THE SCENE IN THE CHAPEL

Weight of Three Coffins in Which Remains Were Enclosed Was 1322 Pounds.

Rome, July 25 .- The body of Pope Leo was interred in St. Peter's tonight. The strokes of the hammer which resounded through the immense dome of the cathedral announced to the earnest gathering in the raive that Leo XIII had been laid to rest. At sundown the most important and most solemn of all the obsequies took place. The front doors of the basilica were closed and the vast church, except for a row of lights at the shrine of St. Peter, the candles about the bier and those present who had quietly and with the utmost reverenco gathered there, appeared de-

REMOVAL OF THE BIER. Cardinal Rampilla as arch-priest of basilica, was waiting outside the gutes in violet robes, surrounded by the chapter of the cathedral, which was led by Mansignor Cepetelli, who conducted the service. Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni directed the work of the removal of the bier, which was executed by eight seilliant red robe costumes. At first ey tried to raise the bier, but finding too heavy they slowly slid it on to car with noiseless wheels. Then to strains of the "Misererie," which vailed through the lofty church, sceded by a glittering cross held aloft procession, carrying candles and hes, slowly left the chapel and went p to the church, passing the bronze tatue and beyond the shrine of St.

Those gathered fell to their St. Peter is peculiarly fitted to be the background of such a scene. The cold he bright uniforms of the guards, the riolet robes of the clergy and the bier, while the flickering light of the candles made the funeral procession the only visible object and rendered obscurity beyond and behind it more noticeable.
After slow progress around the church the sad cortege arrived at the chapel choir, the bier being so carried that the dead pope entered head first, from semi-obscurity flashing into the brilliancy of the suddenly turned-on electric light. Here all those who had received invitations were stopped, remaining in the main parts of the basilica, behind the double line of the Swiss pards in their peculiar yellow, red and lack uniforms, and armed with halerds and serpentine swords.

THE BELLS RANG OUT. Within the chapel was Count Camlito Pecci, a nephew of the late pope, wearing the red uniform of a general of the castle guard. In the chapel the music changed to notes of joy and "In Paridisum" rang out with telling effect, From the outside the five bells of St. Peter's rang out their accustomed saute to the coming night, mingling har-noniously with the music of the choir. The scene in the chapel was most re-markably effective. The bier bearing the body was received by Cardinal Oreglia. It was placed in the center. banked by an altar with a beautiful mage of the madonna, before which were burning four immense candles in silver staffs. Around the two sides of linage of the madonna, before which were burning four immense candles in filter staffs. Around the two sides of the chapel, in the choir seats, were 25 cardinals, all wearing violet robes except Cardinals Gotti and Perotti, who were the white mantles of their orders. Cardinal Martinelli as an Augustinian and Cardintls Vives y Tuto, in Franciscan brown. In the middle of the right side of the chapel, among the cardinals, sat Prince Mercantanoi Colona, assistant to the pontifical throne, with an empty seat next him, owing to the fact that Prince Orisini, who held the came position, had resigned.

SPRINKLED WITH HOLY WATER. The body was sprinkled with holy water, absolution was given and the foot of Leo XIII was kissed for the last e by Major Domo Caglano, master o the chamber Eisletti, and Count C. millo Pecci. The major domo then cov-ered the vonerable features and hands with a white silk veil, which covered the whole person.

A LATIN EULOGY ENDORSED.

When the body had been carefully put in the coffin it was entirely con-cealed with the red velvet covering which before had been on the bier. The major domo put beside the body two silk purses containing coins of silver and a bronze medal struck during Leo's pontificate. A eulogy, written in mag-nificent Latin and setting forth the great events of Pope Leo's life and reign inclosed in a metal tube, was also interred with the body. When all had been arranged the supreme prayer was said and the last benediction given; all present joined in. Half-suppressed sobs were heard on all sides.

The second coffin was of lead and very heavy. On the cover at the head was a cross, just below which was a skull and cross bones, while below these re the arms of the dead pope, with the triple crown, but without the keys, is they signify living victory. pottom was a plate bearing the follow

The major domo of the chapter of the basilica lighted a brazier, which was used in soldering the coffin, producing sounds and sights strange to hear and see in a church. These two coffins were closed in a third casket of polished walnut without decorations. The sad duties were softened and smoothed by the sweetness of the singing of the choir and the prayers of the clergy:

IN THE STONE SARCOPHAGUS.

