Beecher Interviewed, etc.

NEW YORK, 25.—An endeavor to interview Mr. Beecher this morning resulted in obtaining from him only the declaration that the charges were absolutely false, and that he would in good time make that apparent; he added that he was entitled to the right accorded to ordinary criminals at least—the right of being heard before he was condemned. Mr. Tracy says Mr. Beecher's fault was venial, and the stupidity that induced concealment was damnable. General Butler says he has no connection with the case, and is not counsel for Mr. Tilton or Mr. Moulton. Of Mr. Tilton's statement, the General adds, "I think it a most unfortunate thing that it should ever have been made public. I advised very strongly against its being given to the world; it is a miserable business."

$40,000 Fire.

A fire, this afternoon, damaged Tompkins' Market to the amount of $20,000, and the armory of the 7th regiment to a like amount.

Beecher-Tilton.

The following is all that has transpired to-day in connection with the Beecher-Tilton affair: Mrs. Tilton, to-day, stated that in the article recently printed expressions are put into her mouth which are more like those of Mr. Tilton than any she would use. It was true that Mrs. Susan B. Anthony had visited her home, and unfortunately too many of her class, to contribute to the unhappiness of that home. It was in consequence of such visitors that her old and intimate friends ceased to call upon her and left her alone. Since her separation from Tilton she says she has received numerous letters from her old friends in all parts of the country, congratulating her on her withdrawal from the circle of those who had made her home objectionable to them, and professing renewed friendship and esteem. She has not the faintest recollection of any such scene as the one described as having occurred in the presence of Mrs. Susan B. Anthony. Mrs. Tilton is calm in her demeanor, and expresses her entire confidence in the inevitable result of the present investigation.

Mr. Ovington has stated that the committee are determined to put Mr. Beecher through a most vigorous and searching examination; he believes, however, that Mr. Beecher will come out of this trouble brighter and stronger than he ever was, and when his detailed answer to the specific charges contained in Mr. Tilton's complaint is published the community will be fully able to arrive at a just verdict.

H. B. Claflin, one of the committee, says the investigation will end soon, and all the proceedings, cross-examinations and everything will be given for publication just as it occurred.

Victoria Woodhull said she came straight here from San Francisco to take part in this fight, as she looked upon this as her own battle for the principle she advocates. She said in an interview, to-day, "I know very well why this great pressure has been brought to bear to hush the truth, it is because many persons are frightened to death from a fear that all the facts will be made known, and yet what have they to be frightened about? Let them come out and withstand public opinion. I have read Tilton's statement, and every word of it is true; the only fault that I find is that Theodore has only told one-third of what he ought and might have told. He wants to shield some one else. He has been a sorely abused and injured man; he ought to speak out. See the charity which he displayed in living with his wife four years when he knew all. Let me tell you the sentiment in the West, and I have had excellent opportunities for judging it. The current is turning strongly in favor of Mr. Tilton. Of Frank Moulton she said he has stood between Tilton and Beecher throughout this affair, and he has done his duty to both. I do not believe he will shirk now. His testimony will be of the utmost importance, all that Tilton has said will be proven. He has the letters in his possession, and I know he will produce them. Without Frank's evidence I think they would crush Tilton, for so many influential members of Plymouth Church are bent on doing it. Only the other day when I met Moulton, he said, 'Theodore shall not be crucified,' and he meant what he said. Yes, I know something of the history of this affair, and when they are done I shall speak, I shall give some truths which are not now known, and some facts, which are not now understood."

The following question was asked of Mrs. Woodhull—

"Did Mrs. Tilton ever confess to you that she had been faithless to her marriage vows?"

"I wont answer," exclaimed Mrs. Woodhull impulsively, then after a moment's hesitation, she added, "When I first published the statement that I knew of two eminent persons who were living in concubinage, and preaching from their pulpits, I was not acquainted with Theo. Tilton. I had never met him, I supposed him to be a clergyman. The day after the announcement he called upon me and showed me the extract, and asked me if it referred to him. I told him it did. In two or three days' time he invited me to his house, and introduced me to his wife. What would he have done that for if not to say, 'Elizabeth, here is one who knows all.'"

"Then you did not get your first information from Mr. Tilton?

"No, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Isabella Hooker told me. The matter had been talked over between these ladies before I gave it to the public."

The Daily Graphic gives out the line of Beecher's forthcoming defence, derived from parties who profess to thoroughly understand the situation. The Graphic says the document will be a very powerful and startling one, and will make some confessions which will create as much surprise as did Tilton's now famous presentation of his alleged personal grievances. Beecher will acknowledge that since the beginning of his ministry he has been beset by letters and persons of both sexes, from women, professing great personal admiration and adoration of him as a man and as a minister; he will show that communications of this nature are constantly received by every noted man in the community, and it is the special fate of clergymen, poets and actors to be the recipients of these abnormal demonstrations. After the general statement Mr. Beecher will allude to the case of Mrs. Tilton, who, it seems, conceived for him the most extravagant passion. Knowing the lady from childhood, having married her to her husband, and having been on terms of close relationship with them both, he was led by a strange infatuation to submit to her blandishments, and an intimacy was formed, which, while it was not criminal, was reprehensible; or at least put him in a position which made him seem to do great wrong to Theodore Tilton. He will confess that both he and Mrs. Tilton were very sentimental, given to exaggeration in sentiment, and that the correspondence which passed between them was not what should have existed between a pastor and a lady, and that lady the wife of his friend. But the sensitivity of the case was that Mrs. Tilton complained bitterly of her husband's self-sufficiency, want of kindness to her and possible infidelity, and she looked up to Mr. Beecher to give her that affection and sympathy which she failed to find at home. Beecher will acknowledge that he was tried with the temptation, that he allowed kindness and expressions of sympathy and tenderness by Mrs. Tilton, and that he reciprocated them to a great degree, so much so that while not actually guilty of any wrong to Theo. Tilton he so far compromised himself and the lady as to render necessary, as it appeared to his mind, the letters which he subsequently wrote to Mr. Moulton and Mr. Tilton, humbling himself before the latter as before God for his extravagant demonstrations of affection for the wife of his friend.

