EDITORIAL NOTES.

The questions of the hour at Washington are, who will succeed Folger? And, Will Folger succeed?

A Mississippi man has made the discovery that alligators' eggs can be hatched artificially, but what benefit is to accrue therefrom we are at a loss to guess.

Such an inclement September as that of this year was hardly ever before known in Switzerland. The mountains all around Lake Lemano and the Lake of the Four Cantons were white with snow by the middle of the month.

The London Times forebodes a permanent English military occupation of Egypt. It says that to restore the authority of the Khedive the Egyptian army must be abandoned and be replaced by gendarmes sufficient to maintain civil order.

One result of the new acts compelling the factories and bakeries of London to consume their own smoke is that the chrysanthemums in the Temple gardens are now very fine. The rhododendrons at St. Paul's and the fuchsias at the Charter House have also become superb under the new conditions.

No part of England has grown more heavily under progress and improvement of late years than that near the banks of the Thames. Quaint villages which have been the delight of artists and other lovers of rural life, are fast disappearing. Inns have grown into hotels, villages into towns.

The Louisville school of Pharmacy is now open to women, its first young lady student having recently entered with the intention of taking a full course. A practical chemist in Louisville declares that after having employed both men and women he is persuaded that the latter will make the better drug clerks.

The British Postoffice is substituting women clerks for men in the entire work of handling the postal savings bank deposits, which are now $219,000,000 against $199,000,000 a year earlier. No men are to be dismissed, but as fast as vacancies come they are to be filled by women, selected, of course, by competent examination.

The dollar subscription for the Longfellow memorial fund languishes, while England places a bust of the honored poet in Westminster Abbey. Is it as true of American's favorite bard as of the Scriptural prophet, or is it because willing millionaires have not been called upon to start the ball before the nation should send it rolling.

The question whether an officer has a legal right to kill an escaping prisoner is to be tested in Philadelphia. A policeman arrested a man on a suspicion, subsequently shown to have been unjust, that he was a thief. The man broke away, but made no assault on his captor, who fired upon him, and he has just died after two months of terrible suffering.

The official report on silk culture in Hungary is encouraging. It appears that last year's product amounted to 41,537 kilograms of cocoons, against 40,182 kilograms in the year preceding, the values of the same, respectively, being $3,465 and $222. The number of cultivators in the year first mentioned was 2,970, and in the other, 1,059. A school for sericulture is to be established under government patronage.

Irish hotel-keepers are having a hard time of it this year. One of them has written to a London newspaper complaining that the most picturesque parts of Ireland are almost deserted. He is aware that the misfortune of his class is due to the unsettled state of the country, but he assures the English traveler that the disorder has been exaggerated, and that they would be perfectly safe among the charming scenery of the Emerald Island.

Dr. Baer, in a recent address before the Board of Health, of Berlin, stated that during the last twelve years the number of drinking shops in Belgium had increased from 45,000 to 96,000, and the consumption of alcohol from 4.42 to 11 liters per head. On the other hand, in Gottenburg, since the liquor shops have been reduced in number from 61 to 36, and the selling of liquor on credit forbidden by law, the arrests for drunkenness have fallen off two-thirds, as also the number of cases of delirium tremens. Dr. Baer said that in Prussia 32 per cent. of murders and personal violence occur on Sunday alone, 58 per cent. on Saturday and Sunday together.

For thirty years the name of Florence Nightingale has been familiar to the American public, but how many of those who honor her have ever seen her portrait? This pleasure is to be afforded by the November Century, in a large engraving by Cole, which is to be the frontispiece of the number. In England some idealized pictures have appeared, but nothing to which Miss Nightingale or her family would give sanction. Mr. Cole's engraving is made with the authorization of her sister, Lady Verney, who has sent for the purpose a photograph showing a face of great refinement, sweetness and decision. The portrait is engraved to accompany a paper on "A New Profession for Women," i. e., trained nursing, which has been so successfully established in America, through the Bellevue Training School for Nurses.

