LOCAL NEWS.

Sister Smith's Funeral.—The funeral service over the remains of the late Laura S. Smith will be held at the family residence, 17th Ward, at 2 o'clock p. m. to-morrow (Friday). Friends of the family are requested to be present.

Farwell Party.—The good people of St. Charles, Bear Lake Co., assembled at the meeting house on the evening of the 10th inst. to tender a farewell greeting to Brother C. A. McKelvey, who was shortly to leave for the Southern States on a mission. The exercises consisted of songs, recitations, readings, speeches, dancing, etc. During the evening lunch was partaken of. Brother McKelvey was presented with a fine Oxford Sunday school Bible, as a token of esteem, by the Sunday school of this place.

Three Score and Ten.—Yesterday Brother Wm. A. McMaster of this city celebrated his 70th birthday by having a reunion of his numerous children, grand children and great grand children. In the evening he was presented with a handsome watch, the presentation being made by Mr. J. B. McMaster, in behalf of the sons and daughters of their venerable father. In an appropriate speech, to which the latter responded in a few touching and instructive remarks. After this an elegant and delicious supper was enjoyed by those present. The repeat over, songs, recitations, speeches, etc., were indulged in till 11 o'clock, when the happy gathering broke up. We join the many friends of the worthy veteran in wishing him renewed health and happiness.

Civil Cases.—The following suits have been instituted in Justice Burton's court: W. S. McCormick vs. Richard Gough, Jesse Knight and H. S. Taylor, for $100 and claimed to be on a promissory note.

Nattress Brothers vs. E. Morris, Jr., claim for $92.25 due on a bicycle purchased from plaintiffs.

J. S. Barnes vs. Wm. Dillon, for $30 rent alleged to be due on the premises where defendant keeps a restaurant, at 56 E. Second South Street. An attachment was issued in the case and certain property levied on, but investigation showed that it was mortgaged, and of course it had to be released.

Jo. Baumgartner obtained judgment against E. B. Lewis for $131.00 and costs of suit.

The Value of Scandal.—A somewhat lengthy statement, signed by Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, wife of Alexander Brown, who was lately in the police court, charged with assault, has been handed out. The paper was intended for publication in this journal, but as it is very elaborate and is almost entirely devoted to answering statements made in reference to the lady's husband by other local papers, we can see no point in giving it space. It is chiefly intended as a refutation of certain allegations regarding the existence of improper intimacy between Alex. Brown and a lady personally unknown to us. It is a matter of regret that the reputations of respectable people are held so cheap as to cause them to be subjected to unseemly scandal upon wild ex parte statements of the correctness of which there is no apparent evidence. The fair fame of a lady should be especially held sacred against the circulation of such damaging charges. The news of the time the case referred to developed the scandal, that the reputation of the lady and also that of Mr. Brown were excellent among their immediate neighbors. Statements have come to us since from people of high respectable position, confirming that expression. The lady whose character has been assailed has been held by those acquainted with her as being above suspicion and reproach. No others have a right, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to hold it otherwise. Among those who appear to be perfectly satisfied upon that point is the lady who signed the statement mentioned at the beginning of this article.

THE GRAND JURY.

THE INQUIRY FOR THE THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT ORGANIZED.

This afternoon Marshal Dyer returned the open venire issued for grand jurors for the September term of the Third District Court. The clerk called the following, who responded and took their seats in the jury box:

Christopher Diehl, John Strickley, J. E. Gallagher, J. H. Lamm, John Barnett, M. H. Aschen, Wm. W. Chisholm, W. A. Wiseman, E. M. Rader, B. A. M. Froese, John Tiersan, F. A. Williams, James Anderson.

Assistant District Attorney Varian asked the question: "Mr. Lamm, do you believe it right for a man to have more than one living and undivorced wife at the same time?"

The face of the Tribune manager was tinged with a deeper crimson, and the members of the bar and spectators uttered as he replied, "No, sir, I do not."

Mr. Varian—Nor to live with more than one woman?

Mr. Lamm—No, sir.

Mr. Varian (to jurors)—Gentlemen, I know all your faces, and presuming you can answer similarly, pass you.

One of the jurors stated that he was not a taxpayer, but he was accepted, and the jury impaneled.

