POWER TO DO GOOD UNRESTRAINED.

Address by

ELDER GEORGE ALBERT SMITH.

At the Seventy-Sixth Semi-Annual Conference of the Church Of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Saturday, October 7, 1905.

My brethren and sisters, I am grateful to my Heavenly Father this morning for the privilege of meeting with you in this house of worship. While I occupy this position I desire an interest in your faith and prayers, that I may be inspired by the Holy Spirit to say such things as He would have me say unto you. I have rejoiced with you in the remarks that have been made by our brethren in this conference, and it unto you. I have rejoiced with you in the remarks that have been made by our brethren in this conference, and it has been joy to me to see the multitude of Latter-day Saints present upon this occasion. The hymn that has just been sung is an inspiration to us who live in these mountain vales. I believe the fervor with which it was sung is an evidence of the appreciation of the Latter-day Saints for the blessings of our Father upon them. We are called a peculiar people because, perchance, we thoroughly believe and obey the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Our peculiarity lies very largely in the fact that we believe the Old and New Testaments actually contain the word of the Lord, as far as they have been translated correctly. We also firmly believe the Book of Mormon, which the world knows comparitively little of; and add to that unwavering belief in the Doctrine and Covenants and Pearl of Great Price. We regard the teachings contained therein regard the teachings contained therein as revelations of our Father in heaven to His children who dwell upon this earth. It is not alone because we have faith in the books referred to that we are considered a peculiar people, but also because we confidently believe that our Father in Heaven has spoken in this day and age. In fact, we know that there is communication with the heavens. Our brethren and sisters of heavens. Our brethren and sisters of the world, generally, do not acknowledge that. We believe that Jehovah has the same feeling towards us, the same influence over us, that He had for and over His children who lived in this world in times that are past. If our peculiarity went to the extent that we lived by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of our Heavenly Father, then we would indeed be a ther, then we would indeed be a blessed people. We do, to a large de-gree, live by the testimony that has been given to us by one Padern been given to us by our Redeemer, and thus far we are a blessed people, the acknowledged children of the Lord.

There is one thing I find that we have not yet learned completely, and it comes to my mind this morning, that is, the disposition to forgive one another our trespasses. The Lord has given us great information, has revealed His mind and will unto us, has taught us things and will that us, has taught us things that the world know not of, and, in accordance with the information we have received, He holds us responsible and expects us to live a higher life, a more ideal life than those who do not as fully comprehend the Gospel as we do. The spirit of foreiveness is some-The spirit of forgiveness is something that the Latter-day Saints might with profit exhibit more fully among themselves. Sometimes a brother in authority has offended, in some way, one of the mem'ers of the Church, probably unknown to himself, and that child of our Father's slienly continues to feel hurt, instead of doing as the Lord has commanded, going to the offending man and stating to him, in kindness, the feelings of his heart, and kindness, the feelings of his heart, and giving that brother an opportunity to say to him, "I am sorry I have offended you, and I desire that you shall forgive me." The result is that, in some instances, we find a resentful feeling existing that has been instigated by Satan. Now, we must get into a con-dition where we can forgive our brethren. In connection with this matter. I will read a few verses from the eigh-teenth chapter of St. Matthew, begin-

FORGIVENESS AND CHARITY EN-JOINED.

Master upon this occasion, and Peter came to Him and said: "Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee. Until seven times but, Until seventy times seven."

Then the Savior gave a parable, which I will not take time to read, but it was a parable of two men. One of the men owed his lord a large amount of money, and he come to him and told him he could not pay what he owed, and asked might be forgiven the debt. The lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and forgave the debt. Straightway this man who had been forgiven went out and found a fellow-servant who owed him a small amount, and he demanded his pay. The poor man was unable to meet the obligaman was unable to meet that he tion, and he in turn asked that he might be forgiven the debt. But he contrary he was not forgiven; on the contrary he was taken and cast into prison by the who had already been forgiven by his lord. When the other fellow-ser-vants saw what had been done they went to the lord of this man and told him, and he was wroth and delivered the one whom he had forgiven unto torment, until he should pay all that was due. His soul was not big enough to appreciate the mercy shown him, and because of that lack of charity he lost all. lost all. At times we find little forget the patience our Father in Heaven exercises towards us, and we magnify in our hearts some trivial thing that our brother or sister may done or said concerning us. do not always live that law which the Lord desires us to observe in regard to these matters. We forget the com-mandment He gave to the Apostles in the words of the prayer, wherein they were told to pray that they might be forgiven their debts even as they forgive their debtors. I feel that we have to learn a great deal in this regard. We have a completely as we not complied as completely as we should with the requirements of our Heavenly Father. In the Book of Small Price.