THE CONFERENCE.

The Conference which closed on Sunday afternoon, October 8th, was one of the best and most spirited which we ever attended. The cold storm which prevailed during the latter part of the week rendered necessary an adjournment from the Tabernacle to the Assembly Hall, but there was no coldness in the hearts of the people nor in the sentiments or expressions of the speakers. Every discourse delivered, whether in the Assembly Hall or in the Tabernacle, was replete with sound instruction, correct doctrine, and exhortations to purity of life and that union which is so necessary to the welfare, progress and triumph of the Saints.

One feature was distinctly prominent in the remarks of all who addressed the assembly, and that was profound faith in the overruling power of God and the sure and certain conviction of the ultimate victory of the truth and this people over every error and every scheme designed for injury. Many very interesting reminiscences of important events in Church history were presented and the testimonies borne to the divinity of this work and its power to regenerate and exalt mankind, were powerful and pointed.

The witness of the Holy Spirit was abundantly experienced while the Presidency and Apostles discoursed of the things of God, and all present were refreshed, revived, and strengthened in the faith of the Gospel and in a determination to serve God and obey His laws in spite of every opposing influence.

Notwithstanding the unpleasant weather during some of the meetings the attendance was exceedingly large. On Sunday morning, for instance, in spite of the pouring rain the immense Tabernacle was crowded in every part, while in the afternoon hundreds were unable to gain admittance or obtain standing room.

The vacancies in the quorum of the First Seven Presidents of Seventies were partly filled. Elder Abraham Cannon was called and appointed to be one of that quorum and Elder Theodore B. Lewis was also called but it appeared that he had been ordained to the office of High Priest and was therefore not eligible for the position, the two calling Seventies and High Priest being different, as may be seen from the revelation on Priesthood in the Doctrine and Covenants. The other vacancy therefore remains unfilled.

Everybody who attended the Conference appeared to enjoy its spirit, proceedings and instructions greatly, and we have no doubt that its object will be fully realized; that is the Saints will be comforted, encouraged and built up in their most holy faith, and the work of God will receive additional impetus, rolling forth with accelerated speed and power, in its great mission for the redemption of the human race.

A BOGUS APPOINTMENT DECLINED.

We have received the following communication, which is plain and outspoken enough to make even a "Liberal" executive understand its meaning:

Editor Deseret News:

I see by the Salt Lake papers that I have been appointed by the Governor to fill the office of Probate Judge of Iron County. As I am not at present a candidate for office, I take this means to notify the people of this county that I have declined to accept the office.

My name was sent to Salt Lake without my knowledge or consent. I am not a Mormon, and this is probably the reason why I was so honored; but I cannot feel right if I allowed myself to be placed in an official position where I could not have the hearty support of the majority of the community.

I think that all officers should be elected by the people, from the Governor down, so I could not consistently accept an appointment to any office.

L. S. LYMAN.
Parowan, Oct. 4, 1892.

It will be observed that the writer of the above ignores altogether the question of vacancies, and predicates his action upon the broad principle of popular rights. It does not matter to him whether there is or is not a vacancy in the office to which he has been "appointed" by the Governor. He considers it the right of the people to elect their own officers, and therefore he will not serve as the appointee of a one-man-power. This is a position consistent with the principles professed by those who declare they are for liberty and republicanism. But unfortunately in Utah, those who make the greatest pretensions as champions of freedom for the people, are engaged in attempts to break down what little liberty and powers of citizenship are left to the people. While making highfalutin speeches and spreading eagle demonstrations about "independence," "manhood," and "casting off restraint," they are seeking to force upon the Territory the iron rule of one individual who derives no authority whatever from the people whom he seeks to bring into abject servitude.

