

JERRY MCCARTHY WHIPS CHRISTIE

Disgraceful Exhibition at the Close of Last Night's Contest.

FREE-FOR-ALL SLUGGING.

Boxing Game in Salt Lake Receives a Severe Set-back at Hands of the Pugs.

A hugging match, a game of tag, an Alphonse and Gaston stunt, followed by a free-for-all fight in which everything from pulling hair and gouging to hammer locks and half Nelsons went, just about sums up the doings at the Salt Lake Athletic club last night.

What was to have been a boxing contest between Jerry McCarthy and Jack Christie, of 20 rounds duration, ended in the ninth when Eugene Thompson, for Christie, tossed a water soaked sponge into the ring as the sign of defeat. Christie was real angry and did not want to quit and banged away wildly at the Irishman, who returned the compliment as best he could. Then McCarthy decided that he was entitled to the gloves worn by the contestants and sent Thomas to get them from Christie. When the demand was made, Christie's reply was a vicious swing for Thomas. The latter tried to twing with the enraged boxer and then Eugene Thompson took a hand and also a half Nelson and threw Thomas to the floor. The latter said afterward: "De guy nearly tore me back off." McCarthy then tried to get the gloves and there was another mix-up. Thompson took a struggle hold on Jerry and Jerry for seven rounds it began to rain fists and policemen. Sheriff's office was also represented. Sherriff Enery crawled through the ropes and clambered over and over. He recognized, but the chairman ignored him until he jumped over a few heads and, seizing Christie, marched him downstairs. In the meantime the spectators were trying to break a few blood vessels by striking Jerry "kill him" and "beat his blooming black off."

The main bout, from a pugilistic standpoint, was about the roughest ever pulled off in this city, and the fight fans had reason to expect one of the best. Both men were wild, both committed fouls and Christie was badly scared when he first entered the ring. If he was not a frightened man, he gave one of the cleverest imitations ever seen in this part of the country.

In the beginning Jerry doubled up like a ball and kept forcing his way in while Christie jabbed and stabbed away with his right hand followed by clinching and wild swinging. In the mixup Christie was worsted slightly but no damage was done and for seven rounds more than two clean blows were landed. In the eighth McCarthy hit Christie with a right hander, a couple of times and Christie yelled out. He tried to hold McCarthy off and make explanations to George Gibbs, the referee, at the same time, but found it a difficult job as Jerry pounded away on the theory that "time and tide wait for no man." Every time Jerry swung, Christie asked the referee if he saw it. But as no damage was done, Gibbs refused to allow the foul. Some one in the crowd advised Christie to use his knee. Christie thought the suggestion a happy one and started to follow out the advice, but managed to come to his senses in time to avoid it.

Right here a word should be said about the referee. Gibbs is a first class good sort of fellow and no doubt tried to be fair, but he simply lost his head and allowed McCarthy to win by a technical decision. The referee paid no more attention to his instructions and warnings than he did to the crowd. He was a good vendor. Some raised the question of jobbery. If there was any job, Christie refused to answer. Gibbs has done the game a good deal, and the ring followers who were present fear that he has received a blow from which he will take long time to recover. The preliminaries were not worth mentioning and so they will be passed up.

THE BIKE RACES.

Stevens Beats Hopper in the Three Mile Race.

At the saucer track last evening, Orlando Stevens beat N. C. Hopper in their three-mile match race by a very close margin. The event was witnessed by more than 1,500 enthusiastic cycle fans. The entire program was highly interesting as every event brought out some good prize and the riders were fast for the prize money. The finish of the match race was very exciting. The pace-makers dropped out on the last three laps and the sprint began. Side by side the men tore around the track but as they crossed the tape Stevens was about a half a wheel-length ahead. The summary follows:

Half-mile amateur—Lindberg won, Hopper second, Carl Beckman third. Time, 53.

Australian pursuit, amateur—Lindberg won, Hopper second, Carl Beckman third. Time, 2:25.1-5. Distance, two miles seven laps and three-fifths.

Three-mile match—W. C. Hopper vs. O. L. Stevens. Stevens won. Time, 3:21.5.

Five-mile lap professional—Hoffman won, Hopper second, Stevens third. Time, 11:23.4.

New York, June 11.—Conditions for international revolver match by cable have been agreed upon by the United States Revolver association and the National Shooting societies of France and as a result the contest will be held June 25 or 26. The question of date is the only matter remaining unsettled. The French experts desired that the limit for the barrel be 12 inches and the weight of arm 5 pounds. This was acceptable to the Americans, most of whom, however, will use the regulation six-inch barrel and the other barrel varying up to eight inches. There will be 15 men and three substitutes on each team. Each of the 15 men will use 10 standard American targets of six shots each at a distance of 50 yards.

BALFOUR SAVES CHAMBERLAIN

Relieves Him of Any Necessity for Resigning.

CRISIS HAS BEEN AVERTED.

Premier Accomplished His Purpose Without Committing Government To Free Trade or Protection.

London, June 10.—By a dexterous and extraordinary speech, Premier Balfour tonight temporarily smoothed over the difficulty in the cabinet, relieving Colonial Secretary Chamberlain of any necessity for resigning, and for the moment averted a crisis. Mr. Balfour accomplished this without committing the government either to protection or free trade, though the effect of his speech will generally be taken to mean that the tariff issue is to be relieved for the present.

Debate on Grain Tax.

London, June 10.—That the interest in the political situation has been enhanced by the dramatic developments yesterday was fully evinced today by the remarkable unanimity and alertness of everybody in and about the house of parliament.

Henry Chaplin's amendment, which gave rise to the most interesting debate in the present parliament, was defeated by the majority of 396 votes, composed of Unionists, Liberals and Irish members. The minority who supported Mr. Chaplin's amendment were almost all followers of the government, while many of the Conservative party abstained from voting.

