northerly terminal a husky red-haired lad. The occasion of all this gathering was the parade of the Tom Show cast which was scheduled at high noon. Headed by Held's band the procession traversed West Temple to First South east to East Temple street, thence north to the Deseret News to counter-march to Second South, where the band swung east to State and countermarch-ed again to East Temple street, then south to Third South and west to West Temple. On the way a halt was made to serenade each newspaper office. The line of route was thronged, especially at the Intersections of the streets, Held's band nearly broke a blood ves-sel in making the weikin ring with live-ly airs, while the populace amused itself in "bawling out" the various oc-copants of the carriages. Especially lavish was the fickle crowd in its at-tentions to Eliza's dead hittle baby, who took up five-eighths of the seat in the eccond carriage eight in the cartes of tentions to Eliza's dead little baby, who took up five-eighths of the seat in the second carriage right in the center of the stage and the limelight. At the Vienna cafe the baby was presented with a handsome bouquet of parsky fresh from the fish refrigerator and of an aroma that made the horses break into a frenzied trot. Uncle Tom, Ophe-lia, Topsy, and especially little Eva, also were the reeipients of handsome bou-quets of sego litles, vegetables and other hot house buds. But after all, it was the dogs. They were the attraction. Such a large and profuse variety ne'er before congre-gated on the streets and the dog catch-er wept briny tears as the gazed on the seene. Of course Marrie Scamerol

WILLIAM GREEN'S WILL. Document Filed in the Probate

Court Today. The will of William Green, deceased, was filed for probate today in the diswas filed for probate today in the dis-trict court, accompanied by the petition of J. M. Sjodahl, executor under the will, who asks that letters testamentary be issued to him. The deceased died in this city on June 1, leaving an estate consisting of real and personal prop-erty valued at $3,250. The will recites that there were two children, a son and daughter, born to the wife of decedent, but that neither of them have been but that neither of them have been heard from for 25 years. They are, therefore, cut off from participation in the estate and all the property both real and personal is bequeathed to Christina Sjodahi and the petitioner herein is named as executor. The patition will be named as executor. The petition will be heard on Friday, June 26, prisoned in County Jail. Judge Hall this morning adjudged William H. Sherman to be in contempt of court for failure to pay his wife's attorneys $30, as heretofore ordered by the court. Upon motion of Mrs. Sher-man's attorneys, Mr. Sherman was cited to appear last Friday and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt, but he failed to appear, so he was today adjudged in contempt of court and ordered imprisoned in the county jail for a period of 15 days or until the further order of the court. The commitment was turned over to a deputy sheriff who is now looking for Sherman to take him into custody.

MAMMOTH LOSES AGAIN.

efforts to save her were unavalling. The exact cause of her rash act could not be learned, as the husband refused absolutely to talk about his family matters, but judging from the tone of three notes she wrote just before tak-ing the puson, it may be inferred that her domestic life had been extremely unhappy, She has a sister, Mrs. C. E. Frank residing at Muscador, Wis., and a brother, George W. Castlebury, living at Cannon City, Col. To both she wrote letters of farewell. She also wrote to letters of farewell. She also wrote to her husband, bidding him good bye. According to the statement of the husband to Sergeant Eddington, Mrs. Coursey left home last evening, pre-sumably to go to the butcher shop. The husband never saw his wife alive after that. She failed to return home last night, and this morning, Mrs. Coursey returned home after her husband had gone to work. She went into the house and cleaned the place thoroughly. She then took a bath and only partly dress-HEWLETT BROS. CO.

When she was selzed with convulsions she began to scream. Several of the neighbors heard her screaming and ran to the door. By that time the unfor-tunate woman was shrieking for help. The neighbors called to her and told her to unlock the door. She replied that she could no; and begged them to break the door in. The door was forced open and the woman was found writhing on the bed in convulsions. Dr. Beer was hasily summoned but by the time he arrived, the woman was unconscious. arrived, the woman was unconscious. The physician worked with her for some time in an effort to revive her, but she was too far gone, and about 11:30 she died. The police were quickly notified and Sergeant Eddington hastened to here or not.

ALEXANDER J. CASSATT, THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD'S ENERGETIC PRESIDENT.

LEXANDER J. CASSATT, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, has A come to be regarded as one of the great powers in the money world of the United States. Every recent effort of his has been attended with signal success. His bond issue of $75,000,000 has been oversubscribed, his New Jersey-New York and New York-Long Mand City tunnel projects are in excellent shape, he has disposed of the Western Union's poles along the Pennsylvania's lines through the medium of axes, and his plans for doubling the trackage of his railroad system are assured of success. There are those who consider Mr. Cassatt as shrewd a financier as J. Pierpont Morgan himself.
