

JACK CLIFFORD HAS THE PUNCH.

Herrera Says He is the Hardest Hitter He Ever Fought.

MEX'S EARLY EXPERIENCE.

Bishop Agrees to Allow Herrera to Meet Downey at 130 Pounds
At Six o'clock.

Aurelio Herrera, the little Mexican fighter who is now sojourning in the city, spent the greater part of yesterday looking about town. In the afternoon he paid a visit to the police and fire departments, and for an hour regaled the crowd that followed him around with reminiscences of his early experience in the roped arena. He has a quiet, unassuming way about him, and the only thing in his make-up that is really conspicuous is a couple of extremely large and brilliant diamonds, one in his Mexican effer necktie, and the other on the little finger of his left hand.

"What I know about the boxing game I picked up from observing others," he said, "I was never taught. I did not attend a gymnasium and go through lessons with a teacher. It all came naturally. I was raised in a small town in California, and used to box a great deal with the boys there. Finally, I learned that I could whip all of them as fast as they came. Whenever I saw a movement in the ring that struck my fancy I practised it. After a while I concluded to go to Los Angeles and seek a match. I went to one of the club managers and told him who I was and asked for a match. He said he would try me out, I supposed that he meant I was to go on a preliminary and do light boxing, but I found I was mistaken. They put the toughest youngster in the town against me and gave us five ounce gloves. When I got to my corner, saw the big crowd and then saw those little gloves, my heart failed me and I told one of my seconds that I did not come to fight. I wanted to quit right there, but the man in my corner was an old hand at the business and he told me I was in for it and would have to fight. I heard one of the spectators remark that I stripped well. Another one said, 'Oh, the d-n greaser can't fight, except with a knife.' That made me sore. Then I heard another one say that I looked good. Well, that was the last word in me, but I was still badly scared when I walked to the center of the ring. In the first round this tough youngster rushed at me and hammered me about the ring, but I was not hurt. In the second round I began to jab him and found that he could not hit me if I kept my head. When I went to my corner I told my second that I could win. He advised me not to try but I was determined. It was there I learned I had a good punch. I went after that fellow and in the sixth round put him out completely. I had several fights there and won them all until I met McGovern. In that fight I claim I was given a pretty bad deal, but never mind. I never claim I can whip anybody. I say I can't, but I can protect myself and my friends. To make a long story short, I have been fighting ever since."

In speaking of his fight in Butte with Clifford, Herrera said: "While that fight was not the hardest I ever had, I will say this much for Mr. Clifford: He is the hardest hitter I ever met. That boy has an awful wallop and could hit me in the best lightweights in the business if he would only take advice from people who understand the game. But his trouble is like that of many others, he knows it all and will not take advice."

In talking about his little Mexican wonder this morning, Bishop, his manager, said: "I'll tell you about this little fellow. At times he appears a dub in the ring, but the secret of his success lies in the fact that he fools his opponents in two ways. He appears to them slow, when he is really better than they think. Then he has a punch that is simply awful. It makes no difference who the man is, if Herrera lands that right on him he goes down. His punch comes so quickly and hard that it takes all the fight out of his opponent."

Manager Bishop hopes to be able to make a match with Aurelio's brother Mauro while here. Bishop would like to match him with Tommy Markham, the Eureka boy, who has been wading through the lightweights recently.

The Bishops held two conferences yesterday to try and arrange a match between the Mexican and Jack Downey. At the first meeting Biddy refused to fight at 130 pounds. The best he would do was 128, but at the second meeting he finally agreed to let his man go on at 130 at 6 o'clock on the afternoon of the contest. The date of the bout has not been decided upon as yet, but it is probable that it will take place at the Salt Palace arena on the second of next month. The men will post forfeits of $250 each to bind the match and make the weight. Downey will train in Ogden canyon at the quarters where George Ardner trained for his not-to-be-forgotten fight with Jack Root. Herrera expects to secure training quarters in Prof. Thompson's gymnasium.

GRAND OPERA SOLD.

Reported that Smathers Bought Horse from "Pittsburg Phil."

New York, June 25.—E. E. Smathers is reported to have purchased from George E. Smith, known on the turf as "Pittsburg Phil," the latter's star running horse, Grand Opera. The price is said to have been $11,000. The Jockey club stewards announced Tuesday that entries from Smith's stables would be refused.

While this may have hurried the sale of the horse, Smith declares he had already planned to dispose of his string. Grand Opera will be shipped to Chicago, where the Smathers stable is now racing.

LIPTON GIVEN DINNER.

Entertained at Waldorf Astoria by Two Scores of Friends.

New York, June 24.—Sir Thomas Lipton was the guest of honor at a dinner given tonight at the Waldorf Astoria by two scores of his friends. Maj.-Gen. Henry C. Corbin presided. Among those present were Assistant United States Treasurer Hamilton Fish, Collector Stranahan, Senator Fairbanks, Chas. M. Schwab, Gen. Chaffee, Wm. Pife, Jno. H. Flagler, Warner Miller and Ferdinand W. Peck of Chicago.

