MESSINGER BOYS STRIKE

Sixteen lads from Western Union Office take French leave of jobs.

Sixteen messengers of the Western Union Telegraph company are on strike. They walked out yesterday noon because it was July 24, and they wanted a few hours off. Instead of asking for this concession they placed a note on Manager Long's desk informing him that "us boys are on strike. We demand shorter hours holidays and Sundays."

Mr. Long stated this morning that none of the boys would be taken back, but that a new force was being organized today, and would be added to until the complete strength was reached. The telephone is being used to deliver messages in connection with the office force and the small boys employed since the strike.

CHAUQUQUA IN FULL SWING

Crowds Thronged Wandamere Last Evening and Listened To Third Program.

CONTESTS START TONIGHT.

Public Interest in the Musical Event Continues—Mixed Chorus Saturday Evening Will Be Feature.

Public interest in the musical chauntiqua being held at Wandamere continues without apparent diminution, for the attendance last evening again filled the auditorium. It was solo evening in singing, piano and violin. The first three numbers on the program were changed. The first number was to have been Variations by Saint Saens, on a Beethoven theme for two pianos, by Prof. McClellan and Miss Rita Jackson, but it was not found feasible to bring a second concert grand piano to Wandamere from the city, so the number intended was changed to a piano solo by Miss Jackson, the Sonata, Appassionata, by Beethoven (opus 57, F minor). This is very difficult of execution, calling for a high order of technical talent, and as a general thing, only musicians of long experience feel like playing the work on their program. But Miss Jackson gave the number with an ease and grace that spoke much for her powers of technical accomplishment. She is a pianist of unusual promise, and is one of Prof. McClellan's pupils. Miss Jackson leaves for Germany in the fall to continue her studies in Berlin.

ANOTHER CHANGE.

Mrs. Best was to have sung "Villanelle," by Dell'Acqua, but this was changed to "Just a Wearying for You," by Bond, and she sang later, "The Danza," by Chadwick. Mrs. Best has been a favorite of the audience, which pleased the audience; but owing to the size of the pavilion and the noises outside, she was not heard to the advantage. Her singing, however, was of a high order of voice extending down into the baritone register. It is a voice of considerable power, and excellent quality, and she seemed to know how to use it. Mr. Call sang, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and an aria from the opera of "Martha." Mrs. Browning sang "Mystery," by Elgar, and "Scene de Ballet." Mr. Skelton played the violin obligato to the "Elegie," Mr. Skelton, the pianist, gave a descriptive piece by Hubert and de Beriot's "Scene de Ballet." Mr. Skelton is a finished performer, he always plays well, and last evening was no exception to the rule. His rendering of the ballad music was happy and good in interpretation.

The accompanist of the evening was Prof. J. J. McClellan, who, though tired by the unusual activities of the week, carried out his part with the intelligence of performance that has always characterized his work. The recital would have been more enjoyable had there been less hubbub without, considering the day and the great crowds on the grounds, this may have been unavoidable. But it did seem as if the engines of the miniature railway train took delight in pulling his throttle wide open and giving his steam cylinders their full length, as if the approach of the pavilion, for made an awful racket, which emphasized further by an allopathic use of his whistle.

CONTESTS TONIGHT.

The contests begin this evening, and continue for the remainder of the week, with the mixed chorus competition coming on the last night. The list of the contestants and participants are as follows, the events being so divided up that none too many of the same class will be given together, thus avoiding monotony:

NEWSPAPER MEN WEATHER FINE FOR RESORT MEN

Visiting Soribes from Washington, D. C., the Guests of Gov. J. C. Cutler.

THEY ARE AT PROVO TODAY.

En Route to Strawberry Valley to Investigate the Government Reclamation Work Under Way.

The visiting newspapermen who are out west investigating President Roosevelt's land policy, spent yesterday taking in the sights of Salt Lake and in the evening left for Provo, where they are the guests of Senator Reed Smoot on a trip over to Strawberry valley.

Several members of the party are greatly amused at the attitude of the "American" party organ and its wall that "Mormon elders corner visitors and hang on to them like leeches all day." W. J. Jernam, Washington correspondent of the Minneapolis Journal, who is one of the party, said before leaving: "I think we know the situation and we also know Senator Smoot from our association with him in person. His observation since he has been at Washington. He is a fine fellow."

Yesterday afternoon they were the guests of Gov. John C. Cutler at the Alta club, where luncheon was served and some short addresses were features. Among the speakers were Gov. J. C. Cutler, Representative Joseph H. C. Callister, John Derr, T. B. Cutler, and C. J. Blanchard.

T. C. Callister, secretary of the state board of land commissioners, outlined the general policy of the federal government in the disposition of public lands in Utah. During his remarks, he recommended that more attention be paid to the dry farming features, which was now coming prominently to the front.

TRIBUTE TO GOVERNMENT.

Representative Howell paid a tribute to the government in the part it had played in developing the country since the days of the pioneers. John Derr spoke on the mining industry and asserted that one of the heaviest expenses connected with the development of a mine was that of timber, which had to be brought in from the north.

T. B. Cutler's review of the sugar beet industry was followed with interest. During his remarks he asserted that Utah was the first state to raise sugar beets under irrigation, and that more farmers own their own lands than in any other state in the Union.

