Current shot at him several times with a revolver, two of the shots taking effect in his breast. Matt Current then seized Burton and shot him through the head. Burton fell and was set upon by the two Currents, who beat him over the head with their pistols, fracturing his skull, beating his nose to a jelly, and cutting his face horribly. Marshal Miller arrested both the Currents and put them in jail. The excitement is great and lynching is talked of, as the Currents have been boisterous, and Burton was well known and was in the discharge of his duty. Burton was a single man.

VERSAILES, 6.—The trial of Marshal Bazaine, by court martial, opened at noon to-day in the Palace of Trianon; the Duke d'Aumale presided. Among the witnesses present were Marshals Canrobert and Lebouff, and Genls. Frossard, Bourbaki and Changarnier. When the formalities attending the opening of the court had been completed a brief recess was taken, after which, by order of the president, a statement of the public services of Marshal Bazaine was read. It comprised the history of his military career from the beginning, and recounted distinctions which had been conferred upon him and the wounds he had received. The report of the committee of inquiry on the capitulation of Metz was next presented and read. This was followed by the reading of the indictment, to which the Marshal listened attentively, but without emotion. M. Rivierre then submitted his report. It reviews the plans of the campaign proposed by the Department, gives a sketch of the battle of Fobachit, in which great stress is laid on Bazaine's responsibility for the result, because he neglected to go to General Frossard's assistance. In regard to his conduct at Metz, M. Rivierre takes the ground that the Marshal, at no time, was really desirous of leaving the place. After hearing Rivierre's report the court adjourned until to-morrow.

When unable longer to advance those principles or to perform the duties of his office, he will retire.

PARIS.—The second sitting of the court martial for the trial of Marshal Bazaine began at noon to-day. There were few spectators present, owing to the uninteresting character of the proceedings, which consisted mainly of the reading of documents. It was agreed between counsel that the depositions of dead and absent witnesses should be admitted. The president said measures had been taken to secure the attendance of witnesses living in Alsace and Lorraine. The clerk resumed the reading of M. Rivierre's report, which is a lengthy document. Mr. Rivierre lays great stress on Bazaine's failure to move from Metz when notified of MacMahon's advance and claims that there is proof that he personally received the notification on the 23rd of Aug. The Marshal's friends have hitherto alleged that it was not received until the 29th, when it was too late. The report generally stigmatizes, as insufficient, all the efforts made from Metz to co-operate with MacMahon, and charges Bazaine with purposely remaining in the city to await political events; with endeavoring to shift the responsibility, with propagating unfavorable and withholding favorable news, and otherwise spreading discouragement among the besieged; with entering into negotiations with Prince Frederick Charles before making a final effort to break his line, which is declared as unprecedented in history; with confiding the date at which he was willing to surrender to Reguere, who was a stranger and at the time in relations with the enemy. It points to the contradictory dispatches of the 26th of August, in which Bazaine informed MacMahon and Polkas that it was impossible to break out. Pending the reading of the report the court adjourned until to-morrow.
