Salt Lake and Butte Ball Nines Will Line Up at Walker's Field

IS NOT A LEAGUE CONTEST.

But it Will be Fully as Good and There Is Keen Interest Taken in The Event.

The opening of the baseball season in the Pacific National league is at hand. The fans are happy, because they have every assurance of a prosperous season of rattling good baseball. Those behind the Sait Lake team feel that a good team has been formed; one that will be able to cope successfully with any in the league, and one that will surely come close to landing the pennant, if indeed, it does not actually play the flag into this town.

Last Sunday the fans had an opportunity to see the boys in action, but of course the game was so one-sided that the league team was at no time compelled to extend itself to win. The Soldiers at Fort Douglas were beaten by an overwhelmingly big score. But it was a good practise game if nothing more, and helped to put the boys in condition for the big struggle they will assuredly have tomorrow afternoon

Then they are to cross bats with the Butte league aggregation. The Butte nine is here tomorrow enroute to their home burg from Leavenworth, Kan., where Wilmot has had them practising some time past. The team is said to be an exceptionally strong one, and the management thereof is confident of landing the championship again this While tomorrow's struggle will not be a league game, it will be fully as good. In fact, there is no reason why it should not be. Both will be anxious to earry off the honors and test each other's strength. Local fans will have a splendid opportunity to "get a line" on the local team, as well as the vis-

It is regretted that the weather, has ment of the ball season. But weather can not last forever, and better days are coming. It will be remem-bered that last season, the ball tossers and fans generally were roundly abusing the weather man.

Indications point to a heavy attendance tomorrow afternoon. It is believed by the management that the sport will be patronized more heavily this season have the best team that has yet represented this city, and they will show their appreciation in the attendance. The first league game, one that will count in the race for the championship of 1904, will be played at Walker's field Tuesday afternoon, April 26. The game will be between Salt Lake and McCloskey's Boise Bables, and judg-ing from the reports from the Idaho town, the McCloskevites will give the Munroe is Not Afraid.

"I will not fear Jeffries, as a good many people might imagine," says Munroe. "I have an idea that I can keep the big boilermaker busy for a good many rounds. I do not say that I will knock out Jeffries, although I certainly hope to. I am in perfect trim now, and when I meet him over a month from now I will be on edge. I tip the beam at 205 pounds at present, but I expect to take off about 15 pounds which will make my fighting weight about 190 pounds.

I expect Mc-Coy to follow me to the coast in a few I will learn a number of fine points from McCoy, although I pride myself on having picked up a few myself during the last six months. The fact that I disposed of Limerick and had it all over Tom Sharkey at Philadelphia should give some line on my

JEFF MAY MEET NEGRO.

It is Claimed that He Has Changed His Mind on the Subject.

There is considerable speculation just now in pugilistic circles regarding the chances of the winner of the Jhonson-McVey contest meeting Champion James J. Jeffries, says the Los Angeles Express. Although Jeff has stat d time and again that he would not meet a colored man, there is a quiet "tip" going the rounds that he will make match with the man who holds the colored heavyweight championship of the world after the Johnson-McVey stage, but would rather fight. This is natural, as he can make more in one night's battle than he can in several months of bara storming. A contest be-tween Jeffries and Johnson or McVey doubtless would bring together a rec-ord breaking erowd. This is particu-larly true if the contest takes place at San Francisco. When Jeffries defeats Munroe, and there are few who doubt his ability to do this, there will be body for the champion to fight, except the colored man. Naturally he will turn to him for a contest, and from remarks made by Billy Delaney, manager for Jeffries, it looks as if the fight between his man and the colored champion would be next on the cards. The are to be neld in San Francisco looks as if the men had arranged for a meetplace this month and the Jeffries-Munroe contest June 17.

THERE MAY BE A TWO-MINUTE TROTTER

grander and the second second

Tthe editor of the Western Horseman, published at Indianapolis, has an editorial in the issue of April 8 in which he picks out the California stallion Kinney Lou as the most prominent candidate for the stallion crown and predicts that he will be the first two-minute race trotter. As Lou Dillon creat. ed such a sensation last year, the arguments advanced in the Indianapolis paper will be read with interest by people interested in the triumphs of the California horse. They are as follows: Private and authentic word comes from California that in all probabilities the brown stallion, Kinney Lou, 2:074, by McKinney, dam Mary Lou, 2:17, the fastest green trotting stallion of any year, will not be rated at all the present season. The great trotter, all reports from California, both general and private, agree, is better, faster and more robust this spring than ever in his life, but Budd Doble's personal and business affairs are such that the "grand old man" of the trotting turf feels that he cannot afford to absent himself from California the present year, he having important business interests there requiring his personal presence and attention. Besides, Kinney Lou is so popular in the stud on the Gold Coast that Mr. Doble feels that he can well afford to not campaign the stallion this year. No trotting stallion on the turf a single year ever won, so much fame nor so many friends and ad mirers as did Kinney Lou last year, and his absence from the big tracks this year will not only be a sore disappoint ment to many, but will prove a decided horsemen and turfmen who know Kin-ney Lou best that he is the bright, particular star of promise for the trotting stallion crown, as he is recognized as much more than a possible two-minute

