

THE EVENING NEWS.

GEORGE Q. CANNON,
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Monday, March 28, 1870.

A late number of the Missouri Republican contains an extract from an article from the Evening News, on the solution of the social problem and the extinction of the "social evil," in which we stated that the problem in Utah had been solved; for, in a community numbering not less than 150,000 persons, the social evil does not exist.

The Republican says: "There are but two methods of dealing with a people who proclaim and practice such a religion (as Mormonism): First, to annihilate them with fire and sword; second, to leave them to the influence of time, reason and truth." It says: "The first plan is out of the question; we should never complete the hard task before we should become fends ourselves. We must then let them alone."

We admire the fairness with which the Republican alludes to the views and position of the people of Utah; but it is a sad commentary on the condition of the popular feeling, when such a proposition as the annihilation of a people "with fire and sword," is alluded to as a possible contingency. Despite the reluctance of the people of this Territory to be made objects of notice, it seems that our fellow citizens in the East are determined to thrust fame upon us. It appears strange that a community numbering 150,000, who are universally admitted to be industrious, temperate, persevering and thrifty, should excite the attention of a nation, of which they form a part, numbering forty millions, and occupy the time of its Congress in devising ways and means to crush them out, when their sole crime—if crime it be—consists in marrying women instead of prostituting them.

The Religio-Philosophical Journal is a paper published in Chicago, in the interests of spiritualism; and by the stricter kind, is deemed decidedly heterodox. An instance of the estimation in which it is held has been lately afforded the Chicago Tribune. It seems that this Journal has been sent to an inmate of the Ohio State penitentiary. The warden of this institution evidently watches, with jealous care, the morals of those in his charge, for he sent the following communication concerning it:

"This paper is not admitted into the Ohio penitentiary. The man for whom it is addressed, is here for the murder of his wife; and I do not wish to have him still further corrupted by any such publication as this. Please discontinue it."

"R. BURN, Warden."

A CORRESPONDENT writing from Quincy, Ill., to the editor of the Chicago Tribune, is loud in his praise of that paper, for the bold and independent spirit which it manifests in behalf of the white men on the frontier. The correspondent says:

"The poor frontiersmen seem to have no friends; but the Indians have thousands of preachers, humanitarians, lecturers and editors, etc., to talk and work for them; but poor settlers have nobody."

This is a new view to take of the Indian question. We have always supposed, from a perusal of the newspapers and the public expressions of sentiment of leading men, in almost every section, that the Indian is viewed as an irreconcilable foe to civilization, and that the sooner he is swept out of existence the better for us and the more merciful for him. We believe that this view of the Indian question is very general, those who do not entertain it being exceptions, principally conspicuous for the fervency of their numbers.

Nearly all the evils under which the West has groaned, in connection with the Indians, have had their origin in the mistaken views which have been entertained concerning the Indian. While it has been a foregone conclusion that the Indian and the white man could not live together, but that the lower race must inevitably be exterminated, there have been no steps taken, of any importance, with a view to reclaim the red man from his savagery. The conclusion has been, that he must perish, and that his presence on the same territory with ourselves is impossible. And this has been the accepted theory. Yet a reference to the statistics of the Indians in Canada establishes the fact that their numbers are increasing; and this is probably due to the fact that the views so prevalent throughout this country, in relation to the Indian and his future, are not entertained by the Canadians. They treat him as a human being who has a right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

We find an interesting account of the St. Louis county artesian well, in the Missouri Democrat, of a late date. The depth to which the well has been sunk, is 3,843 feet. The boring was commenced on the 31st of March, 1866, and continued, day and night, commencing at six o'clock on Monday morning and continuing until six o'clock on Saturday evening, each week, for three years, five months and ten days, until the 9th of August, 1869, when the work was stopped. Aggregately, in boring the well, 65 feet of coal, 390 feet of shale, 2074 feet of limestone and 683 feet of sandstone have been bored through. The temperature at the bottom is about 105 Fahrenheit. The water brought up by the sand-pump is salt. The superintendent says the well is in good condition for resuming the work of boring, which can, probably, be carried on slowly, but successfully, for a year or two longer. He thinks that this is a good opportunity, now that so great a depth has been reached, of exploring the unknown regions of the earth, at a comparatively small additional cost, which, to science, will be of much interest; and if the brine at the lower part of the well should be brought to the surface, it would be very valuable for salt making.

MISS ANNA E. DICKINSON, when we last heard of her, was at Cincinnati, anxious to get an audience to listen to her "Whited Sepulchres." One of the means used to procure her a good hearing, was the assurance of her agent that this is her last lecturing tour, as she contemplates retiring from public life.

Anna has fulfilled her part of the program pretty well. We heard, last summer, that an arrangement was about to be entered into with her, to do her share in creating public opinion against the "Mormons," by lecturing on the subject, and making out as black a case against them as possible, for which she was to receive a quid pro quo. We do not know, of course, whether her managers or employers have performed their part of the agreement; but we presume that they must be well satisfied with the result she has displayed in doing what fell to her share. When we heard of the arrangement, we were not inclined to attach any credence to it, but subsequently, when we saw the scheme develop itself, piece by piece, and the part that she played in it, we came to the conclusion that the information we had received was reliable.

NEW YORK.—A preliminary meeting of prominent citizens was held last evening to make arrangements for holding a public meeting of those opposed to voting away the public money to support sectarian schools. A committee was appointed who resolved to hold a meeting next Wednesday evening. Henry Ward Beecher, Everts, Dodge, and others, are expected to deliver addresses.

Deputy collector Ross was brought up to-day on a writ of Habeas Corpus before Judge Blatchford of the United States Court, who decided that the United States had power to remove the collector from the State courts. The Sheriff accordingly transferred him to the custody of the Marshal. Ross then gave bail in the sum of $10,000.

The morning Post, in an editorial, urges the turning of Alaska into a penal colony.

Horace Greeley slightly injured his ankle by being run into while alighting from a street car.

District Attorney Morris, to-day, moved that judgment be passed on all persons convicted of election frauds in Brooklyn. The counsel for the defense moved a mitigation of the sentence, which was postponed till Wednesday.

James Blake, a Chicago grocer, has received a verdict of $121,570 against Miss Teen Clavin, one of the female brokers, on a suit instituted against a judgment rendered in the Supreme Court of Chicago, two years ago.

An order has been received by the District Attorney from the Secretary of the Treasury directing the release of the property of several merchants seized by collector Bailey some time since.
