REPUBLICANS ARE IN FIRST COLUMN

Returns Over Idaho Indicate Big Pluralities for the Ticket.

TAFT AND BRADY LEAD.

Their Votes Run Into Safe Figures Where Democrats Were The Strongest.

Special Correspondence.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 5.—Returns from the various counties indicate a Republican victory throughout the state. From Republican headquarters Idaho won for Taft by approximately 15,000 and that the plurality for Brady for governor is about 8,000 or 9,000, and that every candidate on the entire Republican state ticket will be elected by a good majority. And that the next legislature will be made up of a good majority. All the northern counties with the exception of Latah went for Taft and Brady from 4,500 to 1,450, while the southern counties show a marked change in favor of Bryan and Alexander, with the exception of Blaine county, and indications from this county show a loyalty for their favored son with plurality for Taft 1,921, Brady 1,110.

In Boise on the morning of the 3rd, the day was ushered in with the appearance of old Sol at his usual time, in all his glory, the entire day being ideal, being marked by the quiet and orderly manner in which the people sought the polls to register their votes, and then return to their homes or places of work, stopping only to give personal expression as to the outcome.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Alexander Lees, an employee at the O. K. Lunch, met with a serious accident about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. He was driving with a friend on Vermont street, and at a rapid pace, and turned the horse suddenly toward the entrance of the Natatorium. The animal struck a stone wall with such force that it suddenly reared, causing a severe concussion from the effects of which he remained unconscious until about 7 o'clock last evening, when he suddenly regained his senses and left the hospital, where he had been brought by an ambulance. Lees has been married but a short time, and his wife was almost overcome when the news of the accident was conveyed to her.

TIMBER CASE DISMISSED.

The case of the United States against Frank Martin for alleged conspiracy was dismissed yesterday morning by motion of Assistant United States District Attorney S. L. Tipton, acting under instructions from Attorney-General Bonaparte. Frank Martin was charged under an indictment returned last April by the federal grand jury with conspiracy with Sumner C. Moon, J. T. Barber, and A. L. Palmer to defraud the government out of valuable timber lands in the Boise basin. The proceedings for the removal of Barber and Moon to Idaho for trial were dismissed several weeks ago, on motion of counsel for the government, and the action yesterday was the final chapter of the criminal prosecution instituted by Norman Rulick as United States attorney.

The action of the government in dismissing this second indictment is a concession that the evidence does not warrant prosecution, while it is also reported that the civil suit based on these criminal prosecutions involving about 35,000 acres of timber land in the Boise basin will also be dismissed. President Carson of the Barber-Lumber company, on his recent trip to this city, stated that just as soon as its interests were out of the courts extensive developments of its property were to be made. This plan includes the building of a railroad into the basin, which would bring the timber lands tributary to the mill, which is to be enlarged so as to furnish work for from six to eight hundred men.

MIDNIGHT FIRE.

Fire partially destroyed the tea and coffee store of Ames & Brennan, 205 North Eighth street, totally destroyed the clear store of H. G. McKinley, adjoining, and badly damaged the barber shop of W. J. Swartz, 203 North Eighth street 12:45 o'clock Sunday night, causing damage estimated at about $2,000 on the stock of all three places. The buildings were owned by John Broadbent and the provisions of the fire ordinance will not allow him to repair them. It is believed that the blaze originated in the cigar store, owned by McKinley, as there had been a fire in the stove all evening. Mr. McKinley closed the store at 11:30 o'clock and soon after flames must have started. They soon worked their way into the space between the roof and the ceiling. For over an hour the department worked in an effort to extinguish the burning timbers. McKinley estimates his loss at $1,200, with no insurance. The tea and coffee house carried a stock of $2,500, on which there is $500 insurance, which is believed will cover the loss. The barber shop fixtures were carried out and Swartz will suffer but little loss.

TURKISH ARMY GOING TO THE FRONT.

Fisher was born in Germany, June 26, 1850, and embraced the gospel there in her youth, and emigrated to Utah. Her first husband died, and she married Mr. Fisher. She was a member of the United Order while at Orderville. She was a devoted and faithful Latter-day Saint.

Many farmers attended the beet meeting yesterday at Blackfoot, specially called by T. R. Cutler, manager of the sugar factory, for the purpose of ascertaining if the farmers would raise more beets otherwise the factory might shut down. The results of the meeting were very favorable towards the factory.

ELECTORS OF OXFORD OBTAIN MIXED RESULTS

Special Correspondence.

OXFORD, Nov. 6.—Some rousing political meetings were held here just before election, among the speakers were Thomas P. Terrell and C. A.

