German Tariff Can Not Close the Market for Yankee Machines.

RUSSIA AND AUSTRIA ANGRY

Newspapers Attack the New Agrarian Bill in Terms that Are Unmistakable.

Berlin, July 30.—The comments of the Berlin press on the tariff bill are extensively reproduced here and are especially interesting in American eyes.

The Berliner Custer Nachrichten is deeply interested in the bill and has already published an editorial in which it expresses its opposition to the bill.

Commercial treaty sympathizers in the United States are also interested in the bill.

The bill will undoubtedly reduce the duties on many of the goods which are imported from Germany.

While some of the increases in our tariff are small, still the duty is a small part of the value of the goods.

How they got there is not known, but the story is that among them are the captured gold jug and sword carried throughout the American campaign and which Lafayette left to his heirs.

SENATOR CLARK A BIDDER.

New York, July 30.—Osborne House, on the Isle of Wight, a favorite summer residence of Queen Victoria, and the place where she died, may come into the possession of an American, says the London correspondent of the World.

King Edward wants to get rid of it because of its inaccessibility and because it costs $60,000 annually to keep it up.

William Waldorf Astor is said to have offered to pay any price the king might fix, desiring to present the famous royal residence to his daughter when she marries, but it was found that under Queen Victoria's will the king is only reported that Mr. Astor wishes to lease the property.

Senator William A. Clark of Montana is reported to have written to the king about the matter.

Charles T. Yerkes is also reported to be a big bidder.

ABOUT KENNAN. Author's Expulsion from Russia is Explained in Detail.

London, July 29.—Mail advices received here today from the correspondent of the Associated Press at St. Petersburg give details of the expulsion from Russia of George Kennan, the American author and lecturer, who was expelled from St. Petersburg Thursday evening and was informed by a high police officer that he must leave the city by the next train.

Mr. Kennan was courteously treated, but was not allowed to leave his room in the interim. His expulsion was carried out quietly. He was provided with a traveling passport, signed by the chief of the political police, and boarded a train for Wirballin, accompanied by an escort. His own passport was returned to him on his arrival at Wirballin. The correspondent said:

"Mr. Kennan arrived in St. Petersburg three weeks ago after an absence of fifteen years. He entered the country by way of Finland, on an American passport, which had been examined and signed by the Russian consul at Hull. Since his arrival here Mr. Kennan had renewed his old and pleasant acquaintances and had collected literary material. He was not engaging in any political agitation. The Russian press referred to Mr. Kennan's expulsion, and that is the only explanation for his departure that I have seen."

At about 6 o'clock Thursday evening a high police official placed him under detention in his room and read a notice requiring Mr. Kennan's departure by 10 o'clock Friday night. There is only one explanation for Mr. Kennan's expulsion, and that is that the Russian government has not recovered from the effects of his criticisms of the Siberian exile system, which has been greatly modified and restricted since Mr. Kennan first wrote about it. His expulsion was simply a question of policy, which has no effect on the personal feelings of his old friends toward Mr. Kennan, who was invited to places where the highest government officials were present."

A responsible official of the press department of the ministry said to the correspondent of the Associated Press on Mr. Kennan's arrival: "I do not think that anybody here doubts Mr. Kennan's good faith. We believe he is an honest and sincere investigator of our prison exile system; that he was misled by those he trusted, and was often imposed upon. His perspective was wrong. One can give a bad impression of any country if one selects the most repulsive subjects to write about. Personally I think Mr. Kennan has done a great deal of good. Our press is now allowed to discuss the conditions of exile with a freedom not dreamed of several years ago. The shameful conditions prevailing on the island of Sakhalin were satirized courageously by a St. Petersburg newspaper, and the worst abuses have been corrected."

A PRETTY POSTMISTRESS NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH.

Was Given Up to Die—Eight Doctors Failed—Po-ru-na Saved Her Life.

THOUSANDS of women suffer from systemic catarrh. This is sure to produce such symptoms as cold feet and hands, sick headache, palpitation of the heart and heavy feelings in the stomach.

Then begins a series of experiments with medicine. They take medicine for sick headache, for palpitation of the heart, for dyspepsia. None of these medicines do any good because they do not reach the cause of the complaint.

Peruna at once mitigates all these symptoms by removing the cause. Systemic catarrh is the trouble. Systemic catarrh pervades the whole system, deranges every organ, weakens every function. No permanent cure can be expected until the systemic catarrh is removed.

This is exactly what Peruna will do. Miss Alma Cox, Assistant Postmistress of Orum, S. C., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from chronic disease and dyspepsia for five years. How I suffered no tongue can tell. I tried eight or ten of the best physicians without receiving much benefit, also tried lots of patent medicines. But still I suffered with sick headache, cold feet and hands, palpitation of the heart, and such a heavy feeling in my stomach and chest. At times I would be so nervous I could not bear anyone around me. I had been given up to die."

Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, of Columbus, O., gives advice to women free during the summer months.