Oliver Johnson, to-day, stated to a reporter that Tilton, in 1870, in conversation with him, charged Beecher with making improper advances to Mrs. Tilton, which she resisted, but Tilton never accused Beecher to him of adultery. Johnson subsequently spoke of the charges to Mr. Beecher himself, and he denied them, but entered into no explanation, nor did Mr. Johnson press him for away.

Postmaster at Wellsville.

WASHINGTON, 26.—The following is one among recent postal changes: Wm. F. Darleys, for postmaster, at Wellsville, Cache Co., Utah.

$75,000 Fire.

NEWBURG, N. Y., 26.—A fire, today, destroyed the pattern and machine shops and damaged the moulding shops of the Wright engine works in this city; the buildings, fixtures and tools were owned by Homer Raursdell, whose loss is $55,000. Wright & Co. lose $20,000. It is all covered by insurance.

Tilton's Testimony before the Committee.

NEW YORK, 26.—The Tribune furnishes the cross-examination of Mr. Tilton before the Beecher Investigating Committee. It is prefaced by the following letter from Sage:

"Tilton's direct testimony having been published without the knowledge or consent of the Committee of Investigation, and fragmentary and contradictory reports of his testimony and cross-examination having been published by means unknown to the committee, and without its consent, whereby it is said that Mr. Tilton feels that injustice has been done to him, it is believed that, in fairness to all parties, the whole of Mr. Tilton's testimony should be made public at once.

"H. W. SAGE, Chairman.

"BROOKLYN, July 23, 1874."

The testimony makes ten columns of the Tribune. The following are the principal points of interest: In answer to questions by General Tracy, Tilton said he could not give the date of the transaction which he said he witnessed at Mr. Beecher's house at the time of examining the engravings with his wife. He continued to attend Plymouth church after that transaction, but not regularly. About the time that he ceased to be editor of the Independent he made a distinct allegation to Bowen against Beecher, of an offence he had committed against him, and a letter was agreed upon between him and Bowen, demanding that Beecher should quit the Plymouth pulpit. The examination proceeded as follows:

QUESTION.—"And was that agreement the result of his statement of offences against Mr. Beecher, which he and you knew of?

Answer—"On the part of Bowen, yes."

Q. "On your part?"

A. "Yes, I made one statement, and he made many."

Q. "Will you state what offence you stated against Beecher to Bowen on that occasion?"

A. "Mr. Johnson having introduced the subject, Mr. Bowen said to me, 'Mr. Tilton, you do not say as much in Plymouth Church as in a Brooklyn paper; should you not go there? Why do you not go?'"

Q. "I asked you what offence you stated against Mr. Beecher to Mr. Bowen?"

A. "I must answer your question in my own way. I came to tell the truth, and not fragments of the truth. Bowen wanted me to speak more in the paper of Plymouth church. Mr. Johnson said, perhaps Mr. Tilton has a reason for not going to Plymouth church, and thereupon Mr. Bowen was curious to known the reason. I, in a solitary phrase, said there was a personal domestic reason why I could not go there consistently with self respect, that Beecher had been unhandsome in his approaches to my wife. That is the sum and substance of all I have ever said on this subject to the very few people to whom I have spoken of it."

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
Washington, March 31, 1874.

PROPOSALS will be received at the Contract Office of the Post Office Department until 3 o'clock, P.m. of May 30, 1874, (to be decided by the mails of that day) for carrying the mails of the United States from July 1, 1874, to June 30, 1878, on the following route in the Territory of Utah, and by the schedule of departures and arrivals herein specified, viz.:

6102 From Deep Creek to Shellbourne, 1 time per week, 60 miles and back; once a week.

Leave Deep Creek Friday, at 7 a.m.; Arrive Shellbourne by 5 p.m.

Leave Shellbourne Saturday, at 7 a.m.; Arrive Deep Creek by 5 p.m.

And from the date of contract, execution, and the giving of bonds for the faithful performance of the service, proposals as to the time of departure and arrival of the mails, and for the establishment of new offices on the route, may be submitted to the Department.

Bidders will state their names, post offices, and counties, and propose the sum for which they will perform the service, and must distinctly state the number of the route or routes they propose to serve.

Blank proposals, guarantees, and bonds, and full instructions as to the mode of preparing proposals, will be furnished by postmasters, or by this office.

Each proposal must be guaranteed by at least two persons, who must state in what capacity they guarantee the bidder, whether as postmaster, member of Congress, or otherwise, and must also state their own post office address.

The bond required by law will be required of the successful bidder before the contract is executed.

The Department reserves the right to reject any bid which, in its judgment, is unreasonable in amount, or which is offered by a bidder who has failed to perform former contracts faithfully.

Bidders will address their proposals to the Second Assistant Postmaster-General, and endorse on the envelope "Proposals for Utah."

JAMES N. TYNER,
Second Assistant Postmaster-General.