When the last supreme moment came the heavy coffins, weighing in all 1822 pounds, were rolled out of the chapel, preceded by mace-bearers and choir inging as they went, and followed by all the cardinals, among which the bowed figure of Oreglia, the strong up-right Vannutelli brothers, the whitehalred Agliard, and the immense black, browed Svampa were the most conspicuous. Pulleys were attached to the coffin and soon, to the strains of the "Benedictus Dominis Deus Israel" it way raised into the stone sarcophagus above the door, where it will remain until the grateful cardinals created by the late cope shall erect a suitable tomb in the pasilica of St. John Lateran which was chosen by the pope himself as his last resting place. The diplomatic body was also present, as were many men of the Roman aristocracy, led by Prince Marrimo, who claims descent from Quintus Fabius Maximus, in his uniform as papal post-master-general. Gen. de Charette, the oldest veteran of the papal army, who fought as commander of the zouaves against the Italians in 1870, was also among those who attended the cere-

THE KEARSARGE

Made Twenty-Nine Hundred Miles In Less Than Ten Days.

Trip Proves Ships of Her Class Could Cross Ocean and Engage an Enemy at Once.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 26 .- The United States battleship Kearsarge arrived at Bar Harbor at 5:42 p. m., and dropped anchor in the upper harbor at 6:13. All day the shore path had been thronged with people anxiously watching the eastern horizon for the first glimpse of the famous ship, but it was not until 5 o'clock that her immense hull appeared out of the mist in the east. Coming full speed, the battleship elered the harbor, and passed the oth-ships of the squadron at anchor, and then proceeded to the upper harbor, where the battleship Illinois, with Admiral Barker on board, was anchored. After the usual formality the representative of the Asosciated Press was received on board, and was the first to greet Capt. Hemphili who expressed surprise that their trip should be of interest to others outside of the navy department. He said:

"We left the Needles at 1:25 p. m. on Friday, July 17, and Mount Desert rock at 12:30 today, covering the distance of 2,900 mffes in nine days, four and a quarter hours, an average speed or 13.16 miles an hour."

The highest speed attained was a little over 15 knots an hour and the lowest was 10. Three times during the trip the ship was slowed down, once on account of being in the vicinity of an leeberg and twice on account of a very thick fog. Head winds and thick weather retarded the speed of the ship and under favorable circumstances she would have covered the distance in less than nine days. Capt. Hemphill says once and beat the record made on this voyage. Since the Kearsarge left New York 53 days ago, she has visited Ger-many and England, has steamed 2,200 miles, has been at sea 24 days and in port 29 days, and during all this time there has not been a single accident to the machinery, or a stop of any kind. She is ready for action. When she left Portsmouth she carried 1,640 tons of coal She now has on board 410 tons, consuming 1,230 tons on the voyage, an average of 135 tons laily. As her coal carrying capacity is but 1.591 tons, some coal was taken The trip of the Kearsarge has demonstrated that a ship of her class can maintain an average speed of over 13 knots on a long voyage without injury to her machinery; that her coal carry-In Collision Between Electric Car 4,000 miles under full speed; that in time of war ships of her class can cross the ocean and engage an enemy most perfect ships in the world and Capt. Svampa is of the Opinion That it Will Not Take Long to Choose Leo's

Rome, July 26 .- At the sixth meeting of the congregation of cardinals, held today, 45 cardinals were present. Car dinal Della Volpe, volcing also the opinions of some of his colleagues, criticised the ceremonies in connection with the interment of Leo XII, last night, because the cardinals did not participate in the entire procession, and complained generally of the lack of or der. Monsignor Merry del Val communicated to the cardinals the report from Santiago, Chill, of the incident which occurred there during the celebration of the requiem for the late pope, which was attended by the president of the republic and all the authorities. According to the report Monsignor Usuarte, in delivering the culogy upon the late pontiff, protested against the usurpation of papal territory by litay, whereupon Count Cucchi Boasson left the church and lowered the Italian flag, which had been hoisted at the legation as a sign of mourning. The incident produced an unreasant impression upon the sacred college, being the first discordant note in the universal mourning. The ceremonial of the conclave established by Gregory XV. is to be followed at the coming meeting. The cardinals have decided during the conclave to eat in common in order to facilitate occurred there during the celebration to eat in common in order to facilitate Another paper quotes Monaignor Francisco Nava as to the possibility of the election of a pope who would reconcile the vatican and the quirinal thus. "No pope ever hated Italy.
