The board of Weber county election convessors, who have been in such a muddle during the past 10 days over the failure of the judges of election of Hooper district No. 1 failing to count the straight votes cast, is still in a very | board. unsettled condition and the board cannot agree what to do in the matter. County Attorney Hulaniski submitted to the board the following opinion on the case:

"A careful examination of the election law and the decisions of the various courts in relation thereto leads me to the following conclusions in the matters embraced in your inquiry concerning the returns of Hooper district No. 1, and I so advise you: "That the board has the power to demand of the election judges of Hooper district No. 1, that they make out complete returns and that the board then has the power to and should count those returns. That the board has the power and by right ought to go beyond what came in the scaled envelop, if by so doing they can arrive at the truth and the facts. In a program, every number of which was almost faultlessly rendered, it would be difficult to particularize favorite selections, but among the gems were: "The Two Grenadiers," a song admirably suited to Mr. Goddard's tender and yet vigorous style; "Land of the Orange Blossom," a new ballad of exceptional merit; "Friends," an old favorite, and an exquisitely tender, and sympathetic piece, entitled, "Three Green Bonnets," which he rendered as an encore at the conclusion of the program. The marked improvement in Mr. Goddards volce since he was last heard here was freely commented upon. Mr. Goddard shared the honors of the evening with Prof. Willard Weihe and Mr. Tracy Y.
