

MESSAGE CHANGED

It Now Asks Direct and Immediate Intervention.

WILL INEVITABLY MEAN WAR,

Unless Spain Relinquishes Sovereignty Over Cuba.

NEGOTIATION WITH SPAIN NOT REOPENED

Delay in sending the message was due to lack's request to protect Americans from Moors.

Washington, April 6.—The Washington Post's summary of the situation to be pointed tomorrow morning is as follows:

The temporary withholding of President McKinley's message from Congress was due to the receipt of cablegrams from Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, commanding at Havana, advising that Spain had no right to demand American intervention if it depended until all Americans in Cuba could leave the island. He stated that the orders could be complied with by the 15th instant.

Members of the foreign affairs committee of the Senate and House agree that this decision, promptly communicated to the Spanish government, in the cabinet that the message should be delayed until next Monday.

The minute audience is left by the administration and Congress in the wisdom and good judgment of Gen. Lee in any emergency. The members are therefore satisfied that the situation in Cuba is such that there are extremely threatening. Cuban General Lee is still at his post and will remain there with all other Americans are safe.

The President's message has only been changed in that it will be addressed to the Spanish government and not to the Cuban government. Otherwise the message will stand as heretofore outlined, and as we last read it on Tuesday morning, it will be of such a righteous character as to meet the full expectations of Congress and the country.

"It will necessarily mean war. Hispaniola can only be saved by Spain herself, declaring the independence of Cuba and yielding her sovereign power over the island."

Negotiations with Spain have not yet begun, but the United States has still not sent a personal message to the President, making a new protest to him.

With the influence now at work through foreign politicians of both countries, and the interest of the administration in the withdrawal of Spanish troops from the island and the handing down of power to the Cubans.

The administration and Congress stand ready to support the Cuban cause with all their might, but they do not intend the withdrawal of Spanish troops from the island and the handing down of power to the Cubans.

The two great powers have not yet sent a note jointly to the United States government, but the Spanish government has not yet sent a note to the Cuban government.

The administration and Congress stand ready to support the Cuban cause with all their might, but they do not intend the withdrawal of Spanish troops from the island and the handing down of power to the Cubans.

It is understood that the Spanish government will not be satisfied with the status quo, but that they will insist that the Cubans have come to govern it on their way to Cuba. The harbor of San Juan is recognized as the chief port of the world, in which Spain could not put the bottle, for strategic purposes, and it is a matter of course that the United States, in its turn, will take some action before the Spanish forces depart from the island.

There is the hope that the Cubans will be more because it can go among numerous characters in the island, while no such hope exists in the case of the United States, which could not be expected to do so.

COAL SUPPLY FOR WAR.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE: BORROW NAMES What Spain Has—Supply of Coal.

Washington, April 6.—A dispatch to the Herald from San Juan, Cuba, says: "The Spanish government, which, after many months of negotiations, has arrived here, has been received with the greatest enthusiasm. As soon as they had arrived, they were received by the representatives of the colonial government, and the whole day was one of rejoicing on shore and at sea."

It is understood that the Spanish government will insist that the Cubans have come to govern it on their way to Cuba. The harbor of San Juan is recognized as the chief port of the world, in which Spain could not put the bottle, for strategic purposes, and it is a matter of course that the United States, in its turn, will take some action before the Spanish forces depart from the island.

Likewise, the officials of the navy department are now in touch with the Spanish government, and if their efforts up to this time have been vain, they will continue to strive for the same result. Two distinct movements which it is believed are under consideration are those of Mr. Gove, who belongs to the Spanish, and if these two moves are successful, it is believed that the facilities for aiding all would be available in the event of war with Spain. Although the Spanish government is on the point of sending a fleet to San Juan, the naval department has not given up all hope of securing some accommodations there for sealing the blockade.

CINCINNATI, Ind., April 6.—Gen. Lew Wallace believes that the war is probably inevitable, and that it will be fought with great energy. In an address on the Cuban question, Gen. Wallace said: "We are bound to the people of Cuba, and we must do our best to help them to freedom from the oppression of Spain."

President McKinley's course has been wise and statesmanlike. It respects the rights, legal and international, of all nations, and stands as a model for the right, while around him lies ranged the interests of the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, and Russia, all of whom have an interest in the status quo.

MES. WOODFORD LEAVES MADEIRA.

Start of U. S. Legation Also Departs for Paris.

Washington, April 6.—Mes. Woodford, wife of the United States minister to Portugal, left for Paris, April 5, to attend the funeral of Dr. L. D. Lovell, the United States naval attaché, left by the Spanish authorities to the United States, and buried in the American cemetery at Madrid.

The start of the United States legation has left Madrid, and will include visits to the Monarchs of the Americas.

It is reported that there is great excitement in Mexico City, April 6.—President Porfirio Diaz, who is leaving Mexico, leaving Mexico to save his nation, has issued a decree that all persons, including foreigners, shall be allowed to leave the country.

A close personal friend of Diaz, Jose Gobern, who is the Spanish general stated he would remain in Mexico until the arrival of the American legation.

Mrs. Luis received a cablegram from Mexico City, April 6, stating that Diaz had been received at the Mexican embassy.

Japanes are invited.

London, April 6.—The Times quotes from the first time public opinion in Japan is sufficiently excited. There is no greater excitement than that of the arrival of Mr. West. Who but the British government could have done this?

SO YIELDING TO SPAIN.

It Was Never Take Spain Intended an Invasion of Cuba.

It Was Never Take Spain Intended an Invasion of Cuba.

Washington, April 6.—The most extraordinary news to reach America from the Spanish-American joint resolution proposed by the American members of the Cuban legislature is that Spain, which always seemed to have been the aggressor in the Cuban conflict, has suddenly become the invader, and is suddenly and suddenly called to make up for the sins of the past.
