

DESERET EVENING NEWS

THE SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS

THE GREAT COUNTRY PAPER OF THE WEST

Is Issued Mondays and Thursdays and contains all the cream of the Daily and Saturday News.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

J. E. Bamberger, president of the Day-West Mining company, has returned from the coast.

The street railway service received this morning a consignment of 60 feet steel rails for use on the Murray line over the Big Cottonwood bridge.

The Liberty Stake's minstrel show given under the direction of the choir will be held this evening, at the hall, Fourth South and Eighth East streets.

The state university gymnasium committee are arranging for a lecture next week by Prof. Tahmoores in aid of the fund, and tickets will be sold all over the city.

The funeral of Mrs. Louise M. Smith was held yesterday afternoon from 303 north Second West street, Rector C. E. Perkins of St. Paul's officiating. There were many floral offerings.

Col. and Mrs. John Wilhart and son Harold of this city returned yesterday afternoon from southern California, where they have been spending the winter, and are at home, 723 Eleventh East street.

The many friends of Mrs. James N. Lambert, who some time ago went west, went an operation at the Groves L. D. S. hospital for appendicitis will be pleased to learn that she is now at home, and well on the way to complete recovery.

The remains of Mrs. Bradford were taken to the Gardo House on their arrival last night in this city, from southern California, and services will be held at 3 p.m. from the First Congregational church, with interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

The Commercial club committee appointed to cover the Caliente freight route will leave for the southwest later in the week, as means for travel have about been raised. They will give an exhaustive report of the route and prospects for business on their return.

Two Los Angeles real estate men, Peter Haack and W. G. Bradshaw, have removed to this city and are handling local realities. They have secured an option on $2 feet south of the Independent Telephone building from James N. Stevens for $50,000; also, on 41 feet north of the Elks' club house.

The executive committee of the State Union of Christian Endeavor met Monday evening at the First Methodist church and decided to hold the next annual convention of the Endeavor societies in the state sometime during September, as being the most convenient season of the year. Heretofore the convention has been held the last of May.

At Monday's meeting of the Salt Lake Christian Union it was decided to recommend the different young people's societies to collect a local offering to make a small contribution towards buying flowers for the Easter Sunday morning Christian Endeavor service at the state prison. The money may be sent to Miss Louise Bentz of the prison Endeavor committee.

Architects Erskine & Liljenberg are completing plans for a new L. D. S. meetinghouse for Waterloo, near Ely, on South street. It is to be of brick and stone, 37x32 feet, and will cost $3,000. The building will be two stories high, the upper floor being used for church purposes, and the lower for Sunday school and as an amusement hall. There will be a 48 ft. tower in front, and the building will be equipped with all the modern improvements.

The revival services in the First Methodist church are progressing in the best manner. Last night's sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. T. W. Pinkerton of the Central Christian church, on Christian service. The speaker held that this service can not reach its highest standard until the believer becomes one with God. The evangelical clergy of the city were pretty generally present and took part. A larger attendance than ever is expected at tonight's service.

The free night school conducted for the past seven months at the First Congregational church, and later in Hammond hall, will finish its work for the season next Friday night. The term closed with 25 girls and the remainder boys, in studies ranging from the fourth to the eighth grades. All of the teachers are volunteers and receive no pay. Rev. Mr. Goshen, who is the head and front of the night school movement, considers the work so far an unqualified success.

A musical and literary program was given last night in Unity hall that was enjoyed by a large audience. Among the participants were Willard Weis, Mrs. J. W. Christy, Miss Anna Watson, Miss Geneva Ellerbeck, Miss Pearl Rothschild, Miss Emily Larsen, Charles Kent, Charles G. Berry, Miss Jessie Paul, and others. The program was one of artistic selection and of artistic elegance, and was much enjoyed by the large audience gathered to listen.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to catch up. There is an immense amount of building going on all along the line, and the tide of immigration is swelling the population, and there are large demands from eastern consumers, and the railroads too, are calling for large quantities of lumber.

Charles Claypool, well known to the Salt Lake police as a petit larceny thief and a "roller," is in trouble and also in jail at Butte. Claypool was but recently released from the Utah state prison, where he did time for burglary or grand larceny. While here he was nearly always in trouble, and there is nothing strange that he is in the toils of Butte, except that he is under arrest for a hold-up. No one seems to know the fellow believed he had nerve enough to make a "stickup," but it seems that he committed one, as he has been identified.

Local lumber men report the saw mills so overstocked with orders that the sawyers hardly know which way to turn, and the latter are asking manufacturers and dealers to hold off on their orders for the next 10 days, in order to give them a chance to