FLAG PRESENTATION AT FORT DOUGLAS

Beautiful Banner Sent to Local Post As Recognition of Temperance Work—Chaplain's Address.

The Fort Douglas chapel was crowded Thursday evening, on the occasion of the presentation of a handsome silken American flag to the Christian Temperance union at the Post by Mrs. E. E. Shepherd for the National Convention of the W. C. T. U. which met recently at Omaha. Mrs. Shepherd made a neat speech, stating that now Mrs. Thatcher, chairman of the national W. C. T. U. committee on work among the soldiers and sailors, handed over this flag to the boys at Fort Douglas, as the Christian Temperance union here had gained more members and secured more signatures to the temperance pledge than any other similar society in the army. Mrs. Shepherd draped the flag around the chapel pulpit where it appeared to advantage.

Mrs. C. A. Walker who presided, made the acceptance for the soldiers, Chaplain Clemens of the Fifteenth, fought gave a short talk, and there was a temperance dramatic recitation by Mrs. H. Lang.

Chaplain John T. Axton of the Fifteenth infantry made a most interesting address. He prefaced his remarks with several anecdotes of army life. He told how a chaplain at Leavenworth sent a soldier's letter to one of these places where the green baize doors swing in and out so readily and frequently. He called after the soldier, "Hello, hello," but Riley didn't hear. When the soldier came out, the chaplain said, "Hello, you didn't hear me?" "Sure, Chaplain, I heard you," Riley said. "Then why didn't you come out?" "Well, I was afraid you'd be angry," Riley said. "Then why didn't you come out?" "Well, I was afraid you'd be angry," Riley said.

Chaplain Axton then warned the boys against the evil effects of intoxicating drink on the average soldier which brought him so often before Judge Duffy (the court martial usual on such occasions), and related a touching incident of a volunteer in the Philippines who after the war went into the saloon business and in his last days of sickness the house of the Eighteenth infantry cared for him, and sent a nurse to the dying man's sister in Rhode Island. Then the speaker took up the matter of desertion, calling attention to how the deserters were treated by the army, and how in his last days of sickness the house of the Eighteenth infantry cared for him, and sent a nurse to the dying man's sister in Rhode Island. Then the speaker took up the matter of desertion, calling attention to how the deserters were treated by the army, and how in his last days of sickness the house of the Eighteenth infantry cared for him, and sent a nurse to the dying man's sister in Rhode Island.

At the close of the speaking, temporary pledges were circulated for signatures. These meetings are being held under the auspices of the Salt Lake W. C. T. U. and are made as interesting as possible, and the commissioned officers were present.

BOY HELD FOR THEFT. Two Arrests Made of Members of Gang of Youthful Terrorists.

Earl Barber, 19 years of age, and Herbert Ray, 15 years old, were arrested Thursday afternoon by Patrolman Price, who thought that in them he had captured two members of a gang of boys who have been terrorizing the northwestern section of the city. Ray was allowed to go home with his mother, after Chief of Police Barlow was satisfied that he had nothing to do with certain thefts.

Barber, however, was placed in the city prison. It is alleged that he and several other boys looked a barn belonging to H. Winters, a sheepman, of 290 west Second North street.

AMUSEMENTS

Theater—The advance sale for Coliseum musical play, "The Talk of New York" began briskly at the theater box office this morning.

Orpheum—Tomorrow evening the last performance of this week's Orpheum bill will be given. George Bloomquist in "Mercury" will head the new bill.

Colonial—The final performances of "In Wyoming" at this house are being given by the company.

One of the nearby attractions at the Colonial which opens week after next, is the stirring play "Human Hearts" and the most successful of its kind. It is still in the hands of Mr. Nankeville, who promises some treats in the scenic line.

Grand—The attendance at the Mack company's renditions of "The Squaw Man" keeps up steadily, and the usual jam is looked for at the Saturday matinee tomorrow.

Bungalow—The general excellence which has characterized the bills at the Bungalow was upheld last night on the weekly change when a large house sat through nearly three hours of fine vaudeville entertainment. The program was nicely balanced and every act was well staged.

Something new in the educated dog line was provided by Prof. Seymour who exhibited a number of canines in attractive and decidedly original stunts. The star act, "A Villain at Lunch Time," enacted with almost the intelligence of man, was a feature which brought forth a large audience.

The Dixie trio made a tremendous hit. They have moulded together a conglomeration of sparkling humor with their singing and dancing which makes a most finished production. Their jokes are new and clean, their songs are tuneful and catchy, and their dancing introduces some new combinations which are distinctly pleasing.

Jacques Greno, who is billed as an "Equilibrium Wizard," has some new things in the balancing line and affords an interesting exhibition. An illustrated song by Miss Myrtle Ballinger carries with it attractive scenes and a well rendered vocal exposition.

The Clarkes tickle the banjo delightfully, succeeding in getting some neat effects from the instrument and a generous recall from the audience. Buckner, a sensational cyclist, introduces some specialties which have not heretofore been seen on any of the local stages.

The same bill continues for a week including daily matinees except on Monday and Thursday.

INTERESTING PROGRAM. At Thursday evening's meeting of the Salt Lake chapter of American Institute of Banking, a feature of the evening was piano numbers by Miss Irene Kelly. The prepared program was carried out, and it was announced that at a special meeting next Thursday evening, E. C. Ashton would lecture on commercial law. The chapter is arranging to hold a debate in the near future, on the postal savings bank proposition.