What a splendid cause for "Liberalism" to be engaged in, is it not? The people have only the power to elect men of their choice to fill a few local offices for the conduct of their own local affairs, and this meagre right is attacked by men called "Liberalists" who wish to aid an imported Governor in the exercise of arbitrary, irresponsible and autocratic domination. "Liberalism" with a vengeance!

by gubernatorial appointment, and the local laws which authorize the incumbents to hold their offices until their successors are elected and qualified would have been recognized in its proper force. Thus the Governor would have shown some regard for laws which he has sworn to sustain and execute, and for his own commissions which those incumbents have and which declare their right to hold office according to the local statutes. But in the anti-republican and unjustifiable raid which he has attempted upon the people's elected officers, he has not only spurned the laws of the Territory, but trampled upon the commissions signed with his own hand and sealed with the territorial seal.

The gentleman who declines the office of Probate Judge for Iron County has done well, and his example, we have no doubt, will be followed by others on similar grounds, even though they may not proclaim their determination in the same bold and public manner. The idea of occupying the position of a servant of the people in any capacity contrary to the wishes of the people, must be repugnant to every man with the least self-respect and regard for consistency. The people of Iron County, among whom Mr. Lyman lives, whatever may be his sentiments on other matters must certainly honor him for those expressed in the above communication.

Smallpox.

CHICAGO, 10.—Through the negligence of an inspector who failed to vaccinate persons in the vicinity of 24 East North Avenue, where a sporadic case of smallpox recently appeared, the disease has broken out in seven adjacent houses. Wholesale vaccination is now progressing in that section, and no fears of a further spread are entertained.

Severe Rain Storm.

A Casselton, Dak., special says: It has been raining 12 days. No threshing has been done during that time. A fourth of the wheat and one-fourth of the oat crop is in stack or shock here yet. The wheat in shock is badly grown and will hardly pay for threshing. This will result in a heavy loss. No other portion of Dakota reports rain or damage of any consequence.

A Lincoln, Neb., special says: The recent rains have been a boon to Nebraska stock-raisers. The new grass fattens cattle better than corn feeding would. Grass on the prairie has grown three inches in the past ten days. Wheat and corn crops of hay is in stack than ever before.

FOREIGN.

Minors Conference.

LONDON, 10.—A conference of the coal miners, representing nine counties of England, met at Manchester on Friday to decide upon a course of action when notices shall be given of a general stoppage of work, especially in Yorkshire, Derbyshire and Lancashire.

Two Men Lynched.—The following special to the News was received this afternoon, from Ogden:

"This evening's Herald has an account of the hanging of two desperadoes, 'John' and 'Johnson,' on American Falls Bridge, on October 8th, for murdering a Chinaman in his cabin, and general lawlessness."

Salt Lake Theatre.—"Not Guilty," was played by the Dramatic Combination last night to a crowded house. The performance was highly creditable, and gave evidence of gratification to the audience. Miss Dunbar, played the double role of mother and daughter with marked excellence. The other characters were also well sustained. To-night "Jessie Brown," which drew such an immense audience on Saturday, will be repeated.

The One Man Power Cases.—The mandamus cases in which Arthur Pratt, "appointee" of the Governor to the office of Sheriff of Salt Lake County, and Dr. Douglas, "appointee" of the Governor to the office of Territorial Auditor of Public Accounts, citing the present incumbents to show cause why they should not be preemptorily commanded to vacate, were to have come up this morning in the District Court. On account of other business occupying the attention of the court they were continued till this afternoon, and again this afternoon, were continued over until to-morrow morning.

From Montpelier.—We received a call to-day from Brother Henry Rolap, who is down from Montpelier, the present western terminus of the Oregon Short Line Railroad. Business is very brisk there at present. The advent of the railroad there has brought its unfavorable as well as favorable phases to that section, however. Some strangers lately entered upon a land-jumping transaction, which has produced some litigation, the cases now pending in the courts. Some parties established a whisky saloon in the town, but that institution was lately removed beyond the limits of the settlement.

