

WARREN HAS A THANKLESS TASK

As Chairman of the Committee
On Claims He Has a Big Job
On His Hands.

LEGISLATION ON RAILROADS.

"Soothing Influence" to be Exerted
Against It—Long Service is What Counts.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Senator Warren has a thankless task, and when the committee are reorganized in the next Congress he will no doubt retire from the chairmanship of the committee on claims. He can take public buildings and grounds or agriculture and forestry, either of which will be much more congenial. As chairman of claims he is compelled to dig and delve into the dusty records of the past to ascertain whether claims presented are valid. Then when the bills are reported to the senate there is a great deal of criticism, on the assumption that claims that are 40 years old must be of a questionable character. At the same time there is a senator who is not pressing one or more claims upon the attention of the committee. "It is very easy to criticize a claim," remarked Warren, "and the senate lawyers can ask questions which would naturally be hard for a layman to answer. It is almost impossible for me to carry a record of every case in my mind with all the details." Although Warren is not a professional lawyer, he generally gets the best of the lawyers.

LONG SERVICE COUNTS.

Senator Depew was right in his assertion that long service in the senate is important in the matter of influence. A recent example was in the fact that Senator Knox, although he had been for a long time attorney general of the United States, could not succeed to a vacancy on the judiciary committee. Of course it was not to be expected that he would be made chairman of the committee, and it was never suggested, but it might have been supposed that he would have been made a member.

"SOOTHING INFLUENCE."

"These western men are very much stirred up over this railroad legislation," remarked one eastern senator to another. "Yes, I suppose they are," was the reply, "but I have seen a number of men in the city who will not doubt have a very soothing influence upon them." He then mentioned the names of half a dozen men well known in the western railroad world, by which it was inferred that those men were here to show that there was no necessity for the proposed railroad legislation.

BAILEY AND WILLIAMS.

Frequent consultations between Senator Bailey and John Sharp, who will take place. One is serving his first term in the senate and the other is leader of the minority in the house. Bailey, on account of his knowledge and understanding of public affairs, his youth and vigor, is gradually assuming a place of semi-leadership in the senate minority. Ready in debate and quick to take advantage of any opening given him by the majority, he naturally becomes a leader in his party. The fact that he was leader in the house also gives him prestige in the senate. Bailey and Williams are both Mississippians.

SOMEWHAT TARTLY.

"Mr. President," said Senator Warren, "I ask unanimous consent to call up." "That is not what you asked," interrupted Senator Bailey. "Then after some little discussion it was agreed that the statement might be informally laid aside while the omnibus claims bill could be read. "I was about to ask," said Warren, in a low but severe tone, "unanimous consent to leave the unfinished business temporarily laid aside." "There will be no objection to that," again cut in Beveridge and explained how the Wyoming senator might proceed.

Warren smarted under the instruction; but, being anxious to get his omnibus claims bill through, he made no reply save in cold formal words of the utmost parliamentary dignity. It is when business is pressing that feeling is engendered in the senate.

"MERE ROUTINE PROCEEDING."

Senators who have no contest on hand and are re-elected without any difficulty do not secure the notoriety that follows a spirited contest and a triumph. Some one asked Senator

PUTTING IT STRONG.

But Doesn't It Look Reasonable.

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia is its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspepsia is that they are continually doing, starving themselves or going to the opposite extreme, the eating of the stomach. Overburdened stomach with "bitters" after dinner pills, etc., which invariably increase the difficulty of the case. What they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a rest. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained?

This is a great secret and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy but its success and popularity leave no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anywhere, regardless of condition of stomach. The sufferer from Dyspepsia, according to directions, is to eat an abundance of food, without food and use the Tablets before and after each meal and the result will be that the food will be digested in the stomach and the sufferer will be able to eat as much as he likes. The Tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is so weak that it cannot digest meat, eggs or ordinary food and place in it the temperature of degrees, and not with the effect of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as the meat was digested within the stomach.