Doctrine and Covenants we find a ref-erence made to this matter of for-giveness, wherein the Lord gives a commandment; it is contained in the sixty-fourth section, and refers to us in this day. It reads as follows:

"Neverthcless he has sinned, but verily I say unto you. I, the Lord, forgive sins unto those who confess their sins before me and ask forgiveness, who have not sinned unto death.

"My disciples, in days of old, sought occasion against one another, and forgave not one another in their hearts, and for this evil they were afflicted, and sorely chastened:
"Wherefore I say unto you, that ye ought to forgive one another, for he that forgiveh not his brother his trespasses, standeth condemned before the Lord, for there remained in him the greater sin."

(The verse last read is the one I would emphasize.)

"I, the Lord, will forgive whom I will forgive, but of you it is required to forgive all men;

"And ye ought to say in your hearts, let God judge between me and thee, and reward thee according to thy deeds."

If our lives were such that, when we If our lives were such that, when we differ with our neighbor, if, instead of setting ourselves up as judges one against another, we could honestly and conscientiously appeal to our Father in Heaven and say, "Lord, judge between me and my brother; thou knowest my heart; Thou knowest I have no feeling of anger against him; help us to see alike, and give us wisdom that we may deal righteously with each other," how few differences there would be, and what joy and blessings would be, and what joy and blessings would come to us! But, little difficulties arise from time to time which disturb the equilibrium of our daily lives, and we continue to be unhappy because we cherish an improper influence, and have not charity.

HOW FAITH IS LOST.

We find another reference to this matter, that has a bearing also upon another condition, in that sometimes we feel uneasy and worried when we fail to do what our Father desires of us. A man who is living in accordance with the Gospel of desus Christ is never in doubt about its success; but the man who neglects his duty, who fails to keep his covenants, loses the Spirit of the Lord, and he then begins to wonder what will become of Zion. Whenever you, my fellow laborers, feel there is something wrong with the Whenever you, my fellow laborers, feel there is something wrong with the Church, go into your secret places and kneel down before the Lord, examine your heart, and you will find every time that there is something in your own life that occasions doubt; the tempter is working on your mind, causing you to feel that perhaps Zion will not be victorious. Whenever you are doing your full duty, you will know, as you know that you live, that it is our Father's work, and that He will bring it off triumphant. We find in the ninety-eighth section of the Doctrine and Covenants the following reference:

PATIENCE UNDER PERSECUTION.

"And again I say unto you, if ye observe to do whatsoever I command you, I, the Lord, will turn away all wrath and indignation from you, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against you."

This is the word of our Father in Heaven to us.

And again with reference to patience under persecution:

under persecution:
'Now I speak unto you concerning your families; if men will smite you, or your families, once, and ye bear it pa-tiently and revile not against them, neither seek revenge, ye shall be re-But if ye bear it not patiently, it shall be accounted unto you as being meted out a just measure unto you."

This also is the word of the Master unto us. If we live according to this law, we will grow in grace and strength day by day day by day, and in favor with our Heavenly Father. Faith will increase in the hearts of our children. They will love us for the uprightness and integrity of our lives, and they will rejoice that they have been born of such parents. parents. I say to you that this com-mandment is not given in an idle way; mandment is not given in an idle way; for the Lord has declared that He does not give any law indifferently, but every law is given that it may be kept and lived up to by us. We will be in this world only a short time. The youngest and strongest of us are simply preparing for the other life, and before the content of the strongest of the strong fore we get into the glory of our Fa-ther and enjoy the blesings that we hope to receive through faithfulness, we will have to live the laws of vatience, and exercise forgiveness toward those who trespass against us, and remove from our hearts all feelings of hatred toward them.

"And again, if your enemy shall smite you the second time, and you revlie not against your enemy, and bear it patiently, your reward shall be an hundred fold.

And again, if he shall smite you the third time, and ye bear it ratiently, your reward shall be doubled unto you

"And these three testimonies shall stand against your enemy if he repent not, and shall not be blotted out."

ADMONITION TO DUTY.