Belligerent Boys in Blue.—Last night a number of soldiers from Fort Douglas made night hideous by shooting and yelling and shooting off pistols. They were followed by officers A. Smith and W. Salmon, who procured assistance. In the vicinity of St. Mary's Hospital the police and soldiers met, the result being that five of the boys in blue were taken to the City Hall. Two of them were more peaceable than the others were set at liberty, three being detained in custody. One of the soldiers drew his pistol for the purpose of shooting the police, but was quickly prevented from doing so. One who was unusually forcible in his resistance, was tapped on the head, which had the effect of cooling his courage.

Better than Physio.

Human life is a talent, a privilege, a probation. To live to a purpose, men should live long in order that they may gain experience, for by the wise use of these, grand things are said and done. Then follow those who should be described by all those practices which tend to preserve it in its highest, healthiest form and to its greatest duration, and therefore health is duty.

More people die prematurely from want of care in any given year than perish by plague, famine, pestilence and war.

More people die of air tight rooms than of unchinked log cabins.

Physicians may rest assured that if the invalid and the convalescent were more closely observed and studied, they would be more successful, with less medicine.

It is a beautiful fact, that while the warmth and exposures of summer tend to biliousness and fevers, the free use of fruits and berries counteracts the tendency.

Let our children starve for bread rather than for air. Let us see to it that their apartments, at home and in the school room, are well ventilated, and that they are not too long confined on hard benches, in crowded rooms. Let them learn to play as well as to study. Let us educate their bodies as well as their minds.

If a child is regularly put to sleep at a same time, for only three or four days in succession, the habit will so rapidly grow upon it that, with the aid of quiet and a little darkening of the room it will, if well, fall to sleep within a few minutes of the time, for weeks and months in succession, such is nature's love for system and regularity.

You are well, let yourself alone. The forms and ceremonies of politeness may be dispensed with, in a measure, in the relations and intimacies of one's own friends, but kind attentions, never.

There can be no doubt that an ill-conditioned cellar is the unexpressed cause of death among many a happy household.

The more clothes a man wears, the more bed-clothes he uses, the closer he keeps his chamber, whether warm or cold, the more he confines himself to the house, the more numerous and warm his night-garments, the more readily will he take cold, under all circumstances; as the more a thrifless grocer is helped, the less able does he become to help himself.

More persons are destroyed by eating too much than by drinking too much. Let us beware of drunkenness in civilized society.

An Enormous Telescope.

Russian astronomers expect shortly to be the happy possessors of the largest telescope in the world. The observatory at Pulkovo was founded in 1839 by the Czar Nicholas, and for a long time it was furnished with the most powerful instrument in existence. The Czar desired that it should be supplied with the most perfect means of taking observations, and that it should never be allowed to be inferior to any other astronomical station in the world. Of late years the progress of science has enabled England, France and the United States to outstrip Russia, and the refracting telescope of Pulkovo is superior to the great glass at Pulkovo, which was, at the time, believed to be unrivaled. The University of Virginia has a telescope of 33 feet. The Washington Observatory has a similar telescope; and the request for the gift of the California millionaire, Mr. Lick, that State will have still more powerful telescopes in the neighborhood of San Jose. According to the latest reports, the government has decided to realize the wish of Czar Nicholas, and to furnish the observatory at Pulkovo with a new instrument which should be more powerful than any other in existence. The astronomer Otto Struve was authorized to draw upon the treasury for whatever sum might be required, and a heavy sum was entrusted to the celebrated American firm of Alvin Clark, of Cambridge, Mass., the maker of the large refracting telescope at Pulkovo. The grinding of the new lens for Russia has now been proceeding for twelve months, and it is expected that by October it will be ready to be submitted to the inspection of the Russian astronomers. The length of the Pulkovo telescope will be 45 feet, and the diameter of the objective lens 30 inches. It will be mounted upon the same base as the west of the principal building of the observatory. It is estimated that this new lens will practically bring nearer to the earth, at a distance of 35 leagues from the earth.

CASH PRICES.

During the month of October we will present one of the largest and finest lines of spring work ever offered for sale in this market, in all ten car loads, part of which has arrived and four car loads are en route and to arrive this week.
