

GREATEST NEED OF THE AGE IS MAN
Subject of an Interesting Lecture
By Attorney General
Breedon.

CREATURES OF EVOLUTION.
Is a Narrow-Minded Sniping Semblance of a Man Who Bangs His Hair.

Atty. Gen. Breedon spoke yesterday afternoon, before the Y. M. C. A. on "The Greatest Need of the Age is Man." He said in part:
"It is not my design, nor have I the time, to discuss the origin of the human race upon this occasion, and I accord to each man here the right to determine for himself whether the Mosaic account of the origin of man is true, and that he came from the hands of God pure and in His image, or whether the Darwinian theory is true, and that he came from the ape and the orang-outang, and is a product of evolution. However this may be, there is an innate resemblance in every human breast, enlightened or illiterate, against the admission of such a relationship. Revelation places man everywhere, even in his sinful state, far above the beasts that perish. Are we, then, my friends, to place man in the animal circle, surrounded by ancestry of the ape and baboon species?"

CREATURE OF EVOLUTION.
"To me it is much more reasonable and far more pleasant to believe the Biblical account of his origin, that his ancestry came from the hands of God and fashioned after Him. In the course of the observations which I shall present for your consideration this afternoon you will probably detect that my subject does not have reference to the narrow-minded, pigeon-toed, simpering semblance of a man who bangs his hair, wears a long-tailed coat and stands on the high heels of his pleasant afternoon and by vim words disgusts and insults the women as they chance to pass by. Oh, no! Such creatures are the product of evolution, and indeed a disgrace to the ancestry of the monkey family."

"The little child may be content with his rubber ring and rattle box; the youth with his sled and skates; not so with the man. He wants his wealth and power, and so it is through all the realms of human endeavor. The Great Creator has planted a restless spirit in the human breast, which he cannot conquer by the spark of enlightened ambition. If man is to be content with his environment and urges him on to greater effort to reach a higher plane morally, physically and mentally. Let us, then, appreciate that the demand of the hour is man, and let us consecrate our hearts and add our power and strength to the encouragement and acceleration of this demand."

WORK OF PIONEERS.
"With justice we all admire the determination and self-denial of the pilgrims who put themselves to peril upon the northern boisterous seas, and from the frail Mayflower landed on Plymouth rock, so, the brave men who opened the wilderness and let in the sunlight at Jamestown. So, too, the early pioneers who first pierced the forests of this country and climbed the mountain in vain, or plunged from the precipice to reach an isolation a thousand miles distant; drove back the merciless savages to make their homes midway between the two oceans, and lay the foundation for great commonwealths such as Utah, Colorado and Montana amid these rugged mountains. Since the first sound of the pioneer's voice, we have heard the sound of the gun, the sound of the ax, the sound of the saw, and the sound of the plow, and the sound of the wheel, and the sound of the mill, and the sound of the factory, and the sound of the city, and the sound of the nation, and the sound of the world."

DEMANDS OF SOCIETY.
"My friends, if we enter the domain of the intellectual and moral wilderness with the same spirit which animated the stern relief of facts, who first entered these deserts, and with the heroic determination, with which those brave men faced storms on those northern seas, they will soon let the sunlight of a pure morality and Christianity in upon our community which will transform it into as beautiful a moral vineyard of purity and honor as these pioneers have added up the benighted mountains of these everlasting hills. The great demand of human society today is man himself; man with a broad, cultivated, generous mind; a man of noble character, courageous, unselfish nature, swift to do right; man purified and exalted; man individualized; educated along the lines I have suggested."

After the refreshments, an informal program was rendered in which the following took

DR. OSTERMANN'S FUNERAL.
Impressive Services Held at Sandy-Friends Paid Tribute to Young Man.

An impressive burial was given Dr. James Ostermann at his home town, Sandy, Salt Lake county, yesterday, the arrangements for which were under the direction of John T. Thorp, brother-in-law of the deceased. The remains with the family and near friends were conveyed from Salt Lake City to Sandy via the San Pedro railway. Delegations of doctors and numerous friends from Salt Lake, Provo and other towns, assembled at the home residence.

The funeral cortege, extending the full length of a block, was led by a score of children, the nurses and friends of Dr. Ostermann, carrying a beautiful floral emblem. The pallbearers were his intimate friends of the medical profession, Drs. Allen, Cannon, Anderson, Waddell and Van Cott of Salt Lake, and Dr. Steven of Mount Pleasant. Dr. Whitney, county physician of Salt Lake county, was among the mourners. The Sandy meetinghouse was already filled with sympathizing friends. At 2 P. M. the service commenced, with Bishop Khure presiding. After opening hymn by the choir, and prayer, Charles Pike rendered a solo, "I Know that My Redeemer Lives." B. H. Hickey, of the L. D. S. university gave a brief sketch of the life of the deceased and feelingly alluded to his noble character. "O My Father" was sung by Miss Rasmussen. A. H. GOOD WORD FOR UNIONS.
Mr. Roberts said a good word for labor unions. They have accomplished good and will continue to be beneficial. However, he had no sympathy with wrong acts, either on the part of members of labor unions, or as committed by their sympathizers. These unions, he said, have done much to better existing conditions. He believed that all unlawful combinations should be rooted out. If the laws are lacking in this regard, more stringent measures should be taken to correct the evil. He believed it to be the right of capital to form such combinations as conditions warranted, but such combinations, entered into for unlawful gain, should be excluded.

