

"BOGUS" SINGER MACHINES.

The Singer Manufacturing Company a few days since published a notice in these columns warning the citizens of Utah against "re-painted, re-japaned and bogus machines." Perhaps the public generally are not aware of the fact that, since the expiration of sewing machine patents, several different firms have undertaken and are now carrying on the manufacture of Singer sewing machines. These machines, which the Singer Manufacturing Company choose to call "bogus," are, in every part and piece, made after the Singer pattern, are absolutely new and first class in every respect. They are, in fact, an exact fac simile of the latest improved machine manufactured by the company, with the single exception that both machine and woodwork are finished in a more elegant and workmanlike manner than the machine put on the market by the company. I challenge the Singer Manufacturing Company or its agents to a comparison and test of the merits of these two machines before competent judges. The branch office of the Singer Company have during the past year repossessed or taken in scores of old second-hand machines from customers who were unwilling or unable to pay for them, but who had had the machines in their possession and in use for months, and in many cases for years. These old machines have, by the Singer Manufacturing Company's agent here in Salt Lake City, been re-painted, re-japaned, re-varnished, and no doubt palmed off on the public for new machines. With this statement of facts I am willing to let the people decide who are the "pirates" and "awindlers" in the sewing machine business in Utah.