There is a disposition on the part of some returned Elders, and other men who hold the Priesthood, and women, who hold positions in the Church, to neglect Sacrament meetings and other important duties, and to confine their labors to some special calling. They may be officers and teachers in the Sunday school, and when they perform their Sabbath school labor, consider that sufficient; or, they may be Mutual Improvement workers, and if they dis-charge their obligations in that regard they consider their whole duty done But, this is an erroneous idea. We are required to live by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of our Father in Heaven. We are expected to so conduct ourselves day by day that, if we see distress or want, or need of advice and counsel on any occasion, we should forthwith act as servants of the Lord in very deed. We find in the the Lord in very deed. We find in the fifty-eighth section of the Doctrine and Covenants a reference to this matter: I desire to read it to you, because it is the word of the Lord with reference

"For behold, it is not meet that a should command in all things, for he that is compelled in all things, the same is a slothful and not a wise servant; wherefore he receiveth no

'Verily I say, men should be anxiously engaged in a good cause, and do many things of their own free will, and bring to pass much righteousness: "For the power is in them, wherein they are agents unto themselves. And inasmuch as men do good they shall in nasmuch as men do good they shall in nowise lose their reward.

"But he that doeth not anything until he is commanded, and receiveth a commandment with doubtful heart, and keepeth it with slothfulness, the same is damned.

"Who am I that made man, saith the Lord, that will hold him guiltless that obeys not my commandments?" I feel that we are representatives of great people. We have met together from all the stakes and branches of the Church. We have come to be fed by the Spirit of our Master. When we go back to our homes, if there are those among us who are indifferent and careless, it is our duty to call their attention to the Scriptures and to bring them face to face with the commandments of our heavenly Father. There are many young men who are indifferent and careless, but who possess some ability, and as the Lord has said in this revelation, they should not wait to be commanded, but volunteer to go forth and, in the authority of the Holy Priestnood, labor for the salvation of the souls of the children of men.

CAUSE FOR GRATITUDE.

Grateful should we be, that in the fastnesses of these grand mountains, our feet have been planted; and that the Messian has imparted to us a knowledge that the Gospel is true. Grateful should we be for a knowledge of the eternity of the marriage covenant. If in this life only had we hope, we would indeed be of all men most miserable. The assurance that our relationship here as parents and children, as husbands and wives will continue in heaven, and that this is but the beginning of a great and glorious kingdom that our Father has destined we shall inherit on the other side, fills us with hope and joy. One of the greatest evidences to me of the divinity of this work is that it teaches there is eternal life on the other side, and that there will be a reunion there of the loved ones who have known each other here. Consequently, as parents, we may well be patient and loving toward our children, for they will eternally ables with us on the other side. we may well be patient and loving to-ward our children, for they will etern-ally abide with us on the other side, if we and they are faithful. The few years that we live here may be re-garded as a time in which we become acquainted, but, when we mingle in the other life, we will know each other better than we have here. Grate-ful am I that this testimony has been other better than we have here. Grateful am I that this testimony has been given me, and for the knowledge that the Savier was indeed the Redeemer of the world. Thankful am I for the testimony that Joseph Smith was indeed a Prophet of the Lord, and that every one of those who have succeeded him, in the exalted calling of president of this Church, have been inspired by the same spirit that characterized Joseph Smith's life. I am glad to add my testimony to the integrity of Joseph F. Smith. No matter what the world may think of him, no matter what unkind things they have said of him, I testify to you that he is, indeed, a servant of the Lord, that he stands at the head of this work, by Divine apthe head of this work, by Divine ap-pointment, and that there is no power, either in earth or in hell, that can deeither in earth or in hell, that can desiroy the influence our Father has given to him. He is surrounded by men who are faithful and true, men who love the Saints better than their very lives, men who devote the energies and powers that God has given unto them to your blessing. They leave their homes and the comforist thereof, and labor constantly, not that they may be glorified, but that you and your families and all mankind may be saved and exalted. Honor and love these men, sustain them with your these men, sustain them with your faith and prayers, and as you uphold them in the positions to which they have been called, so will our Father in Heaven sustain and bless and magin Heaven sustain and bless and magnify you in the eyes of your families and those with whom you associate. May the peace of heaven be with us. May the ensuing meetings be a joy and blessing to every one of us, as were those of yesterday. May we have the Spirit of the Master dwelling within us, that we may forgive all men as He has commanded, forgive, not only with our lips, but in the very depths of our hearts, every trespass that may have been committed against us. If we do this through life, the blessings of the Lord will abide in our hearts and our homes, which may God grant, in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

The matter in this column is edited and prepared by ladies of Ogden interested in temperance work.

Judge Pollard, of St. Louis, Inaugurates New System in "Drunks" Cases.

