A Workman's Unfortunate Accident—Burglars Try the Chloroform Trick—Other Items.

Southwestern Kansas is suffering from a lack of fuel.

The Wyoming penitentiary now contains only one female prisoner. She is a prevailing possession.

Santa Fe, N. M., is now shipping its apple crop to market. The shipments by express amount to about 10,000 each week.

At Table Rock, Neb., the Hon. Jas. A. Cope, for many years a member of the Nebraska legislature, is reported slowly dying from a relapse to his grave.

Thomas Tannler, a sporting man, was shot and probably fatally wounded by William Gallagher, a bibo, after midnight Sunday at a saloon in San Francisco. It was the result of a quarrel over a girl.

Governor Hughes of Arizona has pardoned Erastus Thornton, who was serving a ten years' sentence for manslaughter. Thornton was convicted on circumstantial evidence at Tombstone, May 22, 1891, but recently Deputy Sheriff Laguna confessed to having committed the crime, and is now serving a sentence for the same offense.

It is rumored that Reno is a pet point on foot for a German syndicate to purchase 1,000 acres of land near the place, says the Payette (Idaho) Independent. If so, shall await developments with a good deal of interest, because such a move would at once bring into service of the country into prominence. It is not beneficial to any one, resulting in great benefit to all.

W. C. Barclay, formerly of the ship Elizabeth, which was wrecked near the entrance of the Golden Gate about three years ago, and who saved the lives of the captain's wife and daughter by swimming with them to the capsized, has been appointed chief mate of the Rosario, which is loading with grain at Portland, and will sail for Liverpool this week.

The Casper, Wyo., Derrick thinks the coming year will witness greater development in the oil fields than ever before. The filing of hundreds of new locations by eastern men and the universal feeling that something is about to drop make the Derrick to predict that the year 1894 will be remembered as the one from which Casper's greatness will date.

Daniel Smith, a resident of Alameda, Cal., met with a painful accident while at work on a dredger in the estuary. One of his arms accidentally caught in a cogwheel and in an instant it was crushed to a jelly. The machinery was stopped as soon as possible, but not until the wounded man had passed through great agony. The injured limb was amputated near the elbow.

N. H. Hudson brought to the city today a mountain lion skin, says the Laramie Boomerang. He shot the animal recently near Latham a peak and he says there are others there. This one measured six feet three inches in length. Mr. Hudson also brought in a gray wolf pelt. He says there are a great many wolves in that section and thinks they have been driven down there by the hunters who are after them in the Encampment north.

Quite peculiar are the circumstances of one suit of Mrs. Christina Pflueger vs E. W. Pflueger, entered in the district court at Pueblo, Colo. Plaintiff alleges that she gave the defendant $5000 with which to start a coattail loan business, and although he has had the use of the money two years, he persistently refuses to give an accounting. She prays the court to compel him to make a statement. The parties are husband and wife, and the suit makes no apparent change in their marital relations.

Two burglars broke into the Nevada Jewelry store, Market street, San Francisco, on Sunday night, attempted to chloroform W. H. Straus, son of the proprietor, who slept in the store, and stole diamonds, watches and other jewelry worth $1000. Straus was very badly hammered about the head and face, and was covered with blood when released. The jewelry was afterwards recovered, wrapped up in a rubber sack, where it had been dropped by the robbers to their haste to elude the officers.

Parties of Golden, Colorado, people are daily visiting a series of caves and caverns which are located within two miles of that town. The finders say a hand duct into the mountain, and, many having never been penetrated, their size and extent thereof have been found by lowering the lamps of the party into the aperture. The caves are located up Clear Creek canyon, near the top of one of the largest mountains in the neighborhood. The entrance is a large hole, in which are signs of former occupancy, the wall being blackened by smoke. At the back of this hole an arrow exists, and, this leads to another large chamber, and this chamber is connected to another, and so on. The chambers are perfectly dry. The caves may disclose something very exciting regarding their former use.

Mandrake Pills have a value as a household remedy far beyond the power of language to describe. The family can hardly be true to itself that does not keep them on hand for use in emergencies.

MANDRAKE

is the only vegetable substance in the dispensatories mineral, Mercury, and while its action as a cathartic is fully equal, it possesses none of its pernicious effects.

In Constipation, Mandrake acts upon the bowels without disposing them to subsequent costiveness.

No remedy acts so directly on the liver, nothing so speedily cures Sick Headache, Sour Stomach and Biliousness as these