The stomach may be ever so weak yet these Tablets will perform the work of digestion and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made. Of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the most economical, give the most good for the least money.

Lodge asked his senatorial campaign, and he replied: "Why, I haven't seen a word about it in the papers. As far as I can learn, the election of Crane and myself has degenerated into a mere routine proceeding."

MISSOURI LOBBYISTS.

Gov. Folk Lays Down Some Stringent Rules for Them.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 17.—The stay of professional lobbyists in Jefferson City will be limited during the session of the legislature. Governor Folk today enacted rules that all lobbyists must follow. The rules are simple enough and are promulgated along the line of the governor's inaugural message. The governor today advised certain railroad corporation attorneys who are admittedly lobbyists that they must adhere to the following rules:

1. On arrival in Jefferson City, or as soon as possible thereafter, any professional lobbyist must report his presence in the city by presenting himself at the governor's office.
2. Such lobbyist must state to the governor the object of his visit.
3. A report must be made to newspaper representatives, the same as that made to the governor.
4. A thirty-hour limit is placed on the lobbyist's stay in the city.

NO TARIFF REVISION.

Speaker Cannon Says We Need The Money.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Speaker Cannon was a guest of honor and the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the national board of trade tonight. The speaker reminded his hearers that this was the shortest session of Congress, and that the members were to agree on legislation that would devote approximately $600,000,000 to the public service. "If the tariff were to be opened, $1,000,000,000 could easily be appropriated, and yet there would be a cry for more."

Regarding the tariff question, Mr. Cannon said it was the consensus of opinion that it was better to wait a year before undertaking to revise the revenue laws. "I think," he said, "we have a pretty good revenue law, both as to customs and the internal revenue, and," he added, with a smile, "we need the money."

RECOGNITION REFUSED.

To American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin.

Berlin, Jan. 17.—Foreign Secy. von Richthofen has again conveyed to the American chamber of commerce information of the government's unwillingness to recognize a foreign institution in Berlin under that name. Secy. von Richthofen says that the government has no objection to an association of American merchants devoted to the study of the objects for the present American chamber of commerce was organized, but that chambers of commerce in Germany are government institutions, chartered by the state, and have certain distinctive government privileges which cannot be conferred upon a foreign institution with in German jurisdiction.

STOESSEL INTERVIEWED.

Tells of Capitulation of Port Arthur.

London, Jan. 17.—The correspondent of the Express at Nagasaki has had an interesting interview with Gen. Stoessel, in the course of which the general says: "The capitulation occurring on New Year's day was merely a coincidence. The loss of 203-meter hill and the subsequent capture of Port Arthur combined with the deadly marksmanship with the terrible 11-inch shells, the depressing effect of the death of Gen. Kondratyenko and the fearful increase of enemy forces fixed the time of capitulation. It is quite untrue that I dissented from the unanimous decision of the final council of war. Our final urgent requests for relief were never answered."

"As regards parole, I distinctly discouraged any concerted action. Every officer decided for himself. Generally commanding officers stuck with their men and chose imprisonment. Most of the naval officers also chose captivity, many probably being influenced by the fear of impending court-martial."

The correspondent adds that conversation with other Russian officers reveals great bitterness. They denounce Admiral Alexieff for his failure to properly fortify Port Arthur and his cowardly flight by the last train from the fortress. They say the torpedo boat destroyers that escaped before the surrender carried all the regimental naval stores to Chefoo. The Japanese officers denounce the incapacity and folly of the government in entering upon the war, and declare that all the men who return to Russia from Port Arthur are revolutionaries in spirit. These opinions were openly expressed in the presence of Gen. Stoessel, who remarked: "Let them talk; they have earned the right to think as they please by having untold deaths for our country."

BOISE WILL BE IN NORTHWEST LEAGUE

Composed of That City and Salt
Lake, Ogden, Butte, Spokane
And Helena

THE OUTLOOK IS VERY BRIGHT.

