Special Daily by HOPKIN, ELDREDGE & CO.
SALT LAKE CITY, August 30, 1871.
Closing at $1.12 Selling at $1.12.

WEATHER ITEM.—The highest point reached by the thermometer to-day was 88.

THE EMIGRANT COMPANY.—A small company of emigrants, who left Liverpool, August 9th, in charge of Elder Douglas, are expected at Ogden this afternoon.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.—Our correspondent, writing from Mount Pleasant, Aug. 18th, gives a general account of affairs there. He had heard President Orson Hyde preach to the people of Fairview the day previous, and that they were most excellent instruction.

FROM KANAB.—Bro. A. P. Windsor, who arrived yesterday from the Kanab country, called this morning. He passed through Kanab City on his way up, and states that the people there were busy building rock, frame and adobe houses, notwithstanding that about two-thirds of the grain crops were lost by the ravages of the grasshoppers, the place presents an appearance of prosperity that is surprising.

FOSSIL.—Professor Barfoot, of the Desert Museum, showed us, this morning, a strange specimen of a fossilized animal, which, strange to say, was found near the top of what is known as Llewellyn's peak, from the on close examination of the specimen the Professor says he finds indications of a head, but to the belief that there must either be deposits of coal, or at least rock oil in the vicinity where the fossil was found.

PICNIC AT BLACK ROCK.—Yesterday a party of about thirty theatrical and musical gentlemen and ladies, or ladies and gentlemen, in six carriages, engaged in a picnic excursion to the Lake at Black Rock, taking the whole day for it, from moderately good hours in the a.m., to near the largest lake in the p.m. After a pleasant ride over the glorious landscape beyond Jordan, the lake came in view, the party alighted, and dancing, bathing and other amusements were indulged in with zest and satisfaction.

THE KILLING AT COALVILLE.—Our Coalville correspondent sends us the particulars of the killing of William Hutchinson by John Allan, on the evening of Monday, a dispatch aluding to which appeared in the News of yesterday. From the statements of the correspondent it appears that unpleasant relations had existed for some time between Hutchinson and his wife, it being reported that he had frequently beaten her and threatened her life, and that she had been under the necessity of leaving him twice. The first time that she left him it seems she staid with the family of John Allan, but by persuasion of the latter and his family she was induced to return to her husband. It is alleged, however, that his treatment of her continued to be such that she was compelled to leave him again. A few days previous to the shooting she arrived again, with her little child, late at night at John Allan's house, and begged to be taken in, which request was granted. William Hutchinson came to the house on Monday evening, and called John Allan away from the back door, where he was standing, and commenced accusing him of harboring his (Hutchinson's) wife and ordering him to turn her out of doors, which Allan refused to do, saying he did not think it would be right to turn a woman and child out of doors under the circumstances; whereupon Hutchinson, with a revolver, hitting him on the forehead, kicking him and threatening to kill him. Allan had been in the hills, hunting for his horses, during the day, and on his return had laid his revolver on the window sill. When attacked he grasped the weapon and fired a shot at Hutchinson, the second hitting him in the left side, passing through the body, lodging under the skin on the right side, and killing him almost instantly. Mrs. Hutchinson, at the time of the sad occurrence, was waiting at the house of Allan, for an opportunity to see her husband.

A BUTTERY SUBJECT.—"No butter fit to be eaten," so they say frequently of the butter these days. Is it so? And if so, why so? It is a puzzler to us. Are there cows in the Territory? There are cows in the Territory. Every day one can see and hear herds of them being driven and chased and yelped and barked and whipped through the streets by boys and dogs, and chased for miles out on the prairie, and from prairie spots it is understood, where certainly no butter is made, where certainly if they won't eat when sedulously and regularly taken to their stall. Not only is it ungrateful if they won't eat with such tending, but if they won't produce milk in abundance, from which the real, rich, golden, buttery butter can be produced in quantity sufficient, why all we can say is that such cows must be very irrational animals indeed. For we have known, in other regions, of hundreds and thousands of cows, not attended to in half such a vigorous manner, not yelped nor barked at by boys and dogs, nor whipped in the least, not driven six miles nor one mile nor a quarter of a mile to pasture, and yet producing milk by the pailful, milk manufactured daily into the finest kind of butter, butter never complained of by maker or seller or buyer or consumer. If under such marked disadvantages, cows in distant sections can be credited with the best butter in that fashion, surely cows in Utah, with their manifest advantages, ought to be sources of best butter still more abundant and better.

Special Notices.
Mr. T. U. Wenn is taking orders in this city for Howe & Middleton's Oil Chromo Portraits of Washington, Mrs. Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, Douglas, Webster, Clay, Jackson, and Wesley, queen Victoria, Prince Albert, and for two beautiful chromos entitled "Christ Blessing Little Children," and "Asking a Blessing," a scene at the breakfast table of an American farmer, from the original by F. O. C. Darley, designed and painted expressly for and published by Howe & Middleton of Cincinnati. The mastery of work of this eminent artist F. O. C. Darley, have won him a reputation alike at home and abroad, and unequalled by that of any other of our countrymen. It is moreover an American home scene—on which we all delight to see illustrated by art, and this, too, so vivid that instinctively the hearts of the pure and refined among our people cannot but go out in thankfulness to him who, by the charity of his genius, has created for them so much enjoyment.