Boyd of Pocatello, for the Democrats. J. T. Miller and Theodore Turner presented the Republican side. Election day went by with the usual bustle. Oxford precinct gave the Republican electors and state ticket majorities varying from 9 to 20, the Democratic county ticket, 2 to 49, and elected Republican precinct officers, Andrew Anderson for constable, Alvin Hadley and John Carlson, for justices of the peace.

Dr. G. Emery of Preston came up Wednesday to see Will Hardwick who is ill with typhoid and Ruby Boyce, who was taken to the hospital at Logan, on Thursday, to undergo an operation.

Bert Nelson, who a few days ago fell from the tender of a traction engine and had one of the tender wheels run over his body, is around again.

The Mutual Improvement Association of the ward have begun their season's work. Their conjoint meeting of two weeks ago was a very enjoyable one, a fine program being rendered.

BURLEY REPUBLICANS HAD A CLOSE SHAVE

BURLEY Nov. 5.—The election passed over quietly and much interest was taken. The day was pleasant and warm.

Returns show that the county went Republican although several of the officers were elected on a close margin.

Elder Walter Long departed for a mission to the southwestern states last Monday evening. Clyde Dalquist of Oakley passed through town to Salt Lake City where he will be set apart as a missionary to the Northwestern states. He was accompanied by his mother who returned to her home today.

Bishop L. W. Robbins is able to be around after several days sickness.

The Cassia state conference will convene at Oakley next Saturday and Sunday. It is expected that visitors from Salt Lake City will be in attendance.

B. C. Williams special agent of the Western Loan and Savings Co. of Salt Lake City was in town during the past week and succeeded in organizing a branch office here.

A football game is scheduled to come off at Albion next Saturday between the Albion normal team and Pocatello Academy team.

Contractor R. W. Faris passed through Burley yesterday on his way to Oakley to investigate the work being done on Goose Creek reservoir.

Hon. L. H. Sweetser who has recently been elected lieutenant governor of Idaho, has been busy during the past week, and has received telegrams of congratulation from his numerous friends throughout the state.

IONA PEOPLE HONOR LATE J. W. WOFFINDER

Special Correspondence.

IONA, Nov. 2.—The funeral services of John J. Woffinder, who died at the Idaho Falls sugar factory, by the cylinder head of a dynamo blowing out Friday night, Oct. 30, was held in the L. D. S. chapel of the Lincoln ward yesterday, Sunday, Nov. 1. There was not sufficient seating capacity for the large congregation, many having to stand during the services. All the mill hands that could possibly get away attended the funeral and there were many from the neighboring wards.

During the services Joseph Morley of Idaho Falls and Miss Eunice, Edmonds of Salt Lake City rendered solos. The speakers were superintendent of the factory, B. R. Smoot, who paid a splendid tribute to the deceased, saying that he died at his post in the faithful performance of his duty and even after he had received the fatal injury he tried to get to the valve to turn off the steam. The other speakers were, Bishop C. W. Rockwood of Iona, John P. Morton, John R. Chaffin of Lincoln, Mark Austin of Sugar City, Thomas R. Cutler of Salt Lake City, President James E. Steele and Bishop Heber Austin. Robert H. Wight offered the invocation and Moses Wright pronounced the benediction. The speakers all testified to the good character and sterling qualities of the deceased. The sad affair cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood, especially at the mill where Mr. Woffinder has worked ever since the factory started here. He was also with the company at Lehi, Utah, before he came to Idaho. He was a very useful man in the community. He was the choir leader in the Lincoln ward, and was a true man in every sense of the word. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his death. His body was shipped to Provo, Utah, for interment.

HEXAMETHYLENETETRAMINE

The above is the name of a German chemical, which is one of the many valuable ingredients of Foley's Kidney Remedy. Hexamethylenetetramine is recognized by medical text books and authorities as a uric acid solvent and a specific for the urine. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy as soon as you notice any irregularities, and avoid a serious malady. F. J. Hill Drug Co., "The Never Substitutes."

SMYRNA BOOK TRADE.

Books of English and American Authors Are in Favor.

Consul General Ernest L. Harris of Smyrna, in the following report intimates that under the new Turkish regime the book trade will be less restricted than heretofore. The book trade of Smyrna is very large, although up until the present time there has been no way of determining its extent. The books sold by the retail trade are mostly imported through the wholesale trade, which have been established by European nations in Smyrna. Librarians and book-dealers also adopt the method of bringing in books because, although it is more expensive method than having them sent as freight to a registry passed through the custom house, it affords a great saving of time.

The largest number of books are, nevertheless, imported through the custom house, especially in this case with bound books.

French books are mostly sold and read in Smyrna, and English books are a good second. Turkish books are sold extensively, and large Turkish book stores in Smyrna. Although the Greeks compose the largest European colony, yet Greek books have not an excellent sale.

