HEDGES RELEASED ON BOND.

HEDGES RELEASED ON BOAL Henry M. Hedges, the Caldwell civ-fl engineer, held on a charge of ai-tempting to kill A. S. Whiteway on the 23rd of June in the Idanha hotel of this city, was released from custody yesterday afternoon on a $5,000 bail bond. He left last evening for Sho-shone where he is employed in en-gineering work. His bond was signed by five prominent residents of Cald-well by five prominent residents of Cald-well. Hedges had his hearing in the jus-tice's court on Monday and was bound over to trial in the district court. Four witnesses were examined, all of whom confirmed the statement accredited to Hedges after the shooting occurred, which is: "I brought him to the room to kill him, and I guess I did." Testi-mony was also adduced showing that Hedges said to his wife after they ar-rived at the police station: "I didn't have the nerve to kill you, did I?" It will be remembered that the affair arose over the supposition on the part of Hedges that Whiteway was becom-ing too familiar with Hedges' wife, STEALS FROM EMPLOYER.

Elizabeth Loving, the beautiful Virginia girl, who has confessed that she was assaulted, after being drugged, by Theodore L. Estes, has paralleled the awful confession of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and both these young girls have blasted their reputations to save men from the death penalty for murder.

Evelyn Thaw to save her husband; Elizabeth Loving to save her father, Judge W. G. Loving, who killed young Estes after his 19-year-old daughter had confessed to him her degradation. The prosecution maintain that Miss Loving has perjured herself to save her father and that if she told her father that Estes had drugged and assaulted her she told him an untruth to save herself from his anger because she had been drinking whisky. It is furthermore claimed that the assault would have been an impossibility; because of the fact that at no time during her drive with Estes was the buggy out of sight of other driving parties. The trial was intensely dramatic, owing both to features and the social prominence of all connected with the case. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty, on the ground that Lovieg was insane at the time he killed young Estes.

Bilyeu, with Collier's Weekly from Portland. It appears that in the absence of Gibson from home during certain parts of the day and evening. Bilyeu has made if a point to call at the Gibson home and work upon the af-fections of his wife. He so far suc-ceeded in his allurements that she sev-eral evenings went walking with him and spent many evenings at home in his presence. In the meantime Gibson's suspicions had become greatly aroused and he secreted himself near the house one evening and watched for develop-ments. After about 20 minutes his wife came in the gate in the arms of Bil-yeu. He saw Bilyen kiss her three times as he held her in his arms. This, however, was as much as he could stand and he began to pelt rocks at the magazine solicitor, who fled hatless down the street. The simple solicitor heard from two or three persons, so he says, that Gib-son had made a threat upon his life, and he case aired a little the tables turned upon Bilyeu and the case against Gibson was dismissed. The sino declared on the stand that he was now through with his wife and that Bilyeu could have her if he wanted her.
