

MANY CHANGES IN BASEBALL

New York, Sept. 22.—The season of pretension in baseball has arrived. Except for those several clubs in either league who have some chance for this year's pennant, wholesale experimenting in material for next year will be in order from now until the flag falls in the national pastime. Already managers are grounding their wires for the campaign of 1910, for the sun never sets on baseball.

Nor is this a season of probation conferred almost to the rank and file. More than ever has it cropped out during the wane of the present season in the matter of managerial changes. Those leaders of the big shows who have failed to deliver the goods are being supplanted as coltside favorites by men who have been under their direction for a long season. Lajoie, for years leading the ill-fated Cleveland Americans, has given way to the venerable Jim McIntire. Frank Boyerman, who finished his aspirations to Harry Smith's big-league job, has been supplanted by a succession of disappointments in St. Louis. He has bowed him from the scene of the show. The big prize goes to the boys of the show who will assume the lead this week when St. Louis comes west.

Other managerial changes may be effected before the end of the season. Besides those already mentioned two new leaders will undoubtedly be seen in the American League this year and in the National. The big change of the present season saw three new managers in the American and found four in the National league. Of these two in the American saw a little success. National's new man made a big mistake. The Highlanders have accomplished all that could be expected. So did Fred Lake, who finished the season with the Red Sox last year. The disappointed Charlie Combs, who was manager of the Highlanders in his work with the White Sox, Clark Griffith has won a home in Cincinnati, and so has Roger Bresnahan with his Cardinals in St. Louis. Lammie Gooden, who has been in the National for half the season, has been with Boston.

On the heels of the guinea gold that Brooklyn will not be alone in its policy of change in management. Billy Murray seems in mind to leave the Quakers, and the suspension of Major Weathered an effort to oust him several weeks ago through a tangle in the intricate payroll situation. The new president Israel Durham, those on the inside declare that a new man will be at the head of the Quakers in 1914. The American League, the Boston National club being disposed of by the present owners. In which it would not be surprising to find that the new man will be a man. Smith has done fairly well with a bad lot of players. One close to Cusker is authority for the statement that in this type of case he is released of managerial duties. The Old Roman hopes that he will be able to induce Fletcher Jones to return to the Quakers in 1914. He was at some place outside his own club for a successor to Sullivan.

MALEER MAY REPLACE CANTILLON

Joe Cantillon is through at Washington, the successor may be chosen before the close of the season. McAleer might go to the Capital city. James has been negotiating for the franchise if the Senators without success. Friends of McAleer are dickering for Nationals, in which event they would be the new owners. There is a chance if he fails to hook on in Baltimore's circuit. McAleer is bent on accepting no proposition unless he becomes interested as owner, at least in the selling to purchase a major league club. He will try for a good minor league franchise.