Liberty of the press was granted recently by the Turkish government, and in all probability the restrictions against books will be abolished. The Tauchnitz edition, published in Leipzig, Germany, is the one most called for by the Smyrna trade. The American edition of English and American authors is finding a ready sale.

AN EXPLANATION.

The reason for the popularity of the Fleur-de-Lis chocolates is that they are absolutely pure and of the very best quality. They are sold at Williams' Home Drug Store, Smith Drug Store, Brigham Street Pharmacy and Halliday Drug.

GERMAN REGARD FOR THE WORKER

The German law requires that all machine tools for cutting, stamping and pressing purposes be protected by screens. We are accustomed in America, in many instances, to see a cutting machine which operates by the foot. When working rapidly accidents occur. This is particularly impossible with the German machine. Not only is the cutter screened to the very limit of practicality, but in order to insure that the workman's hands are off of the plate, two levers must be pulled. This means that both hands must be on the levers and the plate. It means a little slower operation, a little less accuracy, but a fractional shade lower per cent in shop efficiency, but it means safety for the workman and a better protection of life.

The wages are increased right along. I am told in shop work, in Eastern Prussia, in the Berlin territory a good man at a machine tool considers that he has right to be distributed 10 marks as an ex gratia bonus. In other words, he earns 50 pfennings per hour. Some men make 1 mark 50 pfennings per day, while others are on an eight-and-one-half-hour basis. The money is made out of the piece, will increase still more, and in view of the fact that living has immensely increased in Germany, there is good reason to expect an increase in cost of labor—Consular Report.

POCATELLO HOLDS JUBILATION RALLY

James H. Brady, Governor-Elect Of Idaho, Given Great Reception in Home Town.

DELIVERS STIRRING SPEECH.

John Sowercroft & Sons' Big Warehouse at Pocatello Purchased by Syndicate Headed by Kausan.

Special Correspondence.

POCATELLO, Idaho, Nov. 5.—The election is over, and things are again running as usual.

The state ticket went Republican, while on the county ticket the contestants divided honors. Mrs. Lizzie A. Hooker, widow of Mr. C. N. Hooker, Democratic nominee for treasurer, ran ahead of her ticket, as also did Mrs. O. A. Hendricks for assessor. The Republican candidates won by small majorities.

Monday night the Republicans held a grand rally with an illuminated street parade, with Ben C. Adams, H. Brady, Republican nominee for governor, as the central figure. Headed by the Gate City band, following a path marked by red and white lanterns, to which was added the light of innumerable torches, flambeaux and Roman candles by the armful, the procession moved through the city. Apparently the whole town was out to honor the home candidate. The hall was packed to capacity, and many had to go away, being unable to get in. The rally delivered a stirring speech on state, county and national issues.

Mrs. Mary E. Hopkins, wife of R. S. Hopkins, has returned from Salt Lake City, where she underwent an operation for an affection of her eyes. The left eye had to be removed to save the other eye. The lady is feeling along as well as can be expected.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Smith, proprietors of the Pocatello Hotel, observed their silver anniversary last Saturday afternoon and evening. Many of their numerous guests, to which some 50 guests were invited. The house was prettily decorated.

The host and hostess are quite popular here, and especially so among their countrymen, the Danes, and on this occasion the guests were mostly pioneer Scandinavians, and the banquet consisted of genuine Danish courses.

Rev. Harold Jensen of Salt Lake, was one of the guests from out of town. After dinner the Amos & Brady were taken to the Auditorium, to see "The Man of the Hour," after which light refreshments were again served at the Pocatello hotel. Amos & Brady were very happy and useful presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Smith, was an enlarged photograph as they appeared 25 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will again entertain their friends next Saturday night, at the Odd Fellows' hall.

LAUNDRY WORKERS' UNION.

The laundry workers formed a union last week under the title, Local union No. 11, Laundry Workers of America. The following officers were chosen: S. M. Hall, president; Marjory W. Dwyer, vice president; May Jensen, recording secretary; Edna Bonner, financial secretary; Agnes Wright, treasurer; Ruth Wright, sergeant-at-arms; Dan Wright, inside guard; F. Whipple, Emma Johnson and Roxie Saunders, trustees. Alfred T. Jones, Temple O. Smith and Charles A. Keegan, assisted in forming the union.

BIG WAREHOUSE SALE.

Advices from Ogden are to the effect that the Sowercroft warehouse, owned by J. L. Hill of Coffeyville, Kansas. Mr. Hill who is extensively engaged in the wholesale business in Kansas, intends to establish a big wholesale grocery house here.

Mr. Hill was advised of the option on the Sowercroft warehouse by a farmer by one of the Omaha boomers who visited western cities in quest of new fields of operation and expansion of trade. Mr. Hill has just ordered the option closed.

