Old Soldier's Third Attempt at Suicide Defeated.

OUT A MAN WHO THREATENED HIM

Strike His Nose by a Kick—A Brother Kills a Robber—struck by a Train.

John M. Dolan, for many years a prominent citizen and for four terms, 1879-82, the democratic mayor of Oakland, Cal., has recently died in poverty.

Stanley attempted to shoot David Hunter for driving a cattle over the middle of the San Lorenzo river, Cal., he was thrown by a cinch and thrown under the horse. He had several fine cinches, and was seriously injured.

In many sections of San Diego county, Cal., only a quarter to a third of the average grain crop has been put in, owing to the drought. As the crop is usually valued at over a half a million dollars, the loss will be severely felt by farmers.

The annual encampment of the Southern California Grand Army of the Republic is meeting at Ventura in full force, and a rousing time is the order of the day. The ministry of the city has sufficient a willing hand to send a soldier up to that part, causing the excitement.

It is said the San Carlos, Arizona, agency Indians are getting restless, and that delegates have been visiting the various camps. About 60 days ago a big killing will be started by Indians at the Point of Rocks on the San Carlos river.

John Cryer attempted suicide Saturday night at Redwood, Cal., by cutting his throat with a razor, but was discovered in time to save his life. Cryer is an old soldier and the attempt at the same before, once placing a revolver cartridge in his mouth.

A row took place at Modesto, Cal., Sunday evening, heretofore in the week at Ed. Bolen. His neck was severed to a thin, and he was brought in a critical condition after receiving the injuries. He died shortly with the wound him. He refused to a dear friend, and the latter hastened him to the office.

Hyam Jaley, a Russian, was assaulted recently by Allen Kingsbury at Oakland, Cal., on Sunday. Last Tuesday Jaley obtained a warrant in some manner and was on his way to Kingsbury. The latter heard of the threat and prepared for the encounter. Sunday afternoon Jaley drove a friend to the Oaks and was returning home, when, a short distance from the depot, he came suddenly and without warning Kingsbury, the foot. Jaley making no effort to defend himself and escaped without injury. He reached home and, seeing it to sell, and attempted to draw a revolver. But the Weapon came there and Jaley reached for it with the other hand. Kingsbury then drew his own revolver and fired one shot at the Russian. The bullet entered Jaley's left arm near the shoulder. Jaley threw up his hands and ran to the ground and Kingsbury was arrested.

San Francisco Chronicle June 7: Between Robert Henry S. Tarbet divorce we received a large audience at Pythian Castle yesterday, his subject being "Liberalism and Infidelity" (so-called). "Many people think it manly and noble to be spicy ordinary men to overthrow the Attributes of Deity, while others hold that by misconception or crooked analysis we can demonstrate all that can be known of God. Both views are untrue. One may apply the light and power, or he may send it to the corresponding application of analytical methods, or any other means of investigation. The simplest thinker and most profound philosopher alike acknowledge that there is something beyond the material key. Evolution and infidelity are not in league with each other, as some claim. The more we learn of God and His works the greater will be our reverence and love. As we can ascertain the character and ways of the Inventor by a large view of the design, symmetry and order of the surroundings, so we can determine God's ways by His creations and the uniformity of all His doings."

A Bangladesh surrendered himself to the authorities at Stockton, Cal., Sunday morning and it now in charge of the killing of a robber at his wagon place near the Cattle Ranch house. He had a desperate fight for his life, as is proved by the strap cuts on his head and the bruises on his body. Mr. Bangemann tells a straight story. The first report was that the dead man was Dunleavy, the murderer, but the Stockton Mail received the same hour that the man was named Conrad Wilhelm. Another report has been in that part of the county for the last or twelve years and Mann is living on stealing and fleeing. The killing was done in accord in defense of Mr. Bangemann's property. He was in the house and was going when the man entered the door of his little grocery. Fearing he had come over from the saloon, for a bottle of whisky, the man's store, and was looking for it, he went to the rear, passed by. He had taken the precaution to "drop his pistol with him, for he opened one of the drawers behind the counter. He had scarcely commenced his search, when he felt a crash on and saw the left hand over his head. Mr. Bangemann is a left-handed man, a little to the rear, and re-caught the blow coming down, and reached for his pistol with his right hand, dropping to one knee. The battle which ensued was a fierce one. The men grappled and fell to the floor. Bangemann took advantage of this and drew a knife from his pocket and stabbed his assailant in the breast. Then he threw the knife away and fought for his life. The men struggled over the counter, and Bangemann with his head and the knife. They struggled and fell back, Mann on top. In the fall the knife was driven to the hilt. Then he threw the knife away and fought for his life, as he feared he would be overcome. He succeeded in getting on his feet, and as Mann arose he struck him a blow with a club that he had secured