Judge William Jeff Pollard, of the Second district police court, has a "lid" all of his own. He doesn't put the "lid" on saloons, but on individuals. For some time Judge Pollard has been reoutring certain classes of drinkers, es-pecially those who fall to provide for their families, or abuse their wives, to sign an ironclad temperance pledge.

A good example is found in John Rothmeyer, a teamster of 1223 north Sixth street, who was on the police court carpet for getting drunk and frightening the wits out of his wife by his threatening conduct. The three lit-tle Rothmeyers, ranging in age from 2 to 8 years, took refuge under the to escape the wrath of their father. Rothmeyer was penitent when sobered up, but he found a charge of disturbing the peace lodged against him, and saw the work house staring him in the

Mrs. Rothmeyer was in delicate health and if the father had been sent to the work house for a month there would have been no one to provide for the family. Judge Pollard called the of-fending teamster to the bar of justice and had a heart-to-heart talk with him Rothmeyer admitted his wrongdoing He wanted to quit drinking.

Well, I'll give you an opportunity "Well, I'll give you an opportunity," said the judge, producing one of his printed slips. "You just sign this temperance pledge for a year."

A year from Oct, 11 looked very long to the teamster, But 60 days in the workhouse looked infinitely more aweinspiring. He would much rather abstain from "booze" for a year than to break rock for two months. He signed the pledge.

the pledge.
"Now, what you want to do is to keep away from drink for the first month, said Judge Pollard. "I am going to impose a fine of $25 on you, which I will stand on good behavior. I live at 3654 Finney avenue. Now on the night of Oct, 17 and 23 you must report to me at my house. Bring your wife you. Come at night so you won't have to lose any time from work, because your family needs all the money you can earn. Then report to this cour on Oct. 30 and if you have kept the pledge I will stay the fine, but remem-ber that any time during the year that you are found drinking I will put the work house.' Rothmeyer thanked Judge Pollard for the opportunity of keeping sober, "Remember, now, you've got to keep sober," said the court, warningly. "The law compels you to. I want to hear that you have made a better man of yourself and that you are providing for your wife and children as a husband and father should."

With that Rothmeyer left the court room with his wife, who carried her youngest child in her arms. "As long as the germ of good is not dead I believe it is the duty of the court to save such men from themselves and for their families," said Judge Pollard. "I would rather make my court a tribunal of reformation than of punishment. I want to do the best for the defendant and the best for the city. Of course it would do no good to make a confirmed drunkard take the pledge. The work house is the only place for him. But I have been requir-

MOTHER AND CHILD.

Let the mother take Scott's Emulsion for the two: it never fails to benefit them both. One can eat for two, but nourishing two is a different thing. It calls for a degree of internal strength that the average woman lacks. People of luxury are not very strong by habit; overworked people are weak in some functions from exhaustion or their surroundings. Scott's Emulsion can be depended upon to overcome such conditions. It is a wonderful food for a mother and child.

Judge Pollard requires several men to sign his pledge every week. His re-ports show that very few persons have broken it, and most of those who have taken it have completely reformed. Af-ter staying sober a year it isn't a hard matter to make temperance permanent. Judge Polland paid the rent for one woman whose husband he was compelled to send to the work house for drunkenness, and he and Police Capt. Pickel jointly paid the rent for another, The Second district court is the only tribunal in America which requires defendants to sign a temperance pledge. The innovation has worked admirably

NEW HYMN BOOK AND PSALMODY.

A new edition of the L. D. S. Hymn Book (the twenty-fourth), revised un-der the direction of the Church Au-thorities, has just been issued by the Deseret News. Many improvements will be observed. The names of the authors, as far as they could be ascertained, have been appended to each hymn. Special type was selected for the edition, to secure a large, plain and bold print, without increasing the size of the book. Thirteen new selected hymns have been added to the collec-tion, among which are "Onward, Christion Soldier." "Peace Be Still," "Rock of Ages," "Abide With Me," the two National anthems, "America" and National anthems, "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner," and several others.

NEW PSALMODY.

A new edition of the L. D. S. Psalmody has been issued to correspond with the revised Hymn Book, it also contains the music for the additional thirteen hymns. New plates have been made throughout. The book, though enlarged in its number of pages, has been somewhat reduced in form, mak-ing it more convenient for choir use. The price has also been reduced in the various binds, as follows: Cloth $1.25; half leather, $1.50; limp leather $1.75; and full morocco gilt, $2.50. Both Hymn Book and Psalmody are now ready at the Deseret News Book Store
