In some parts the road is what I consider the worst I ever saw in my life; from House Rock to Soap Creek, is one large field of sand, sand, sand, and sand for about 20 miles. Then after crossing Lee's Ferry, on the Colorado, you have to cross what is called "Lee's Backcross what is called "Lee's Backbone," the worst road for about three miles that I ever traveled, it throws all the Dixie roads into the shade. The "Twist" between St. George and Pine Valley is a carriage drive compared to it, and we used to think that hard to beat. The road from there here is goodwith exception of small patches of sand on the Little Colorado. The feed is also excellent this side of the river or ferry.
