FOR over twenty years I was in busine s on what is called East Temple or Main Street, of Salt Lake City. In 1864 I put up a two-story adobie building, ninety feet long, which then ranked among the finest stores of the city. Some four or five years ago that was taken down and another one erected, with a basement, ground floor and first story, each 150 feet long, by a rrontage of 2½ feet wide, and also a second story about 80 feet long.

of 2½ feet wide, and also a second story about 80 feet long.

It is situated immediately north of and adjoining the Woodmansee building, only a few steps from the Godbe corner, and within one store of Wells, Fargo's.

It is centrally situated for business and for many branches second to none for location. For Banking or Telegraphic purposes, it is pre-emisently eligible.

And having retired from active business life, I now offer to the capitalists of this city that valuable property in exchange for some other, situate in a more quiet and less business ortion.

This offer being strictly one of exchange, and not of sale, I put no value upon it, but leave every one to estimate it according to the uses he may contemplate putting it to, neither do I require a price put on any property that may be offered for it.

But to every one who desires the ownership of that building, and the ground upon which it stands, the offer is now made, and preposals may be addressed to