R. McIntosh was then sworn in as foreman.

The Court then charged the jury that the law imposed on them the duty of investigating thoroughly all charges of public offenses committed within the Third Judicial District; they should only accept legal evidence, and be prompted only by a desire to ascertain the truth of the charge; they ought not to be influenced by prejudice, fear, or favor, or by public clamor, but investigate all cases impartially; they were judges of the credibility of witnesses, and of the motives thereof, and if witnesses were prejudiced, should consider their evidence with great care. The offenses to be investigated were defined by the laws of the United States and the Territory. If they had reason to believe the evidence was sufficient to convict, they should indict; they might believe a law wrong in principle but that should not affect them, as that question was to be determined by the law-making power, who were to say what laws were necessary to preserve the institutions on which society depended. The fact that a large portion of the people believed polygamy or unlawful cohabitation to be right had nothing to do with them. The legislative power had determined that, and the courts said whether the laws were unconstitutional or not. No class of men had the right to say what laws they would obey or what they would not. The jurors were to be governed by the valid laws on the statute books. No man had a right to claim the protection of a government and at the same time defy its laws. The welfare of society demanded that all the laws of the government should be obeyed. The jurors should keep secret all the proceedings in the grand jury room, and the law imposed a severe punishment on those who violated their oath in this respect. If they desired further instructions they should apply to the court.

Deputy Marshal Holland was sworn to take charge of the jury, which retired with the officer.

The remaining five who had been summoned on the venire—H. W. Lawrence, William Curtis, Hector W. Halstead, M. J. Gerraty and J. H. Rogers—were excused.

B. H. Schettler Bound Over.—The preliminary examination (later the charge of unlawful cohabitation against B. H. Schettler was held before Commissioner McKay yesterday afternoon. Mr. Dickson conducted the prosecution and Mr. Moyle the defense. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty.

Caroline Morgan was the first witness. She was the defendant's wife's sister. Had heard that he had another wife a long time ago, but did not know her or anything of her. Her sister, Mrs. Schettler, lived with the defendant.

Mrs. Mary Schettler was next called. She was the defendant's wife; did not know his other wives; had heard it reported that he had married Elizabeth Parry and Agatha Peters; the defendant lived with his wife as his husband, and had done so ever since the prosecution under the Edmunds law began.

Catherine Davis was sworn. She did not know the defendant, his wife, or his alleged plural wives, and was excused.

Elizabeth Parry, the next witness, said she was not the defendant's wife, but supposed that her daughter Elizabeth was; her youngest child was over three years of age; witness had seen Mr. Schettler in her daughter's house on one occasion; this might be a year ago, or more, she didn't know; had seen Agatha Peters; knew nothing of her relationship to the defendant; witness did not know where her daughter was living at present; defendant as yet asked her consent to marry her daughter.

Caroline Parry testified that she had seen the defendant at her sister's house over two years ago; didn't know where Elizabeth was; had no acquaintance with Agatha Peters.

Frederick Peters, Agatha's father, was called, but being unable to speak or understand English, was excused.

Wm. Peters testified that Agatha Peters was his sister; he had been in the country about five years, and had seen her once during that time; had not heard where she was during the past two years.

Philip Davis testified that he knew the defendant by sight; he had seen Elizabeth Parry, but knew nothing whatever of the defendant's family relations.

Mr. Dickson asked that the defendant be held to answer to the grand jury.

Mr. Moyle asked, "Do you want him held because he visited the house on one occasion?"

Mr. Dickson replied "Yes," and the Commissioner made the startling suggestion that if the defendant was innocent he might be sworn and testify in his own behalf. The bonds in the case were fixed at $1,000, James Jennings and Charles Brown becoming sureties. The witnesses are to appear before the grand jury on the 20th, and were released on giving bail in the sum of $200 each.

Court Proceedings.—In the Third District Court to-day, in the case of Thomas Baker vs. Joseph Baker et al., the motion for new trial was allowed.

Anders S. Hyrup, John Bridge, Jos. Pringle, John Piggie, James Parkinson, Jonathan Pyrah and William H. East were appointed citizenship.

Frederick Crowton vs. John T. Lynch; motion for a new trial argued and submitted.

C. E. T. Johnston vs. Emma DeMar; demurrer withdrawn and 20 days allowed to answer. Frank M. Tiedner; attempt to bind; two cases; murderer to indictments argued by Arthur Brown for defendant and W. H. Dickson for the prosecution.

A grand jury for the September term was impaneled.

Visit to the Penitentiary.—After visiting Fort Douglas yesterday afternoon, and meeting with a cordial reception from the officers there, tendered in a manner befitting so distinguished a guest, Chief Justice Watts was driven to the Penitentiary. While visiting the institution, an interview occurred between him and Apostle Lorenzo Snow, of the purpose of which, however, we are not informed.

Pocket Picked.—A gentleman, one of the Cache Valley excursionists, had a little experience yesterday which made him think more than ever that Salt Lake City contains a great variety of metropolitan elements. While riding in a street car going to the Eleventh Ward, and paying his fare, he dropped his purse, containing about $12, into his side coat pocket. He soon after missed it, and is certain that his pocket was picked.