No other trotter, stallion, mare or gelding, ever accomplished what Kinney Lou has accomplished with the small amount of real track work he has had, and as he is now marture in age and physical development, and has grown strong and hardy, it is a pity that he should not be raced this year. Few trotters have ever been brought dong in their development so carefully, and yet under such disadvantages. Shortly after arriving at the Indiana polts track in the spring of 1902 he had an attack of catarrhal fever, from which he did not fully recover during the entire season, yet it left him with no trace of unsoundness. It simply kept him weak all season. Mr. Doble, knowing of the stallion's great speed, was very anxious to get him ready to race, and would occasionally let him step along a little, but as often as he old this the stallion would again relapse slightly and grow weak, and only occasionally during the entire season did be allow him to step along it speed. Even in this condition and with this aursing training, Kinney Loumake sure that the stallion should not the brought along too fast, Doble again the brought along too fast, Doble again to the brought along too fast, Doble again the brought along too fast, Doble again the brought along too fast, Doble again the brought along the speed, staked him heavily. Racing dates arrived ahead of racing condition with Kinney Lou, and though he struck hot company long before he was ready for it, he made a wonderful campaign, and in his third race met and defeated the great trotters, John Taylor, Jay Mc-Gregor and ten others in the $5,000 stake for 2:20 trotters at Empire City track, securing his record of 2:07% in the secand heat. The following week he went through that killing race, the Memorial, $20,000 for 2:12 trotters, in which the contending horses, besides himself, were Hawthorne, Billy Buck and ten others.

Naturally enough these bruising races took the "edge" off of Kinney Lou, for his preparation had been entirely too short and insufficient to give him the necessary endurance, and while he al-ways had his extreme speed. Doble so lightened his work that he was not again up to a hard and fast race during the season, but closed the season sound as a new dollar.

John Splan, in speaking of Kinney Lou the other day, said: "There never was another such trotter foaled. He never had work enough to fit him for a repeat in 2:20, as trotters are usually trained, and no horse can accomplish what he has accomplished unless he had good, easy two-minute capacity if fitted for it, and I do not believe that the stallion lives who has the two-minute mark so completely at his mercy as has Kinney Lou. With the same kind of training-not kept raced off of edge-Kinney Lou is not far from the Lou Dillon class, and if any wealthy gentleman wants glory of the Billings brand, and more of it, if he could secure Kinney Lou, and give the preparation, he would not have to walt lorg for the glory-and the fastest trofting stallion n the world. Why, I drove the runner along with Kinney Lou for Doble at Cleveland last summer a few times, just before the Cleveland meeting, and I never have seen any trotter, green or tried out, that could step any quarter, first, middle or last, in 0:30 with the consummate case with which Kinney Lou could do it. I am sorry Budd has got tied up in other affairs to such an extent that he feels he cannot afford to that Kinney Lou is the two-minute race

RICH SEASON OF RACING AT HAND.

Chance for New York Horsemen to Get Part of Two Million Dollars.

THE PROSPECTS ARE BRILLIANT

Big Increase in Purses and Stakes Offered by Associations-High Class Horses Entered.

A dispatch from New York says: The two million dollar year of the thorough. bred turf in the state of New York is at hand. Last week the curtain for the prologue of the greatest racing romance in the world was lifted at Aqueduct, the home of the Queens Junty Jockey club, It is what the pric has wanted and longed for since November last. It is what the chief actors-the trainers and horses, the breeders and owners, and the racing associations-have been preparing for.

Of a certainty, the public was eager again to see the royal thoroughbred, and cheer those struggles that warm the cockles of every heart in which red blood flows. A sport royal in its actors, regal in its rewards, enthusiastic in its contests, magnificent in its settings and environment, racing appeals to the American public in most especial man-

There is particular reasons, too, why this year of racing in this state should attract most largely. In the days ago nthusiasts were content if but one or two horses whose prowess had won them fame, continue their battles gainst the younger giants. This sea on there are more horses of larger worth than ever before appealed for As if to confound the worshipers of ancient days and ancient meth-ods, who have wept while the rest of the world cheered over glorious battles fought by the younger set, there are as survivors of this highest test of excel-lence horses today of four and five years at least the very peers of those who first made fame for the American thorough-

But the present and its possibilities re of more concern than any futile quarrel with a past that was splendle to break a lance with a historian while he may contemplate the struggle for a bury, the marvel of a year that was exceptional in class; McChesney, the sturdy westerner, who has come to roll back the star of empire in its orbit, and Hermis, the "greatest little" horse, and the gamest and speediest that many a decade has shown-a trio that would make any year stand out among its fellows.

Sufficient unto an all satisfying con-clusion would the struggles of these three be were none others to challenge their right, but we have a 4-year-old division singularly high class. There is Africander, the hero of the Suburban, race that was fought out most bitterly in going that would have tried the heart of the stoutest 3-year-old that ver was saddled: Irish Lad, the winner of the Brooklyn, after a sensational struggle with one of the gamest and best mares seen since the days of Imp; Dick Welles, greater in the west than ever McChesney was, and a marvel in speed, who did all things asked from him in superlatively easy fashionthese and others, whose performances n many another year, would have been sufficient to stamp them with excellence, all are in readiness to meet worthy foemen

And, of the 3-year-olds, there is the champion, Highball, the sweet Futurity winner, Hamburg Belle; Leonidas, always a factor where speed and stamina figured: the sturdy Stalwart, the ver dangerous Orthodox, and a dozen more, any one of which would be a champion in an ordinary year,

This is but a cursory glance at some of the distinguished ones who will make holiday for the public, and the very some one great contest but many of them. Every horse mentioned has been toing everything asked of him. Only two of them-Waterboy and Africander went into winter quarters with a question behind them, and both of these, by their gallops to date, have answered that question in a gratifying

These facts and the no less pleasant one that every horse about the metro-politan circuit has wintered in good realth afford good grounds for a splendid optimism of the sport in the coming year. The turf has progressed steadily under its present management, and since the state has put upon it the seal of its official approval. The new life which came to it in 1895 has been enlarged and made more virile by public approbation, until today the sport, in all its departments, is on a plane higher than it is elsewhere in the

Some Peculiar Ideas.

"Some people's ideas of high class port," says Malachy Hogan, "are most entertaining. Over at a local fight club, recently.
