

Ogden's Bad Boy Boom.

Yesterday afternoon Simon Higginbotham, Jr., indulged in a little picnic which may cause him some trouble. It appears that he had been drinking yesterday afternoon and went home somewhat quarrelsome. He wanted the horse and buggy, but his father forbade his taking it. He has been somewhat troublesome and his father instructed Officer Harrop, who happened along to arrest the boy if he attempted to take the buggy. Simon, however, deterred him to let it alone. A brief conversation ensued during which the officer attempted to calm the feelings of Simos who, however, resisted all advance and finally drew his pistol on the policeman. He continued his threatening and the officer grabbed him by the arms just above the elbows from behind. Simon managed to get his pistol on his left shoulder and commenced to blaze away, the bullets, three in number, passing by the officer's neck. Mrs. Higginbotham, who was standing at the back of them, screamed, and Harrop thought she was shot, and he relinquished his hold to attend the lady. Simon moved off, and when he found that Mrs. Higginbotham was only frightened, he started to arrest the young man. The latter, however, stood off the officer, who was unarmed, and started to get a weapon. As he was retreating Simon took aim and a bystander called Harrop's attention to this. He turned just in time to see Simon shoot again. The ball passed between his body and his arm and whistled rather unpleasantly as it passed by.

Finally, after a little strategy Higginbotham was arrested with the assistance of Mark Farr and his brother. The affair is a very unpleasant one, as the young man is naturally affable when he is not under the influence of drink. His mother, we learn, has been rendered so ill by the affair as to have to remain in bed to-day.—Ogden Herald, June 20.

A House Falls on a Woman.

This afternoon, at two o'clock, the house of J. M. Bowes, situated on the corner of Utah and Granite streets, fell with a crash. The report at once drew a crowd of people to the spot, and the rumor was spread in the streets that several people were buried in the ruins. In fifteen minutes not less than five hundred people had gathered on the spot, and all who could find a place to work began doing all they could to remove the debris.

It was soon made clear that the only occupant of the house that was not accounted for was Mrs. J. M. Bowes. Only a moment before the building fell she had been seen by the neighbors standing in the front door of the house, and almost in the instant when the crash came, she had left the door and gone into the interior. Ropes were attached to the roof, and hundreds of willing hands helped to pull away the scattered timbers lying on top of the wreck. Others threw away the bricks which were lying on the ruins of the house. This work had proceeded about fifteen minutes when a boy, who had crawled under the debris, in about the center of the pile called out, "here she is!" and all effort was at once directed toward clearing away the bricks from that portion of the ruins. The boy had discovered the feet of Mrs. Bowes, who was lying under a confused mass of bricks and timbers, and after five minutes' hard work her form was plainly visible. It required fully five minutes more of hard work before she could be extricated.

The body was removed at once to the house of Dr. Sarchet, which is situated next to the ruined building on the east, and after a moment's examination the doctor pronounced life to be extinct. Mrs. Bowes' skull was crushed, both arms were broken and the chest was crushed in by a large timber that had fallen directly across her body. Her death must have been instantaneous. Mrs. Bowes was about 55 years of age, and leaves no children.

The house was a one-story and a half brick, about fifteen feet by twenty-five, with an L on the east end about ten by fifteen. Some time ago the sidewalk in front of it on Granite Street was raised to the grade, which brought it up about eight feet above the floor of the house. This made the dwelling very inconvenient, and a few weeks ago Mr. Bowes let a contract to Dave McDonald to raise the house, which was brick veneered, to the level of the street. This work had been completed, and the building was almost ready for the walls of the foundation to be built.—Butte Intermountain, June 17.

Strike at Coalville.

Last Wednesday the foreman of the Home Coal Company's mine, at Coalville discharged one of his men for cause, whereupon the entire force of miners demanded his reinstatement and the reasons for the dismissal. This was denied and the men went out on a strike. They are still out and decline to go to work until the company bows down to their whims. The miners allege two or three other causes for the trouble. They claim that their pay is insufficient and that for no good reason it was kept back for several days last month. It is not yet known what course the company will take. In the mean time Park City's supply of coal comes from Almy.—Park City Record.

Major Murray, who suicided at San Francisco, was in Victoria, B. C., for about four months. He left hurriedly, leaving behind a young lady to whom he was engaged to be married. His identity was enveloped in mystery.

DYSPEPSIA

Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specific for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to abandon all medicines when I noticed an endorsement of Simmons' Liver Regulator by a prominent Georgian, a jurist whom I knew, and concluded to try its effects in my case. I have used but two bottles, and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I felt its beneficial effects almost immediately. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. This fact alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.

What Mr. Beyer says: "Please accept my best thanks for the splendid seeds received from your firm. It would be a rather lengthy list if I should name all, but will say that amongst 38 first, and 3 second premiums awarded me at our fairs in Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan, 28 first premiums were for vegetables raised from your seeds. What firm can beat this?"
Seed of this quality I am now ready to sell to every one who tills a farm or plants a garden, sending them FREE my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue, for 1887. Old customers do not write for it. I catalogue this season the native wild potato. JAS. J. H. GREGORY, Seed Grower, Marblehead, Mass.
