AMERICAN.

Both Parties Confident.

WASHINGTON, 15.—At the democratic headquarters in Washington the leaders and members of congressional committees who are here maintain that the western defeat does not beat Hancock. They say the democracy will fight for every inch of ground up to the November election. It is hinted that the chairmen of the democratic State committees in close States will be called to meet the national and congressional committees either in New York or Washington, and some plan of campaign will be agreed upon. All the money possible to get will be used and a hard fight made to elect Hancock. The States the democrats will contest in the north are Maine, New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Illinois, California, Oregon, Nevada, and even Indiana. It is contended that Hancock is much stronger in Indiana than the democratic State tickets, and democrats in that State will be urged to do their best, but no outside aid will be given them. It is said the effort to force Hendricks on the party by using the Supreme Court of Indiana to render an improper decision, together with the weakness and unpopularity of Landers, have beaten the party, but it is contended that the reasons will not weigh against Hancock. The democrats intend to meet the republicans on the tariff question in New York, Virginia, and other States where there are dissensions in the party. All the influence and authority of the managers will be used to heal them. The word will be issued that everything must yield to a united effort to pull Hancock through. Democratic business men will be urged to the front with their influence and their money. Among the leading democrats at headquarters are Congressmen Hunter, of Virginia, Blackburn, of Kentucky, both members of Congressional committees. They ridicule the idea that the Presidency is lost, and are bracing up for a stubborn fight from now until the election. At the republican headquarters to-day Congressman Jorgensen and several other prominent Virginia republicans had a long interview with Chairman Hubbell. They think that Virginia is good fighting ground for the republicans now, with the prestige of Tuesday's election, added to the alleged irreparable breaches in the democratic party in that State. It is an open secret that it is the intention of the republican managers to make good use of the time left between now and November in Virginia. The report current in Virginia that an alliance between General Mahone and the republicans is being negotiated, is not known at republican headquarters to be a fact.

The republican congressional committee are confident that several republican congressmen will be gained in the South: two districts at least are expected in Virginia, and the districts now represented by Acklin, of Louisiana is also claimed. A gain of one is expected in Tennessee. These anticipated gains, together with those already made in Oregon, Ohio and Indiana, will, it is claimed, be more than sufficient to give the republicans control of the next House of Representatives. If the republicans have secured control of the Indiana Legislature there is a possibility that the United States Senate in 1881 will be equally divided, politically, and that the President of the Senate will have the casting vote in the United States Senate. As now constituted, the democrats have 43 members and the republicans 33. The Senators whose terms expire in 1881, where there is likely to be a political change in the succession, are Bruce, Eaton, Kernen, McDonald, Randolph, Thurman and Wallace. Should these expectations be realized, the Senate after the 4th of March next will consist of 38 democrats and 38 republicans. Viewed in this light the election of a republican legislature in Indiana, which will send a republican successor to McDonald, seriously threatens the democratic ascendency in the Senate. In this calculation, Davis, of Illinois, is credited to the democrats. Should he act with the republicans, that party would again be in full possession, politically, of the Senate. It is not at all probable, however, that Judge Davis will identify himself with the republican side of the chamber. The entrance of Mr. Fair with his huge barrel into the contest for United States Senator, in Nevada, to succeed Mr. Sharon, is regarded by many as throwing doubt upon the political outcome in that State. Should Mr. Fair win, it is calculated that this vote would maintain the democratic control of the Senate. In the above estimate, Senator-elect Mahone, of Virginia, is counted as a democrat, inasmuch as he is leading the fight for Hancock in his State. He will undoubtedly act with the democrats on all national questions. The way in which these majorities are figured in this: The Senate of the United States now stands, democrats 43, republicans 33. On the 4th of March next the terms of twenty-five Senators expire. The republicans expect to gain six Senators, at least in the incoming election, as follows: Ohio, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Indiana. They will lose one in Mississippi. The democrats lose one in Virginia, and the Senator elect is avowedly independent; Davis, of Illinois, is classed as democratic. The score then stands, republicans 38, democrats 37, independents 1. The combined opposition would make the Senate a tie, Vice-President Arthur would have the casting vote, and it is pretty certain that without Mahone even the republicans may control all the committees and gain the ascendancy in the Senate. The present House has 156 democrats, 135 republicans, and two straight out nationals, all other nationals being cast with their parties. The most favorable showing makes the democratic majority only twenty-one and over the republicans and nationals only five. The republicans have gained eight Congressmen in Ohio and Indiana. This alone would wipe out the democratic majority and make their plurality only three, but everything indicates a loss of many more democratic seats. This, with the election of a republican ticket, the three branches of Government will be republican.

