that the same shall be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election which will be held in November, 1896, and unless a majority of those voting at said election shall vote in favor of increasing the salaries of state officers, the act shall be void and of no effect. I suppose the object of submitting the question to the electors of the state was to ascertain whether or not the people desired to increase the salaries of state officers, and the legislature has evidently acted upon the assumption that the people would not vote in favor of increasing the salaries of state officers, and that the legislature has not seen fit to change the salaries of state officers since the adoption of the constitution, and the salaries of such officers are fixed by law.

AMUSEMENTS.

The week just ending has not emblazoned itself upon the record of theatricals with any prominent mark. The Fenton company at the Grand are making a pyrotechnical play for patronage and the venture has been so far successful. The almost unbearable hot weather that is prevailing at the present time is filling the coupon resorts and nearby country towns and those who remain are as inactive that nothing short of a circus parade with free strawberry romance could arouse them.

The Lyceum management has made arrangements with the California Dramatical company for a series of weeks and the doors of the amusement resort will be thrown open again on Monday night. Cudmore will be given for the opening night. The Bonnyscastle the hill and during the company's stay here a number of popular plays will be given, among them Cudmore, a dramatization of Du Maurier's famous novel of that name.

The production of the comic opera Mikado at Garfield Beach is being pressed forward to by those who delight in light opera and since the production of Pinafore at Saltair the venture it is presumed will prove a successful one. The arrangement being made for the seating of those who attend is entirely novel here and was the order of the best garden theaters in the East, where lunch and refreshments can be partaken of upon tables while the performance is being given. Every Salt Lake is getting ready to be delighted and the management promises all—we can do no more than we can do it. Watch for the date of opening.

The Theatre employes are making big preparations for their grand Mardi Carnival at Saltair next Wednesday, July 15. The boys are deserving of public patronage and in order to make the event a memorable one, have concluded to give $100 in cash prizes as follows: Best costumed character, $100; most elegant costume, $50; best group of eight, $20; best group of four, $10; best original costumer, $10; best comic group, $20; best Negro, $5; best Indian, $5; best lunkhead, $2; best Irishman, $2; best representation of any National character, $5, and many others.

Prof. Evan Stephens and John James Esq. leave on Monday next for Denver to make preparations for the Tabernacle choir's trip to that city during the three days of the State fair to be held there commencing Sept. 1st. The choir will not carry their organ to Salt Lake and if the Grand Opera House will do a very large business with this production.

The announcement is made that Nate Salsbury, the prominent brass manager in the world, is going to step out entirely from the Irwin-Frohman Standard Opera Co. on the Bowery. This play has established universal favor as a production of the best order and the opening after an unprecedented, the people interested with relief to see all of the old faces in a new, dazzling setting of harmonious costumes and scenery. Among the principals are Albert Chevalier, Eva Mudie, Emmett Jerome and Frederick Bert in Bartlett's comedy work by his improvements, which is one of the most successful of Life of a Man at one of London. The cast and scene of New York are already so many outposts for stage entertainment, it will more than the lower theatre of London. Lee is an accomplished host. There is a constant jangling of automobiles in front of the Bowery, among them those of Messrs. Weber and Fields, Lew Dockstader, Harry Hastings, Hoyt, Thompson, Dundy and Rogers, and Messrs. Irwin, Frohman and Salsbury. Mr. Salsbury was written to Thomas B. Davis and William H. Kemp, all of prominent clergy of Brooklyn, asking their opinion of Sunday entertainments, and in the first answers received, and in the first response to anything in connection with the form. Like a reasonable citizen. The introduction of Mme. Modjeska in it was a happy thought. Here is the real characters, the most trained of personages and that famous thoroughfare. Its picturesque commercialism—we see it and we recognize it—we are On the Bowery.

TURNING GRAY AND THREATENED WITH BALDNESS

The Danger is Averted by Using

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, restored it to its former color, and kept it soft, pliable, and glossy. Only a few bottles were required. Daily my testimonial confirmation is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I cheerfully testify to recommend any of Ayer's medicines having friends."—Mrs. H. M. Hanaur, Avoca, Neb.
