answer to some strictures on the alleged dictatorship of Democratic leaders: "Because Democrats have positive views of a given policy in the party and do their utmost to carry their results by impressing them upon others, they are not "dictators." Just so. And the same reasoning holds good in relation to the "Mormon" leaders. They have a right to a "policy" and a right to do all they can legally to "impress it upon others." Those who don't like it can-let it alone.

The New York Tribuns, according to a dispatch in our telegraphic columns, has considerable to say on Utah's increase of population. We would like to know how it made the discovery that while the" Mormons" have increased 65 per cent., the Gentiles have increased 200 per cent. in the last decade. We were not aware ly entertained and respectfully exthat the census gave any information pressed. about the religious status of the population. Our primaries and conventions should be conducted with as much order, good feeling, decorum and regard for each other's rights as any other assembly, social or religious. We have no need to pattern after the bear-garden methods and lunatic-like proceedings of parties claiming a "higher civili-