From Scotland.—Elder W. D. Thompson returned as far as Provo from a mission to Scotland, and on the last company of immigrants, and on his arrival there was appointed to conduct a section of the company, numbering forty-four, to the southern part of the Territory. After seeing the migrating Salt Lake City, he returned to this city, on a brief visit.

Elder Thompson left Utah (October 11th, 1884, and spent nearly all of the period of his absence in the Glasgow Conference, Scotland, though he visited other portions of Great Britain. He reports that the progress of the work in Scotland at the present time is rather slow, though a few are being added to the Church by baptism.

Killed by a Horse.—Mr. Chris C. Jensen, of Montpelier, Idaho, met with a fatal accident on the 13th inst. A friend called at Mr. Jensen's place and requested him to go with the former out to the north fields to see about their horses that were running at large and doing damage to the grain. Mr. Jensen said he would go, and made the remark that he would like to see his colts again before he died. After eating breakfast he saddled up his horse, a high-spirited stallion, and mounted the animal. The horse began to gallop and Mr. Jensen held the reins too tight and the horse reared up and fell over on his back, crushing the rider beneath him. The horse lay in that position for some time before he rolled over. Mr. Jensen gave a great shout and got up. He breathed his last about 30 minutes later. Dr. Hoover called to see him and found that his back was broken. He was about 35 years of age, a native of Denmark, and leaves a wife and one child.

Improvements in Montpelier.—A correspondent says that there has been quite a change in this lively little town since last fall, especially near the railroad depot. An addition has been built to the roundhouse. Quite a number of new stores and a large hotel have been recently built. The Knights of Labor have just put up a large two-story building for a hall. Ed. Burkyne, Esq., the popular merchant, has just completed a nice large building for a store, at the depot.

Considerable land has been jumped on this side of the valley. A brass band has lately been organized, consisting mostly of young men; Mr. John Bailey, formerly of Ogden, is the leader. They are making very good progress. Dr. Hoover is lately selling his drug store to Wm. Driver & Son, of Ogden.

The people have succeeded in getting the postoffice up in town again, and Mr. Joseph Robinson is the newly appointed postmaster, and gives entire satisfaction.

From Tennessee.—Elder W. H. Robinson, of Salina, Sevier County, who reached this city from a mission to Tennessee with the company of detained immigrants, Tuesday evening, called upon us to his mission. He was returning home and felt in with the company at Pueblo. Elder Robinson left Utah April 8th, 1884, and labored principally in Middle Tennessee, he travels some of the time taking him in to Kentucky. During the first four months of his mission he was under a great deal of persecution, having of time to spend the night without shelter, and frequently obtaining no more than one meal in a day. He was laboring not far from where Elders Gibbs and Berry were killed, and the hostility of the people to "Mormons" was marked. During the remainder of his mission, however, he was always well treated.

Elder Robinson says that, in the region where he has been laboring, there are many people who believe the Gospel and would embrace it, were it not that they lack the moral courage to defy the opposition they would have to meet.

The Theatre.—There was no diminution in the attendance at the Theatre last evening, but there was something of a falling in the number of spectators, previously manifest. The piece lacks in the matters of a well-digested plot, pointed incidents, and sterling dramatic effects; perhaps in other hands than those of the Madison Square Company, it would prove to be flat and unprofitable. This suggests the idea that if they can make a poor play "go" so as to entertain and hold an audience, they ought to be a powerful magnet harnessed to a piece of such attractiveness and power that it would almost run itself—such, for example, as "Young Mrs. W. W. Chapman." The characters were well portrayed, of course, and the immense audience departed without complaint, so far as was made known.

To-night we have another new piece, which promises to be better in all respects than any the Theatre has yet presented here—"Sealed Instructions." That there will be another big attendance is a foregone conclusion, and that the performance will be a success is also well assured in advance.

The San Francisco Chronicle of Sept. 12, says: "A large number of Japanese tourists who intend making a visit for pleasure and instruction to the principal cities of the East and Europe, arrived on the last steamer from the Orient, and are taking in the sights of the city previous to their departure for the East. Among the number are Aways, Deputy Japanese Consul at Yokohama; Sawada, a prominent lawyer of Tokyo; Murata, a glass and china manufacturer; Sakamoto, a well known architect; Goto, a civil engineer, and Shimidzu, a contractor and merchant. These are all well-known men in the Empire of Japan, and some of them, after their tour, express their intention of residing in the United States for some years for the purpose of studying and graduating in various arts and professions."

PAID EXAMINATION.—Dr. Maggie C. Shipps' class in Obstetrics passed their final examination yesterday. The ladies were all of this city, namely, Miss Mary Schwartz, Mrs. Sarah White and Mrs. Edwards. This examination was conducted by Dr. Anderson, H. J. Richards, Bowser and Harrison.

Dr. Shipps intends to commence another class in October.