GOV. CUTLER'S SPEECH.

Gov. John C. Cutler's address, in part, was as follows: "We have with us today a party of newspaper men, who are reporting to their papers conditions as they exist in these states, and I suppose the sentiment of the people with reference to the government's policy, but that sentiment, the policy as I have understood it may not be out of place as an introduction to what may follow in the way of discussion."

"I am disposing of public property, such as the lands in the various states, whether agricultural, mineral, timber, or grazing lands, and the streams, on which the productiveness of the lands is based, and an industry is being developed, and the general government, as far as possible, to place this property in the hands of those who will use it for actual settlement, and not for speculation. I am disposing of public property, and it is an admirable one, to prevent the forming of great syndicates and corporations, for the purpose of cheaply monopolizing the land, and thus enriching their promoters at the expense of bona fide home-makers, has been discouraged."

"Of course it is sometimes found necessary to form syndicates and companies for carrying out projects that are too large for men to handle individually. We have some of these in the State of Utah. But in these cases the object and the ultimate end is to benefit the people, not to oppress them, or to destroy competition. But the policy still has been, and it is an admirable one, to prevent so far as possible, the establishing of a monopoly."

"It may sometimes appear that in seeking the greatest good for the greatest number, an injustice is done to some who are interested. This would appear in the case of setting aside certain forest reserves, to the detriment of the lumber industry, and the withdrawal of certain mineral lands from entry under the present system, until the real value of these lands may be at least approximately ascertained. It is easily seen that the disadvantage is only temporary. Because the first of these will result in the great increase of the water supply, and the second, the timber and additional vegetation, the value of which will more than balance any temporary inconvenience. And as to the second case, the government and the state should be entitled to a fair price for the lands they have to dispose of."

"These lands form a large part of the resources of the state and of the government, and it is only fair that when there is a doubt as to the real value of certain lands, an opportunity shall be given to the people to acquire them. If a wrong and wasteful system has prevailed in the past, let it be corrected. Let the people be supplied by the right one."

THOSE IN PARTY.

Those who attended the function were: J. J. Blanchard, chief publisher of the forest reserve; W. W. Jernam, representing the Minneapolis Journal; G. E. Miller of the Detroit News; Thomas R. Shipley, private secretary to Senator Beveridge of Indiana and representing the Washington Star; J. A. Hornaday of the Indianapolis News; State Forest Supervisor Benedict; W. W. Ford of the Boston Transcript; Angus McSwen of the Philadelphia North American; D. H. McAdam of the St. Louis Republic; Gov. J. C. Cutler; Judge Elias A. Smith, Congressman Joseph Howell; T. B. Cutler, State Treasurer James Christensen; T. C. Callister, John E. Ausland, president of the board of sheep commissioners; State Senator John Y. Smith, D. M. Landreth, John Derr, Owen Carter, C. A. Glazier, state bank examiner; James Clave, postmaster at Provo; and William Dore, secretary of the governor.

WEATHER FINE FOR RESORT MEN

All Places Where Crowds Gather For Amusement Crowded On Pioneer Day.

BATHING DRAWS MULTITUDE.

Five Hundred Canadians Take a Dip In Lake at Old Black Rock Resort.

People who took advantage of Pioneer day yesterday to get away from offices and flock to the resorts, the canyons, the fishing streams, and the mountain nooks were more numerous than on any other Utah holiday, this probably because the city and its environs are growing so rapidly and there are more people now to participate in festival affairs.

Lagoon probably drew the banner crowd, for the picnic spirit was strong in the hearts of those who wanted to get away from home, and the laws by the Davis county lake were thronged all afternoon with families at lunch, and all of the city, James K. Shaw & Co., over 133 Main Street.

BIG CROWD AT SALT LAKE.

The slight haze in the atmosphere protected bathers at Saitair from the hot sun, and made this feature very attractive. The lake was well patronized all afternoon, both at Saitair and at Black Rock, where 500 Canadians tried a dip in the brine at the point where the Utah pioneers first found that they could not sink in it and record their impression that it was one of the world's wonders. The lack of convenience at Black Rock made this excursion only a partial success, as only a few bathers were able to get to the shore, and the people who were there were not able to get to the shore.

RACES AT SAUCER.

At Salt Palace a program of bicycle races packed the saucer in the evening and other attractions kept the grounds well filled through the afternoon when the various concessions were heavily patronized.

Wandamere packed the race track grand stand in the afternoon, when the racing program was called, and in the evening its remarkable coolness due to its position beneath the high Wasatch peaks, and in the path of the canyon breezes kept it filled with strollers and dancers, many of the latter remaining until the last cars to enjoy the program in the pavilion.

One reliable feature of the day was the absence of serious accidents. The spectacular features of the Fourth of July do not characterize the day, and rest and recreation in family groups rather than the searching and the largest noise and the biggest firecracker. It is possibly on this account that those who went out after pleasure yesterday returned without a mishap to record.

CURED THREE OF THE FAMILY WITH ONE BOTTLE OF CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.
"I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and found it to be all I claimed for it in the advertisement. I have used it in my family with good results in summer complaints. H. E. Howe, publisher of the Press, Highland, Wis. For sale by all druggists."