Last Season the Club's Receipts
Averaged $600 Per Week, Enough
To Run the Club.

That Boise will be represented in the new Northwest league of baseball clubs is an assured fact, as the franchise arrived today. The new league will be composed of the following cities: Spokane, Butte, Helena, Ogden, Salt Lake and Boise. Committees will begin work at once to sell shares at $5 per share in a new corporation to be known as the Boise Athletic association, Ltd., when a capital stock of $500 fully paid up and non-assessable, from the number of citizens of Boise who have promised to take stock in this corporation, the promoters feel sure that in a very short time the full amount of the capital stock will be taken, says the Boise Capital News.

Last season Manager McCloskey labored under very great difficulties in organizing and placing a first class baseball club in Boise as he got a number of late start and most of the ball players in the country had already agreed with other clubs. He had to offer extra inducements to get them by way of increasing their salaries and in some cases pay cash for their release, so that the expenditures of the club's finances greatly exceeded what was necessary to run a club this season. "I've had a number of late start players working in Boise, including Thompson, McArthur, Hanson, McIntyre and Heblitt, but Hammond is at Caldwell, so that to begin with we will have about $50 in railroad fare. The money we will have to make up is about $1,500 and that also will be saved, and as we will have Buck Weaver as pitcher and a first class catcher, a bench manager will be saved. Experience is a good teacher and we will save a large amount by not making an experiment with players who could not do justice to the club."

The receipts for the last season were very good and averaged $600 per week, which was more than enough to run the club. The receipts for the last season were very good and averaged $600 per week, which was more than enough to run the club.

After going carefully over our last year's accounts we figure that we can save at least $7,000 of our last year's expenses and with the increased business we will be sure to have this season we will at least break even on receipts and may make a little money. The club this season will be conducted on a business basis. After we have sold all our stock we will organize with a full year's business and look after the affairs of the club, and we will also incorporate under the state laws.

The meeting of the league, which was to have been held on the 15th of November, was held at that time about the 1st of February, and as we must not let this matter, we hope that the people of Boise will buy this stock as soon as possible and the manager of the club must begin at once to get players and have some ready money to advance players. We shall sell and deliver stock at once, to all subscribers. We have had a number of people who have bought stock and hope to have another this season as the people of Boise can be sure that Mr. Buck Weaver will make them hustle and beat the last season's champions.

WANT AMATEUR LEAGUE.

Many of the Smaller Towns Anxious for Another Baseball Organization.

A movement has been started with the object in view of organizing an amateur baseball league to contest for the amateur baseball championship of the state, and the scheme wherever mentioned has with instant favor. It is said to be predicted that a league of this kind will be formed before many days come, and go. Besides teams in Boise, Ogden, Pocatello, Provo, Bunka want to get in and so does Bingham. Murray is the last town heard from and the interest in the matter are eager to be counted in the league.

ON THE RACE TRACK.

Evidence of Crooked Racing at Oakland and Judges Take Action.

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—The judges are investigating the third race at Oakland today, which was won by the Reprobate, Albenra, on her recent form, was the legitimate favorite, but went back in the betting, losing 3 to 1. The "setup" was on the Reprobate, and the wise ones who were in the deal cleaned up on the cheating. Opening up at 4 to 1, his price was hammered down to 5 to 1, and several of the judges were seen to be looking at the race with a suspicious eye. The Reprobate was a well-bred horse, but the judges were not so sure of his ability. The race was a close one, and the judges were not sure of the result. ABOUT NELSON AND MURPHY.

Eddie Santry Gives Some Inside History of the Trouble.