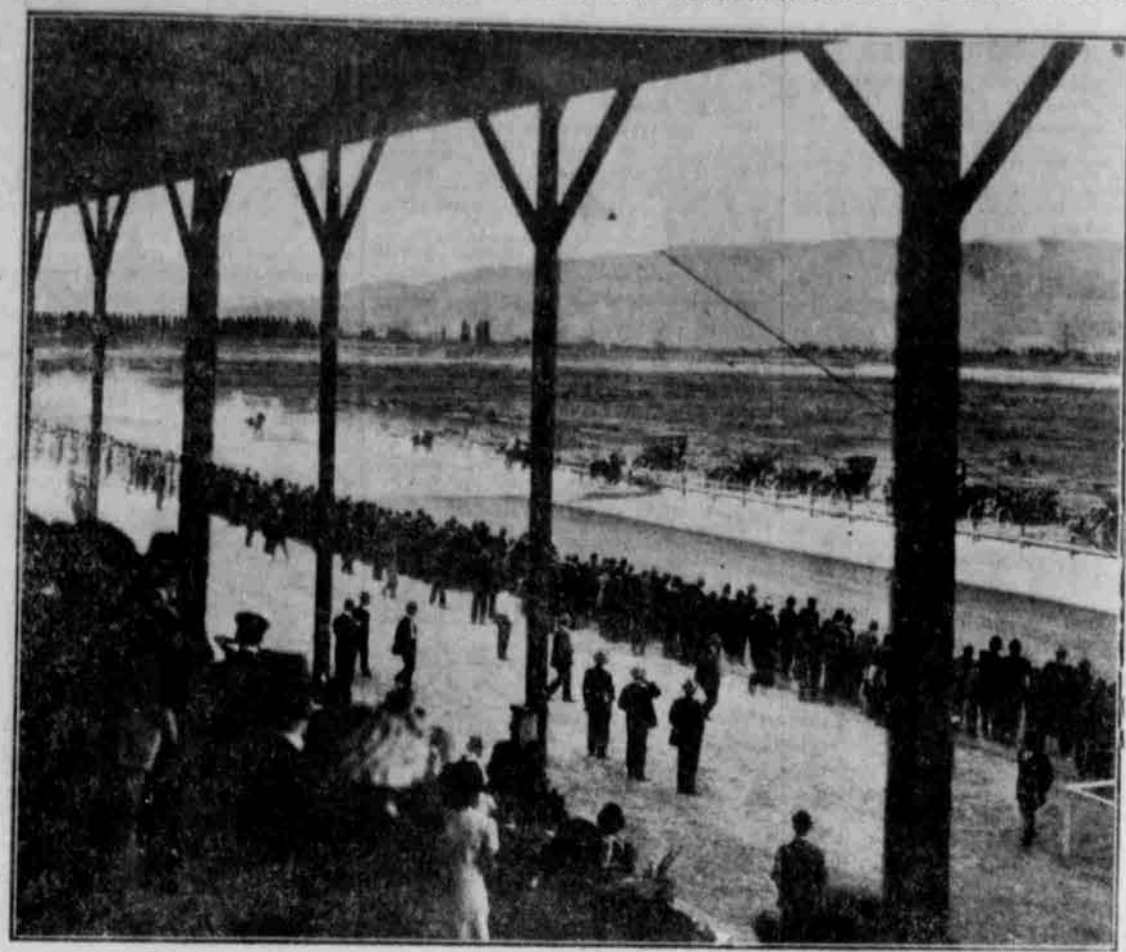

Gotham fans will be pleased to learn that Roberts and Willie Keeler have Coaches and captains of the football teams east and west have had a chance to look over their material, and the determining process at all the colleges is now in full swing. Up at Harvard the outlook is not tinged too highly with optimism. Coach Haughton will have to sweep another eleven of championship status rather out of the material at hand. However, the Crimson gridiron team has a grand advantage over several of his contemporaries in that he built up a solid framework last year. The line of several men of last year's eleven will prove a big one to Haughton. B. A. Koorse, all American center; Burr, White, Ver Wiebe, Cutler and Mear will not be on hand this year. It is, however, very doubtful as to whether McKay, one of the best tackles dropped last year, will again be eligible. As a nucleus upon which to mold the combination Haughton will have the following men: Captain Ham Fiel, Browne and Crowley, ends; Dunlap and West, guards; Bob Brown must come back and try for end. Much is expected of Mihal, the sensational back of last year's second eleven, and O'Phority, a former scrub quarterback, who started in spring practice this year. In the back field Coach Haughton has some promising men in the veterans White, Leslie, Sprague, Kennard and Smith. Kennard is one of the best these, especially on account of his kicking. It will be remembered that it was Kennard whose field goal of 47 yards he had taken the place of Ver Wiebe won the game for Harvard last fall. Scene shows men passing the ball practices in the stadium at Cambridge.

VIC KENNARD

CAPT. FIEL

The above cut shows an excellent view of the new Buena Vista race track. A noticeable feature is the wide stretch and another is the beautiful view to the east and north. The camera caught the finish of one of the best races of the day, when Kerry beat Aquiline in an exciting finish. It will be noticed that the grandstand is set back a considerable distance from the outside fence of the track. It affords an excellent view and the spectators escape the dust from the track.

come to an understanding, and that the popular right-fielder, of the Yankees, will lead Brooklyn next season. While the interested parties will not yet acknowledge the deal as closed, it is being so treated by the public, and is unquestioned. Keeler has been assured a free hand by Ebbers. In Wee Willie Keeler, Brooklyn magnates will secure the most valuable player who ever lived, and played in that city, and a man whose long career on the diamond has made him even more valuable than the best player who could be played better half in his long career than this season.

Brooklyn fans will doubtless get something good for him, either in cash or players. But at any rate President Farrell would not stand in the way of such an advancement after the loss of this season's pennant. The Yankees have given New York. Keeler will leave his native city, but his popularity in this city by comparison with any other city, and his position as a magnate—even a Brooklyn one, at that.

