

MORE GUARDS FOR THE PRESIDENT.

Greater Precautions Will be Taken In Future.

ALL BECAUSE OF TEDDY JR.

Came Home Late at Night—Got Almost Home Before Secret Service Men Discovered Him.

New York, July 8.—Theodore, Jr., the oldest son of President Roosevelt, has, it is reported, had a narrow escape from being captured as a marauder by secret service men who guard his father's home at Oyster Bay. He had been visiting the home of a neighbor, returning to Sagamore Hill about 1 o'clock in the morning. The president and his family had gone to bed, and the house was in darkness. The moon was shining brightly, but because of the dense foliage objects even at a short distance were indistinct. The young man did not come up the path generally used by those going to the house. He took a short cut and approached from the rear. The secret service men on duty did not see him until he was almost on the steps. "What do you want?" one demanded. He was slow in answering and was ordered to throw up his hands. The men covered him until they got close enough to recognize the president's son. He thought it was a good joke. However, the fact that he got so close to the house before he was "picked up" by the secret service men has resulted in a change in the method of guarding the president. During some of the watches, particularly in the day time and during the early hours of the evening, only one secret service man has been on duty. After midnight two men went on and are to remain until after daylight, when they were relieved by the single man who took up the day watch. Henceforth two men will be on guard at all hours of the day and night.

REBELLION OF THE CARDINALS

In Vatican Against Dr. Lapponi's Treatment of the Pope.

RAMPOLLA CALLS MAZZONI.

Both Doctors Indignantly Resented Criticism, Asserting They Knew Full Well Course of Disease.

Rome, July 9, 1:00 a. m.—Notwithstanding the sensational dispatches published in London yesterday passed without an attack of fainting, although the pope has grown steadily weaker and is greatly prostrated. The pulse is less frequent but a little more regular. The breathing is calm and the general condition improved.

At 5:35 o'clock the pope is asleep. The condition of his lungs is worse. There is as yet no suspicion of serum gathering again in the pleura, but the disorder of his kidneys is disquieting. During the early part of the night his holiness was somewhat restless. The occasional brief periods of sleep were disturbed by difficulty in breathing. Dr. Lapponi and the pope's valet, Centra, did their best to nourish the patient at brief intervals. The pontiff spoke little and seemed much depressed. Choral and coffee were administered with good effects. About sunrise the pontiff fell into a more restorative sleep than he had all night.

The official bulletin of the pope's condition was issued at 8:15 last evening as follows: "The remainder of the day has passed without recurrence of fainting attacks. The pulse is less frequent but a little more regular. The breathing is calm and the general condition improved."

MAZZONI.
The pope's doctor of o'clock last evening, Dr. Mazzoni was suddenly called out of the sick chamber by Cardinal Rampolla, and a hurried whispered conversation ensued. The cause of the rise in the pope's condition was discussed. Dr. Mazzoni was suddenly called out of the sick chamber by Cardinal Rampolla, and a hurried whispered conversation ensued. The cause of the rise in the pope's condition was discussed.

It became known later in the day that the motive for Dr. Mazzoni's sudden call by Cardinal Rampolla originated in a question of the pope's treatment. Dr. Mazzoni stated that in his opinion there was no immediate need of a consultation, and that one would not be less than the present conditions changed.