"OLD FASHIONED HONESTY."
Compulsory education was strongly and eloquently advocated by the speaker as a remedy of undesirable social conditions. A number of the "old-fashioned honesty," should be proclaimed throughout the world and should be applied in every phase of life. At the close of the lecture the speaker was warmly applauded. A number of questions were propounded to Mr. Roberts, which he answered. A meeting of the Industrial Workers of the World will be held next Sunday evening in the same hall, when endowments will be made to combat some of the ideas of Mr. Roberts which did not meet with the approval of all present last night.

HON. B. H. ROBERTS
ON SOCIALISM
Addressed Large Gathering Last Evening in Federation of Labor Hall.

HIS SENTIMENTS APPLAUDED.

Question of Capital and Labor and The Evil of Class Distinction Prevailing in Society Today.

Hon. B. H. Roberts addressed a meeting in Federation of Labor hall last evening, his subject being "Socialism." There was a large gathering of members of trades unions and others interested in labor questions, and the speaker was listened to with rapt attention and at times received hearty applause for the expression of sentiments that met with favor in the minds of the majority of the audience. The lecture was in response to an invitation extended by the Socialist society of Salt Lake.

DEFINITION OF SYSTEM.
Mr. Roberts suggested the advisability of those believing in the so-called Socialism of more accurately defining the system. A number of definitions were read by the speaker, each differing from the other. The one accepted by him as the basis of his remarks was that of equality, sought to be established and maintained through the operation of the law. That certain evils exist which would be met and overcome was granted by the speaker. The greatest of these, he thought, pertained to the question of capital and labor, a close second was the class distinction prevalent in society. In seeking to overcome these kindred evils, Mr. Roberts said he believed the purposes and endeavors of the Socialists were laudable. The end sought and sought would be difficult to attain so long as human nature remained as it has been and is.

THE OBJECTIONS.
As objections to Socialism, the lecturer enumerated several. He said that competition is necessary to develop man and to bring out the best that is in him. To take away this element and the impetus for progress would disappear. Again, to take away the apprehension felt by man lest he and his should lack the essentials of life, a condition that Socialism would make impossible, the speaker did not believe was a thing to be desired. A tendency to idleness would follow the absence of concern along the lines indicated on the question of making of communities where thrift is lacking, as tending to show that the inhabitants are deficient in civilization. On the other hand, the people of the earth, too most of them, labor and strive in order that they may subsist are the ones who are making for progress.

BLESSINGS IN DISGUISE.
Mr. Roberts said that Socialism would preclude altruistic tendencies. Events that bring sorrow and that seem nothing else than evil, are oftentimes laden with blessings. While he may be a hard thing to think and still harder thing to say, he said, "I believe that the great feeling of human sympathy which was aroused all over this land and in other lands was worth to humanity all San Francisco paid for it."

ALLEN R. MCNITT APPOINTED.

E. D. Wickens Today Named For Position of Chief Clerk of the New Department.

Following the visit here of General Auditor Erasmus Young of the Harriman lines on Saturday, an official circular was issued at Oregon Short Line headquarters today over the signatures of Mr. Young and C. J. McNitt, auditor, creating a new title, that of freight claim agent of the Oregon Short Line. Effective today A. R. McNitt, formerly chief clerk of the freight claim department when it was under the jurisdiction of General Freight Agent J. A. Reeves, has been appointed as chief clerk of the new department under Mr. McNitt. The appointment should prove a very popular one as Mr. McNitt, in addition to having had a number of years' experience in this particular line, is endowed with the happy faculty of making friends among the business men with whom he comes in contact. While he will have charge of all freight claims on the Oregon Short Line system it is understood that he will also handle those originating on the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific between Green River, Wyo., and Sparks, Nev.

WOOL STATISTICS.
One Firm Has Paid Out $3,780,000 to The Flockmasters.

Indicative of what the railroads are handling in the way of bales of wool this season from Utah, Wyoming and Idaho, it is stated that a single firm, that of Ebenman Bros. of Boston, has already purchased and partly shipped 15,000,000 pounds of wool. The average price paid for this was 21 cents which means that the neat sum of $3,150,000 has been paid to the wool growers in this section by one firm alone.

JUDGE BROWN
SHOULD RESIGN
Indignant Parent Voices Public Sentiment of the Recent Outrage.

Act Would Seem Impossible Even in A Bandit Camp—Clark Showed Some Sense of Decency.

To the Editor.
The shocking proceedings which took place in the juvenile court last Thursday, in which a girl, a mere child, was subjected to treatment so outrageous as to seem impossible even in a bandit camp, to say nothing of a court of law, continue to be a topic of indignant discussion among residents of this city, especially parents of half grown children who are liable to drift, intentionally or otherwise, into bad company or questionable environments.
Probation Officer Clark, who enacted a prominent role in the shameful affair, seems to have had a sense of decency which, though latent at the time, proved strong enough to impel him to resign when at last it was awakened by the public denunciation his conduct aroused.
Judge Brown should follow his example. Instead of contenting himself with confessing through the city press, that he "made a mistake," he should resign. His conduct in the affair in question has incurred the detestation and abhorrence of the public of this city, confidence in both his judgment and integrity has been destroyed, and his usefulness in the office he occupies has been fatally impaired. He should resign forthwith.
There is no way to measure the harm that has been done among the boys and girls of this city, who are near the edge of the victim of Thursday, by the proceedings that are here denounced, and the publicity that has been given to them; but any intelligent parent of half-grown children will admit that it must be very great.
Specially so, in the case of the classes of boys and girls who have been or are likely to be brought before the juvenile court. Among that class Judge Brown's future usefulness is most doubtful. He ought to resign at once.