Latest from Indiana.

NEW YORK, 15.—A Herald's Indianapolis special publishes interviews with several prominent Indianians, in which they say the defeat was caused by the unpopularity of English and Landers.

Fleming, State treasurer, a defeated candidate for re-election, attempts no concealment of his disgust with English. He says: "This has been the worst managed campaign on the democratic side in the history of that State; that English has proved miserably inefficient and utterly incompetent; that he has been outgeneraled at every point; that his personal unpopularity lost many hundreds of votes; that he has never had the State properly, nor organized the democrats in any way."

Frank Landers ascribes his defeat to English's stupidity, and the stinginess and mismanagement of the canvass. But that's all bosh. Landers is not fit to govern.

Gen. John T. Love, of the State Board, says: The loss of Indiana is due to the incompetence, avarice and unpopularity of English. He says the latter cannot comprehend his position, because the only thing that could annoy him is the loss of a little money.

State House Commissioner Nelson is equally severe on English, and lays all the blame on him for the loss of the State.

Secretary of State, Franklin, who was defeated for re-election, is boiling over with rage, and the mere mention of English's name fairly throws him into paroxysms of anger, he refers to English tenderly as a "hog" and a brute in general.

Monson, another of the victims boils over with choice profanity, and blames English for all the trouble, in the most forcible expletive he can command.

Col. Gray, nominee for Lieut. Governor says: "Landers was a dead weight to carry, but the State could have been carried but for English." He uses bad words in talking of the latter, and blames McDonald and Voorhees for his (English's) nomination. Gray pronounces English "a base fraud."

Deputy Secretary of State, Peele, says that English lost Indiana for the democrats, and thinks he ought to retire.

Hendricks is said to have declared to-day that English ought to withdraw at once. He professes to believe that if English withdraws, Hancock can carry the vote of the State. In respect to his withdrawal I can give you gossip only. Messrs. Hurlbut and Watterbury remained until this afternoon, an extraordinary fact, unless there was something up. A prominent citizen and life-long democrat says there was a meeting last night to consider the plan of putting Hendricks in English's place. The friends of Hendricks say his record was as good in June as it is now. Mrs. Hendricks says the governor shall not accept. English says he won't have a chance to accept, for he (English) would go off to hell or go down with the ship, and I guess he will.

New York Notes.

A boy 14 years old, named Robert Smith, was arrested, and $50,000 worth of cotton bills of exchange, which he had stolen from the post-office box, were found in his possession.

The Herald's special from Paris says: Hartmann, the Nihilist, telegraphs to the Interansigeant to-day a full description of the mine which was to have blown up the Imperial train at Alexandre. He explained that the plot failed because an hour before the passage of the train a carriage came along the line and cut the wires connecting the dynamite with the battery. Hartmann asserts there are 13,000,000 organized radicals in Russia.

Hancock had several callers yesterday. He expressed no discouragement at the result in Indiana, and seemed in his usual buoyant spirits. Chairman Barnum, of the National Democratic Committee, had a conference with him in the evening.

Coach Robbed.

DENVER, 15.—Yesterday morning, about 2 o'clock, the mail coach was robbed fifteen miles east of Del Norte by two men. The mail and treasure box were taken. No passengers were aboard.

Lo and the President.

SAN FRANCISCO, 15.—A Kaluma dispatch says the Presidential party arrived yesterday by train from Tecoma and will leave for Astoria in the morning. A delegation of Puyallis Indians waited on the President with the request that they be allowed to retain their lands. The President agreed to consider their position, and sent them away well satisfied.

The Railroad Fight.

ST. LOUIS, 15.—The railroad fight continues sharply. The Chicago & Alton dropped limited tickets to $2.70 this morning, and the Wabash immediately went to $1.70, having advertised to sell a dollar less than any other road. Unlimited tickets remain at $4.70, yesterday's price.