A great deal has been written and said with reference to the trouble between Teddy Murphy and Battling Nelson, but Eddie Santry gives the best account of the affair we have seen. Here it is: "Battling Nelson has not better friend in the world than me, and I use it to be in Ted Murphy. Everything that Murphy did he did for the sake of Nelson. On the day Murphy and I left San Francisco for Chicago, Murphy had no more intention of running away with Nelson's money than I had of doing the same. Battling Nelson wanted to go to Chicago, and San Francisco, he had pleaded with him to come back to Chicago. Nelson was spending his money to get him to beat the last season's champions."

"Nelson never before went against the money of Murphy. He was always willing to obey and it was a great surprise both to Murphy and myself when Nelson showed just before the fight that he wanted to take the bit in his teeth and go out and do some of the running alone. Murphy did not know exactly what to make of it, but I had known the same kind of feeling that Nelson was experiencing, and I thought he would be all right in a short time. He couldn't stand prosperity without having his head turned a bit."

"The woman arrived on the scene a long time before the fight with Britt. Because he was just then a prominent figure before the public she became infatuated with him. "Well, the fight came off. We didn't think there would be any body talking about Britt after it was over. We couldn't see how Nelson could lose. Murphy bet $200. Nelson bet $100 and I wagered $50 of my own money."

"In every fight Nelson had taken part in before he went from the state and he had been beaten by both of his hands. But he didn't do it when he fought Britt. Nelson showed just before the fight that he wanted to take the bit in his teeth and go out and do some of the running alone. Murphy did not know exactly what to make of it, but I had known the same kind of feeling that Nelson was experiencing, and I thought he would be all right in a short time. He couldn't stand prosperity without having his head turned a bit."

"The rounds elapsed by and the fight was lost. Murphy and I felt worse than Nelson did. He was laughing about it. Nelson was something like that. We knew we had a job on our hands to get Nelson out of San Francisco. Murphy was afraid he would spend all his money. Nelson began to spend money like water."

"Right here it might be well to show how foolish were the statements that Murphy and I were trying to 'get away' with Nelson's money. If we were trying to get away from a scheme, why didn't we take a steamer for Honolulu, instead of a train for Chicago?"

Mexican Pets Again.
Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 17.—"Mexican Pets" Everett and Thomas Tracy, pugilists, known throughout the country, were freed from the federal penitentiary today after serving a year for engaging in a prize fight at Ponca, Okla., in violation of the federal law.

"PENNY" GOSSIP.

At Levan on Jan. 21 Prof. Marc Christian and Prof. A. B. Wright will engage in a fencing contest. The affair will be of great interest.

J. A. Richardson, a prominent horseman of Boise, Ida., is in the city on his way to Denver. He says that it is his intention to follow the new western circuit and will have horses here for the city dates.

At a meeting of the recently organized Salt Lake Auto club last evening, it was decided to petition the city council for improvement of the city streets. Plans have been submitted and a number of streets designated as needing improvement. The petition will be presented in the near future.

W. S. Jones, the man who will handle the horse races at the state fair track this season, announces the program for the season. There will be four events with purses aggregating $1,800. The largest amount offered in this city or state. The free-for-all trot and pace will be the feature, and for this race $500 is offered. There will be a 2:30 trot and pace with a prize of $100 and a couple of running events.

It would seem that all this talk from President Lucas about the Boise ball team being out of the league was a little premature, to say the least. Boise is not yet out of the league. W. R. Kivett of Boise is in Salt Lake on baseball business, representing that city, and he says that the Boise club has paid protection money to President Lucas and that the club has no intention of dropping out of the league. His statement is corroborated by the article published in a Boise paper and reproduced on this page.

Marvin Hart, the Louisville light-heavyweight, whose match with big Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight champion, was called off by Mate-maker Abe Greenglass of the San Francisco A. C., has been matched to meet Jack Root, the Chicago fighter, in a twenty-round bout in San Francisco the early part of next month. Hart is stranded in Frisco, and he is anxious to fight again. Greenglass made him an offer to fight Root, which he lost no time in accepting. As Root is anxious to fight articles for a battle with Hart, the indications are that the men will come to an agreement in a few days.