FACTS ABOUT FISHES.

SCIENTISTS assert that honorable mention, if not first prize, should be awarded to the story told by piscatorial experts to the effect that there is "a certain kind of fish" which hatches its eggs by sitting on them like a bird. The disbeliever of skeptics, however, is to be partly attributed to the erroneous notion, shared also by other people, that finny fathers and mothers are not only cold-blooded, but also so heartless that as soon as the eggs of the female have been deposited they desert their offspring and leave their parental responsibilities to Dame Nature.

As a matter of fact, this is quite a libel on some of the inhabitants of the water world. Take, for instance, the common little stickleback—the prey of the small boy and the despised of the man with a rod, whose skill is often surpassed by his imagination. He is the most exemplary of parents, and is so fond of baby sticklebacks that he generally persuades several females to deposit their eggs in the very ornate nest which he builds early in the mating season.

But he is a jealous, selfish creature, for no sooner have the females deposited their eggs than he unceremoniously drives them away, and we betide the luckiest fish that ventures near the nest. The greater part of his time is now taken up in arranging the eggs and in fanning them with his fins. When, after a month, the young hatch, he busies himself trying to prevent the fry from straying, and thus falling into the hungry maws of probably their own mother. Should one get out, it is either driven back or the old fish seizes the trout in his mouth and carries him back. The statement, however, that a stickleback has been observed toward evening gently swimming round and round the nest softly gurgling "Go to sleep, my little peckaninies," may be set down as an exaggeration.

Both sea and river catfish are notable for the parental care they exercise over their eggs and young. The mated pair usually excavate a rude earthen nest on sandy or gravelly ground in shallow water, and during the entire hatching season they are incessant in their efforts to protect the smothering of the eggs and to guard against intruders. The eggs are kept constantly agitated and aerated by a gentle fanning motion of the lower fins, and foreign particles, either on the bottom of the nest or floating near the eggs, are removed in the mouth or by the fins.

When the fish begin to swim, they cluster beside the old fish just like a swarm of bees. In the case of some species of catfish the young swim in large shoals over the mother of the parent fish, and when danger threatens, the father or mother, as the case may be, opens its mouth, and the fry find a safe retreat in the throat. At least, so say those who ought to know. Some sea catfish are even more remarkable in their habits than the fresh-water members of the family. In most species the female lays extremely large eggs, some being the size of a small marble. As soon as the eggs are fertilized by the male, he takes them into his mouth. The interior of his mouth is capacious, and by a peculiar arrangement the eggs are confined to that cavity and cannot pass into the stomach. The number of eggs so carried varies between eight and 50.

At this time the male presents a very comical appearance, as his pharynx is so distended that he cannot close his mouth. The length of time during which the eggs are retained within the mouth is unknown, but it must be considerable. While carrying the eggs in this way the old fish does not feed, and frequently becomes very much emaciated from his long fast.

Another species of fish which carries the eggs of its young in its mouth for a considerable time are the cichlids, or New Testament fish, so called because they are said to have formed the miraculous draught of fishes recorded in the New Testament, and which are found today in the fresh waters of tropical Africa and America.

About 200 eggs in a little excavation which she works out among the rushes and roots. The male fecundates them, and a few minutes afterward he takes the eggs, one after another, into his mouth, and keeps them in the buccal cavity against his cheeks, which then appear swollen in an extraordinary manner. The eggs, although they are not attached by any membrane to the fleshy substance, remain securely in his mouth, and are never dropped while in the water. In this novel incubator the eggs hatch out in a few days. The fry, however, do not quit their parent's mouth even then, but remain packed in there for some days. Finally, the young leave their babyhood home, but as soon as danger threatens they all re-enter the old fish's mouth.—TRI-BITS.

Dinwoodey Furnishings --- The Secret of Home Comfort.

IS this a picture of your evenings at home? Wonderful what the designers' and manufacturers' art and skill have contributed to our home comfort. Fortunate that Salt Lake may boast of having a furniture concern that represents the newest—the best—the most advanced ideas in home furnishings—it's a reputation we have fairly gained and maintained.

The accompanying design certainly suggests the "Electrolier." This is the prettiest electric lamp on the market. Just the thing for the library, the dining room or the banquet hall. It is not only exquisitely beautiful, but is throughout practical. Comes in the dome, or hanging lamp, and stand. Can be adjusted to every useful position on desk and table. Don't think it premature if we suggest that such a purchase would at once solve the perplexity of shoppers who are seeking holiday gifts that are neither hackneyed nor expensive.

Our display of electroliers on our newly arranged main floor daily invites the most extravagant praise from all who witness it. Why not see OUR ELECTROLIERS? Prices are very reasonable.