There were neither set speeches nor toasts, but most of those present made felicitous remarks, the trend of all being heartily welcome to Sir Thomas Lipton.

Sir Thomas when he arose to respond, said he was deeply touched by the kind words of the speakers. He had come to the United States, as on former occasions, to take back with him a most treasured possession.

"I don't want to appear too sanguine of the result," he said, "But I have very great hopes; in fact, I freely confess that I think this time Shamrock III is a very fast boat, much faster than anything I have had before, although I have a great respect for Mr. Harreshoff and those defending the cup. I feel that I have a very good chance of winning it, thanks to the skill of my very good friend, Mr. Pife."

ROWDY RAIL PLAYERS.

General Mix-up on Diamond at Los Angeles Yesterday.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 24.—Urbeg was easy for the locals today and San Francisco was beaten by the score of 7 to 4. So fierce was the rivalry between the Los Angeles and San Francisco teams grown that the least little thing seems to set them on edge and precipitate a wordy war. Yesterday it was Pabst and Wheeler and today Spies, Pabst and Leahy who attempted to mix matters.

In the fourth inning Pabst swung his bat back and struck Spies on the shin. Pabst was out at first and as he walked back Spies met him half way, stripped off his mask and protector and wanted to know what he meant. They engaged in a wordy war until Leahy rushed out and said to Spies: "If you want to fight, fight me." Spies made a rush at Leahy and it took all the players and two special officers to hold the Los Angeles players.

Spies then invited Leahy outside the grounds but his invitation was declined. Spies took his seat on the bench but Leahy continued to talk to the other players. A special officer told Leahy to sit down. There was a mix and an exchange of blows between the other and the San Francisco catcher. Officers interfered and the incident closed.

A "STAR" BURGLAR.

Steps into a Saloon, Rings Up $5 and Departs.

A humorous burglar last night visited the Star saloon on Second South, carried a few brief moments, abstracted $5 from the cash register and most politely rang up that amount and then vanished. While the bartender was looking the front door he is supposed to have entered at the rear by the simple process of breaking a pane of glass, inserting his hand and unlocking the door. The bartender went to a restaurant next door to get something to eat. In a few minutes he returned and speedily noticed that someone had rung up $5 on the register, presumably for a bottle of Mumm's extra dry. As the Star was out of champagne an investigation followed. Subsequently, the police were notified but it looks as though the burglar has got away with the price of 100 beers safely in his pocket.

AN INTERESTING RELIC.

Contractor Campbell Has a Gun Carried by Tracy.

Contractor Campbell of the Federal building has an interesting relic in one of the Winchester rifles carried by Convict Tracy in his escape from the Oregon state prison. It seems that two citizens of Salem had started out with great zeal and a wide and varied assortment of guns, both great and small, to capture the convicts, Tracy and Merrill. They were in a wagon, and when about 14 miles north of Salem came across the convicts who seemed to be like ordinary, inoffensive citizens, and no attention was paid to them. The inoffensive looking citizens, however, were no sooner even with the buggy than they pulled four revolvers and made the walking arsenal in the buggy surrender everything, and leave for town. Then the two convicts drove off with their capture. The Winchester now in the possession of Mr. Campbell was part of the arsenal, and was used by Tracy to afterwards kill Merrill and do other damage with. He finally threw it away as he had more ammunition than he could well take care of. The gun was found, its ownership established and ratted off for quite a sum. It was won by Mr. Campbell's son and left to Mr. Campbell at the death of his son later.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which he claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Conchella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by all druggists.

SOCIALIZING ITALIANS.

Something of the Work of a Y. M. C. A. Man Interested in Salt Lake.

J. G. Phelps Stokes, the well known mining man who visits this city whenever he makes a western trip, is engaged in the philanthropic work in New York City of socializing Italians. A recent issue of the New York Tribune says of this: A brand new social settlement, backed by many prominent and influential people and designed to take the place of the West Side branch of the University Settlement, which is to be abandoned on Sept. 1, has been planned. Among those back of the new settlement are J. G. Phelps Stokes, Prof. F. R. Giddings, W. Kirkpatrick Brice and Seymour L. Cromwell. The new settlement is to occupy the building at present rented by the West Side branch, which adjoins the police station in Macdougall street, and possibly that at No. 3 King street, which is also leased by the University Settlement society. A corps of residents has already been secured, and enough money, $5,000 or $7,000 in fact, has been pledged to meet the expenses and rentals for one year. Indeed, nearly every detail, save that of a name for the new settlement, has been determined on and the prospects of a prosperous career are exceedingly bright.

CALLER—Dear old Jack, I just read in the paper about your being sun-struck, and rushed right over. I'm awfully glad you're as well as you are. You're lucky. Now, old man, I don't want to work the old "I told you so" gag on you, but the way to prevent sunstroke is to keep the bowels clean and cool, and the blood from being over-heated, by taking a CASCARET Candy Cathartic at bed-time. They work while you sleep, and keep you safe and comfortable all day.
