In Hartford county, Ct., there is a temperance reformer known as the Rev. Francis Williams, who, sixteen years ago, asserted that the mortality record of all the towns in that county, except Hartford, showed that every fifth man dying above the age of 21 was a drunkard. He now repeats the statement in the form that the death records of the towns in which he has passed his twenty-eight years of pastoral labor, show that the ratio of sixteen years ago still holds good.

Wright, the colored man, just appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of South Carolina, was born in Pennsylvania, graduated at the Lancasterian University in New York, studied law for two years at Montrose, Penn., and was the first colored man admitted to the bar in that State. In 1856 he went South and was made legal adviser of the South Carolina Freedmen. He was a delegate to the Reconstruction Convention, and was afterwards elected to the State Senate. A prominent medical practitioner describes in a medical journal a new contrivance to be used in the treatment of leeches, as simple as it is novel in its construction. The artificial leech consists of a light glass tube, from which the air is expelled by the vapor of ether, a small quantity of the latter having been previously introduced and partially vaporized by dropping the tube in hot water. The skin having been scarified, the tube is applied, when the condensing vapor, leaving a partial vacuum, into the blood vessels, relieving the patient as effectively as the ordinary leech.

The Haves of January 22 made an extraordinary contribution to the fiscal accounts of Prince Pierre Bonaparte. It gave the following story as having been told by the Emperor himself: I was once strolling in the streets of New York with General Fierre, when my clerk went out. I asked a Yankee for a light, and he very civilly handed me an excellent Havana which he was smoking. On giving it back I was awkward enough to burn his cheek, and thereupon he abused me most vociferously. Knowing myself to be in the wrong, I endeavored to mollify him by apologies, but unluckily, Fierre, who was on the other side of the street, and heard the Yankee using high words to me, stepped across, drew his pistol and shot the man dead upon the spot. For this affair we were both of us put in prison two months.

Correspondence from Salt Lake City shows that the passage of the act to give to woman the suffrage in Utah was the work of both Mormon and Gentile, the legislature being Mormon and the Governor a Gentile. The two parties entertain different views on the way in which it will work.

The Times' Washington special says that Chandler, who was a member of the joint committee on the conduct of the war, intends to make a speech in the Senate Monday, reviewing the course of Fitz John Porter and sustaining the court martial, which tried his case. ## between himself and other politicians.

A morning paper asserts that Golladay, of Kentucky, is among those implicated. The House will discuss the subject of abolishing the bureau of education next session. In a committee of the whole on the legislative appropriations bill the committee on appropriations reported a section to abolish the bureau, but this was ruled out of order. Pending the question, there is to be an insertion in the appropriation bill of fifteen thousand for the expenses of the bureau.

The Senate on Saturday decided by a vote on the Oregon railroad bill, to give no more subsidies in the shape of bonds to railroads, and that the land granted cannot go into the hands of speculators, but must be held by actual settlers.
