CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown.

A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.

A SURE CURE FOR THE PILES.—You need not suffer from this most distressing disease again in all your life. Emmil's Balm acts as a poultice and lubricator, absorbs the tumors and allays the intense itching at once. No caustic, no acid, no pain. A. McGibbons Esq., 19 Poplar street, Allegheny, Pa., writes: "I had itching and bleeding piles so bad I could not sit, stand or walk without intense suffering. I doctored with many physicians, and tried all the (so called) cures that I ever heard of, in vain (paying out hundreds of dollars), until I used Emmil's Magic Balm, or Ointment. After the first application I enjoyed the best night's sleep I had for ten years, and two boxes have cured me completely." Wherever introduced Dr. Emmil's Balm takes the lead, and has the largest sale of any Pile remedy in the world. Sold by druggists everywhere or sent by mail. 50 cent boxes. ## AN AMERICAN VESUVIUS.

A VERITABLE MOUNTAIN OF FIRE IN THE STATE OF SONORA DEPOPULATING THE COUNTRY.

NEW YORK, July 13.—A correspondent of the Herald last night telegraphed as follows from El Paso: "I have just returned from the scene of the only active volcano in North America. The trip was one of extraordinary hardship, accomplished in the face of obstacles of which the entire absence of any road, an arid desert over one hundred miles across, and the blazing sun of a tropical zone were conspicuous features.

"The volcano lies twelve miles, as the crow flies, from Bavispe, in the State of Sonora, in the extreme northwest corner of the Mexican Republic. A rough estimate will place the distance from El Paso at four hundred miles, calculating on a bee-line. The rugged and desolate nature of the country, the infrequency of its springs and the almost deadly heat that exists there nine months out of twelve, have effectually kept out the American prospector, although the mountains are full of gold, and even the hardy Mexican has largely left it to its primal solitude. Here and there are scattering villages, of which Bavispe is a type. The town lies southwest of Casas Grandes, and is a miscellaneous collection of adobe shanties and "jeckels," half under and half above the ground, and roofed with brush. It contains about 2,500 souls, if you count a soul to each inhabitant. They are so miserably poor and live in a condition of such indescribable squalor and perpetual misery that their lot compares unfavorably with the wandering coyote, their nearest neighbor.

We went by way of the Carritos' hacienda, on the Britton Davis ranch, lying about due east of Bavispe, in the State of Chihuahua. It was from this point that the real journey commenced. To conceive the fatigue and ardor of the trip one must add a blazing sun that seared and shriveled the very granite, a parched and alkali wind blowing at midday and filling the throat with its smarting particles, and a reflection from the earth that was like the breath of a furnace. We were well supplied with ropes and tackle, which we had frequent occasion to use, for although it is proverbial that burros can cross places where angels fear to tread, we had to abandon our pack track almost at the outset.

The eighth day brought the explorers into the vicinity of Bavispe; but a little prior to this we had the first intimation of seismic disturbance in the shape of a fluttering tremor of the earth. The shocks, which were slight and undulating, increased in frequency as we drew near the town, until scarcely an hour elapsed without a repetition of it. We came in sight of Bavispe about 10 o'clock in the morning, and the first thing that met our sight was a huddled encampment of several hundred people on the broad mesa that flanks the town. Bavispe itself may be spoken of in the past tense—it no longer exists. On the 1st of May last, just at the gray of dawn, the villagers were awakened by a screaming shudder of the earth, followed by a quick tremor that reduced half of the adobe places to ruin. Creeping out from the wreck of their dwellings, they sought safety on the level ground, where a sort of encampment was formed, and there in time the entire village has migrated. Since that morning of desolation and terror there has been no day unaccompanied by an earthquake. Sometimes it has been so violent as to loosen masses of rock and open vast fissures in the mountain's side, and sometimes it is in almost imperceptible vibration, but never has it entirely ceased, and superstitious Mexicans have given themselves up to the apathy of dispair. Our appearance, which in other times would have convulsed the village with excitement, scarcely attracted attention. A few half-naked men and haggard women straggled out of their tenements of brush to meet us, but many glanced from their open doorways and made no sign. The town—or rather what was the town—looks like the broken toy-village of a child. There is not a house left standing. Shattered heaps of adobes and yawning holes make the sight; and mingled in the ruin are the few utensils of their domestic life, for which a superstitious terror forbade them to return. Many have gone toward the south, but the bulk of the people are far too poor to undertake a journey, which, without resources, means death, and so they have camped within sight of the wreck of their homes, in mute and apathetic helplessness. The mortality which attended the disaster must have been very great, but it was almost impossible to draw any of them into conversation, and quite so to obtain any accurate information. Over twenty sunken places in the mesa marked recent graves, and as many more dead are probably lying in the ruins. From Bavispe we had our first sight of our objective point—the volcano. A pennant of smoke, trailed by the wind from a low, square topped peak to the southwest, defined its location, while a dull and muttering roar almost incessantly told that the forces of nature were at work. The volcano lies about 12 miles from the site of the town, but over such an extraordinarily broken tract of country that we realized at once that it would require two days' journey to reach it, and pushed straight ahead without delay. The phenomena which we had observed at Bavispe increased in volume as we approached the mountain. We followed the dry bed of a stream, which at some forgotten period had worn a causeway through the granite. It was broken by fissures of evident recent origin, running from north to south, and in some cases four or five feet broad and of unknown depth. Springing from one of these, about four miles out, we encountered a geyser rivaling any of those in the National Park. It is in the centre of a circular basin, with sides of sand and mud, and about forty feet in diameter. At intervals of fifteen minutes an immense stream of boiling water leaps out and up to a height, I should judge, of sixty feet. The geyser spouted for five or six minutes, and then subsided as quickly as it came, disappearing with a mutter that reverberated far down in the bowels of the earth.

The Lebel Rifle.

The Lebel rifle, with which the French soldiers will hereafter be armed, is a wonderful instrument of mischief. It has a carrying capacity beyond any other rifle in use. The powder used is a secret compound known only to the French government. The gun is a repeater and will carry its bullet more than a mile and a half, and with a more certain aim than has been possible with ordinary rifles. The bore of the gun is very small, and the ball, which is of steel, and sharply pointed at one end, is said to revolve at a speed of a thousand revolutions a second. In the test made by the French government this bullet has penetrated a brick wall eight inches thick at a distance of 500 yards; it will go through any kind of armor which can be worn by soldiers, and at a distance of more than a mile will pass through a man as easily as at ten paces. The gun has no recoil under fire, and the powder gives out no smoke whatever.

Destruction of Forests.

Our fast fading forests are threatened with a new cause for destruction. A Pennsylvania chemist has patented a crematory by which he will extract from a cord of any kind of hard woods eight gallons of alcohol and 250 pounds of acetate of lime, leaving as a residue sixty bushels of fine charcoal. The charcoal is said to be equal to the best that is distilled from grains and fruits, and commands the highest market price. It is particularly good in compounding cologne, chloroform and other druggists' mixtures. Several establishments for the prosecution of the new industry have been erected in Pennsylvania and one in Alabama. The business is enormously profitable, and a wholesale denudation of the land of trees is sure to follow its continuance. Tree-planting is likely to become a national necessity in no long time.
