We are not induced to advocate this industry on account of any desire to see the consumption of hog meats and products increased locally, because we have not an exalted opinion of the flesh of swine as an article of diet, belleving as we do that it is not conducive to health, because of its grossness, but if the peo ple will use it, surely it is financial foily to send to great distances to procure it when it can so readily be raised here. And as an article of export, as aiready shown, it could be made quite profitable. The Jews are ranked among the most healthful, and the most free Hon. H. L.