Those on the inside claim that Keeler's will not be the only missing factor in the Kid Eberfeld team. It is claimed, it is claimed, Tobasco has been anxious to get to Washington ever since he moved his family to the capitol land. The Kid Eberfeld and Senators are sweet on the Kid, and are said to be willing to give a crack-back pitcher and a bundle of cash for him. Eberfeld has been more or less a little elephant on the inside of the New York club for the past five years, despite his brilliancy. He has been out of the game over half the time, and when most needed.

The common gossip that Eberfeld's relations with the other members of the club's best players are such that a change would be advisable. Since his short regime as manager of the close last season, Eberfeld never entirely reconciled himself to a minor part. Stallings was more successful than any other manager in keeping the Kid steady. But you cannot force a horse to drink after leading him to the trough.

Tokio, Sept. 22.—The University of Wisconsin baseball team which is making a tour of Japan, was defeated in its first game here today by the Keio university nine. The score was 3 to 2, with Wisconsin making seven hits and Keio hitting safely only three times. Keio made only two errors while the invading nine had four miscues on its side of the score.

Hayley held Philadelphia down to three hits. St. Louis tied the score in the seventh inning on an error by Collins. Philadelphia scored the winning run on a single in the eighth inning. Philadelphia had the bases filled, with one out, but Morgan was caught trying to steal in the eighth inning. Morgan played hard, but he was out. Morgan's sacrifice batted for the winning run in the ninth inning on a single. Griggs' sacrifice, DeVoy's out and Wallace's single.

In spite of the cold weather there was another large crowd of enthusiastic race fans at Buena Vista yesterday afternoon. Many of them went out in the rain but the weather did not make more of automobiles in the enclosure. The horses ran to form and while there were not as many exciting moments as on the previous day the program was a good one and seemed to please the crowd.

starter Richard Dwyer and Assistant Judge Frank B. St. Skinner started the first race and the second race first race and beginning at the third Mr. Dwyer handled the barrier, much to the relief of track patrol. The work of both Dwyer's assistant, has not been as good as that of Richard Dwyer was unfortunate in the fact that he had all the work to do alone. Judge Skinner took his place in the stand and Judge Jemery, the gentleman much from Buena Vista where they have been attending the races, and both said the game was good there. Mr. Dwyer expressed delight over the fact that the crowd was the largest crowd in the country.

There was considerable disappointment over the performance of Burning Bush. This horse led by what appeared to be a safe margin to the turn and then quit.

have made the price to 10 and would have been plenty all those odds. The wire were the merited. Glace's ability to win. The speedy animal had no trouble at all in leading the field far behind. In the mile race, the race from Tony Heidrich was a danger of coming in second, and in the fifth race Jiffette had no trouble at all to win. In the last race Alce-Alex had the race from Tony Heidrich and was the favorite. There was much to the disgust of many spectators.

The play yesterday was quite heavy and the books got the worst of it. There was a lot of betting on the horse and one cutting in. There were no further complaints heard about boys being in the betting ring as Manager had taken precaution to prevent that evil.

In a practice game between the regular football men and the men trying out for the team, the old defenders of the red and black defeated the new initiates 14-0 last evening. Captain Hisspicks had charged the new men while Coach Conville played full-back for the scrubs. Pete Romney worked the old men like a tremor.

"I don't know," said Romney, "but he thought the team that defeated Granite would win the state championship. The weight of the High school boys is about 150 pounds. He also said he did not expect any trouble from the southern part of the state. Although most of the teams are from the northern part of the state, the average weight of the boys in this village is being 165 pounds. I think that they are not acquainted with the game enough to be serious contenders for the High school championship."

There was another good practise up at the "U" last evening and a strong line-up was made in the appearance of some new men. Tiny Home made his appearance in a suit and took his position at tackle, doing splendid work. Ashby, a 180 pound line man who played on the class teams last year, made a good showing, as did Nilsson at guard. "Stew" Young was also on the job, and Price, Reiser and Cannon are among the boys Madcock is counting upon. They were put through formations and did some punting. The scrimmages are bringing out splendid material and the team will be organized in a few days.

There were three matches in the tennis play for the Whitley cup at the Country club yesterday afternoon.

We collected $292.60 for the Coin Banking Co., of Corinne, Utah. An insurance agent sold them a note; the maker of the note would not pay. The case started in the Justice's Court. It was afterwards in the City Court and the District Court, and was appealed to the Supreme Court. We won, and collected the money. If you have some claims you would like to cash, turn them in. The money will come in handy for Christmas. We collect more money from honest debts than any collection agency in the world. You might as well have yours.
