OF THE

STANDARD DICTIONARY

This rare work of nearly 2,400 pages. each volums weighing 171/2 pounds, beautifully bound in embossed leather, issued by Funk and Wagnalls of London and New York, is now on sale at the Deseret News office. One hundred volumes have just been received. This is the work in the compliation of which Dr. James E. Talmage was engaged as one of the 200 editors. Its thoroughness is well illustrated by its treatment of the single word "Quorum," as follows:

"Quorum:" 1. Such a number of persons of any deliberative or corporate body as is necessary for the legal transaction of business; unless otherwise ordered, a majority, 2. (Eng.) Certain designated justices of the beace commissioned as JUSTICES OF THE QUORUM, without the pressure of some coachy whom JUSTICES OF THE QUORUM, without the presence of some one of whom the others could not act. 3. Mor. Ch. A council or organized body of the priesthood; as an Elders' quorum; the quorum of the first Presidency. 4. Necessary constituents. E. L. T. HARRISON.

To the Editor:

The death of E. L. T. Harrison calls to my mind a few thoughts that induce me to offer you these lines.

It is well known that I have long been a person hated and reviled to an unlimited extent because I have for more than ten years opposed the prejudices of Mormon-haters. Long before I became personally acquainted with a Mormon I was quietly studying the people and their history, particularly their history in Utah.

Very soon after coming to Salt Lake I heard the story of the Mormons from anti-Mormon men and women, who appeared to me to be too bitter, too hateful, to be just, and I early made up my mind not to accept their statements without verification.

I met H. W. Lawrence by chance and learned of his experience of thirty years ago. Finding him to be a conservative man, I asked him if he could recommend to me any person who could tell me all about Mormonism without malice. He at once secured for me an introduction to Mr. Harrison, and the latter made an appointment for me at his home, from which his remains were taken to the grave yesterday. I was to come early in the evening-it was January. I met a hearty welcome from the gentieman and his daughters. The latter, knowing my errand, excused themselves out, and Mr. Harrison talked while I wrote notes for not less than four hours. About ten o'clock there came a knock upon the door and one of the daughters came in with an elegant lunch. Said the father—the girls al-ways called him "Pater"—"Caddy thinks I will talk you to death if she doesn't give you something sustaining." Caddy said—"Mr. Ellis, we know all about this. When pater gets a listener who wants to know about Mormonism, it is dangerous to the seeker after knowledge, and I want you to protect yourself with coffee and cake."

We accepted the lunch with thanks, disposed of it, and went on. I left about midnight, and had learned a great deal about Mormonism that I had never even dreamed of, and I knew that I had not been listening to an anti-Mormon, although he told me the story of his being cut off from the Church. Many an hour I spent at the same genial home subsequently, and many a talk I had with Mr. Harrison in continuation of the one subject that held my attention, I found Mr. Harrison fully famillar with the subject and glad to give information in regard to it. Of Brig-ham Young he often spoke. His objections to Brigham's policy he detailed clearly. He thought Brigham too despotic. But in all my conversation with Mr. Harrison I never heard him speak one word in bitterness against the Mor-mons, not one scintilla of malice could I ever detect in his references to Brig-ham, although the latter had arbitrarham, almough the latter had arbitrar-ily—as Mr. Harrison thought—furned him out of the Church. When I found myself "rattled" with listening to the denunciations of Brigham by some anti-Mormon man or woman, I would lay the matter before Mr. Harrison and have him discuss it all in his mild, honest way, and he never falled to give me light. I have always felt grateful to E. L. T. Harrison for the ald he gave me. He often said he intended to write a book on Mormonism, but it was not to be. At the time I made his acquaint ance, in 1889, his mind was clear and sweet as the music of silver bells. gave him in return a knowledge of our American Unitarianism. He had scarcely more than heard of it. In fact, I was the first to introduce Unitarianism into Utah, by means of several lectures, in the spring of 1889; and a number of persons, including E. L. T. Harrison and W. S. Godbe, passed a resolution at the close of my last lecture asking me to return and organize a Unitarian soci ety. Mr. Harrison was profoundly in erested, as this episode will show. als mental faculties weakened, he long retained memory of faces, while that of ideas faded. Once, years after the times alluded to above, we met. He was as cordial as ever, but, with a half-weakened recollection of our early talks, he said: "Is there any Unitarian church in Salt Lake?"

It was sad to see his bright, genial mind fading away. But never in my life have I seen a person grow old and frail with such a cheerful, childlike disposition. His mental life turned to mirthfulness. I shall never forget the last time I met him. He was as full of joke and pure fun as a boy home from Pardon the length of my letter. I will lose it at once by saying that, in my judgment, no purer spirit than that of E. L. T. Harrison ever passed from this life in this city. I am proud to say that I owe to Mr. Harrison much that enabled me to estimate the Mormons and Mormonism at their true worth, and also much that showed me anti-Mor-monism in the full measure of its detestable hatefulness.