It was half past 10 o'clock tonight when Premier Balfour sprang to his feet to reply to the taunts of the opposition and appeals from his own party.

The premier was loudly cheered. He had scarcely begun to deal with Mr. Chaplin's amendment before he was interrupted by a hurricane of applause at the entry of Mr. Chamberlain, who had been absent hitherto throughout the evening. The colonial secretary dropped into his accustomed place. The house was packed with peers, members of the house and spectators, as it has not been since the days of home rule.

In a whimsical vein Mr. Balfour explained that the only reason that the corn tax was put on was because the government wanted money, and the only reason it was taken off was because the government wanted money no longer. Reverting to the charges of vacillation made against him, the premier took on a tone of unusual vehemence. He declared that he himself, though a believer in free trade (which statement met with loud applause), did not regard it as a fetish, and he had an absolute open mind regarding the necessity for any alterations in a system which was founded to suit conditions of fifty years ago.

He refused not only to make a statement of any finality upon such an important question, but he also refused to compel his colleagues to conform to a standard of opinion upon which himself and his colleagues had agreed. He said that differences of opinion existed within the cabinet but these were not serious enough to cause the resignation of any member.

Mr. Balfour made an "impressionable" plea, enforced by the precedents of Mr. Gladstone's ministry, for allowing the premier to retain an open mind upon a question so difficult and so superior to any party issues. The speaker did not believe the country would ever return to the old protection system, and no tax on food was ever imposed without the full consent of the working classes. They were confronted, however, continued the premier, by three great phenomena—huge tariff walls against the United Kingdom, the growth of trusts, and the desire of the colonies for closer union with the mother country. These factors could not be ignored.

He maintained that the method of starting a public discussion was the only way to deal with these phenomena, though he did not commit himself to Mr. Chamberlain's more advanced program. It would be folly and rashness, he said, to interfere with the great avowed which had been in operation for so many years without the most careful examination and without due regard for history and the traditions of the past, while at the same time they could not ignore new problems which the ever-changing face of industrial life presented for decision and the action of statesmen.

This non-committal speech and appeal, made with all the elegance and moderation which Mr. Balfour wielded so successfully, for an open mind in the cabinet, brought forth constant cheering. Throughout Mr. Chamberlain sat beside the leader of the house, beaming with satisfaction.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader, briefly replied, appealing for an opportunity for the public to more fully discuss the issue raised. He said one member of the government was prepared to make a revolution in the country's fiscal system, a question upon which the next general election should be decided. This appeal elicited no response on the part of the government.

The members of the house trooped into the lobby to vote against Henry Chaplin's amendment, the general comment being: "Balfour has saved Chamberlain."

The colonial secretary, himself jubilant, said: "Our friend, the enemy, is nullified this time."

With the exception of some irritable comments, the Unionist party is greatly relieved by the outcome of the debate, all the members expressing gladness that the crisis was passed, at the same time believing that the same cabinet could not be allowed to embrace such opposition on the fiscal policy of Great Britain as Colonial Secy. Chamberlain and Chancellor of the Exchequer Ritchie.

JETT-WHITE TRIAL.

Marcum's Sister Makes a Most Startling Statement.

Jackson, Ky., June 10.—The third day of the trial of Curtis Jett and Thomas White for the murder of Atty. Gen. Marcum was distinguished by the evidence of B. L. Ewen, the first and leading witness of the commonwealth, and that as he passed them he gave the signal for Jett to fire. Ewen testified to seeing White just before and after Marcum was shot, and to seeing Jett fire after Marcum was carried out of the courthouse. Ewen's testimony corroborates the statement he had previously made regarding both prisoners, and he withstood the most rigid and lengthy cross-examination, though he was pale and nervous. Ewen said he had never told Sheriff Ed Callahan and County Judge Hargis that he had seen that Marcum was killed, because he feared to. He left them under the impression that he did not see Jett and appeared to consent and endorse Hargis' story of the killing. On retrial examination he said that four for you own safety prevented him from allowing Callahan and Hargis to know what he had seen. This statement from a deputy sheriff of the county, who has lived a prisoner in his home through fear and been under military guard when awake or asleep for several weeks, produced a visible impression in the court. Ewen told of making a search of the courthouse shortly after the assassination and finding no one. He had seen the assassin, but dared not say so.

Tonight Mrs. Mary Johnson, sister of the murdered attorney, made a startling statement. In his address this morning the commonwealth's attorney, Byrd, said it would be proved that Jett admitted to Mrs. Johnson that he killed Marcum. In the evidence this afternoon he stated that Jett and White were talking to Mrs. Johnson at the bridge. Mrs. Johnson tonight confirmed what Byrd said would be her testimony, adding that she feared to tell this earlier, believing that she would be assassinated.

As she was returning home after the killing, she said, "I was overheard by Jett. He spoke to me and I said: 'Jett, did you kill my brother?' He replied: 'I did, but Hargis' money made me do it.' He said he was going to leave the country."

When the time approached for the resumption of the debate in the house of commons on the amendment of Henry Chaplin, Conservative, to the budget bill.

The answers to the questions not referring to the great problem of the day, passed almost unnoticed so keen was the anxiety to get to the all absorbing topic.

The debate was resumed by Maj. Seely, Conservative, who as a convinced free trader, rejoiced in the repeal of the grain tax.

Killed in Trolley Wreck.

New York, June 11.—One man has been killed and at least a dozen hurt in a trolley car wreck near Elizabeth, N. J. An open car running through the country at a rapid rate toward Plainfield was derailed on a sharp curve and plunged into the ditch. The trolleyman was crushed to death and the passengers were hurled in every direction. Two women and a man were seriously hurt.

Maj. House Sails for New York.
