

EVENING NEWS. Thursday, March 18, 1909

FRAGMENTS.
 HOYT SHERRMAN, Jr., returned from Denver last evening.
 E. H. SHONS, of L. Strauss & Son, San Francisco, went east this morning.
 D. L. STURGIS, traveling agent of the U. P. at Denver, came to the city last evening.
 NATHANIEL SWEENEY, to-day commissioned as constable for Rockport precinct, Summit County.
 The Eighth Quorum of Seventies and all Seventies residing in the 12th and 13th wards will meet at the usual place to-morrow evening, at 7:30.
 JAMES LYON was arrested last night, on a charge of battery. The offense was committed during a drunken brawl in that disreputable resort—Flitzgerald's saloon.
 The number of passengers arriving in Ogden from the west yesterday aggregated 402; of these, 347 went east over the Utah Pacific, and 55 over the D. & R. G.
 The opera company arrived in this city last evening at 11:30, having come from Cheyenne on a special train. There will be but one performance of the company here, in "Carmen," at the Theatre to-night.
 MOTHER MCNEAN, relict of the late Henry McEwan, formerly of Edinburgh, died at her home in Provo, of old age and general debility, yesterday. Her son Henry, of this city, has gone south to-day to attend the funeral.
 ROSE THORP, who has frequently been fined for drunkenness and profanity, was before the Police Court this morning on the usual charges, and was sentenced to pay $25, in default of which she will remain in jail 25 days.
 MAMIE SHOWELL, a disreputable woman, was before Justice Pyper this morning, on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. The offense, being clearly proven, the culprit was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, which will keep her in the city jail for 150 days.
 The entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Third Ward Mutual Improvement Association, comes off to-morrow evening, at 8 o'clock, in the ward meeting house. A good programme is advertised. The prices of admission are—adults, 25 cents; children, 15 cents.
 A special federal train, bearing the distinguished remains of the late Senator Miller, of California, passed through Ogden last night before the train, which consisted of only two cars, arrived there at about 1:30 a. m., and left for the west half an hour after its arrival. Accompanying the remains, were Mrs. Miller and her daughter, and two or three Senators, near friends of the deceased.

LOCAL NEWS.

Young Ladies.—The Y. L. M. I. A. will hold their conference to-morrow, in the Fourteenth Ward meeting house, instead of the Assembly Hall, as previously advertised, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. A full attendance is requested.

The Grand Opera.—Her Majesty's Opera Company arrived in this city last evening and will appear this evening at the Salt Lake Theatre in the grand opera of "Carmen." We are authorized by letter from Col. Mapson to state that Sig. Ravelli and not Gialanini will take the part of "Don Jose." This is the only change of any note from the published programme. The most favorable criticism and profuse praise have been bestowed upon this company by the press of the cities in which this opera has been presented, and it is perhaps not too much to say that in this evening's performance may be anticipated an entirely successful second in point of true merit to none of its character yet presented in the Salt Lake Theatre.

Deputies Searches.—Deputies Smith and Franks paid a visit about 8:30 this morning to the residence of Emily Sarah Rawlings, in the 10th Ward, in search of that lady, who is alleged to be a plural wife of Brother Henry Grow. They ransacked the building from cellar to garret, hunting in every place where it was conceivable that a person might be hidden, but the object of their search was evidently not there, as she was not found. Smith even ascended into a store room in the attic through a trap door in the ceiling, and crawled on his hands and knees through a very tight aperture over the ceiling of an adjoining building, and finally descended by another trap door into a room rented to an old lady, whom he frightened almost out of her wits by his sudden appearance from so unexpected a quarter.

Robert McKendrick's Sentence.—This morning Robert McKendrick, of Tooele, was called upon in the Third District Court to receive sentence for living with his wives, having entered a plea of guilty to the charge. The Court remarked, "Mr. McKendrick, I will ask you the usual question, and give you a chance to say what you will do. Is it your intention to obey the law against polygamy and unlawful cohabitation?" To this Mr. McKendrick replied, "I have no more to say, and the Court inflicted the full penalty of the law, six months in the penitentiary, and a fine of $500 and costs.

Brother McKendrick was taken out to the penitentiary to-day, he being the last one of those who have been convicted at the February term to receive sentence, and of all of those who were "Mormons," not one has given the much-desired, "promise" exacted by the anti-"Mormons."

First District.—In the District Court, at Provo, on Tuesday, counsel for David Miller, who was convicted of grand larceny, moved for a new trial, but the motion was denied, and Miller was sentenced to imprisonment for four years and six months in the penitentiary.

George Johnson, arraigned for grand larceny, was given until Thursday to plead.

In the case of the United States vs. John Duke, of Wasatch County, indicted for unlawful cohabitation, the defendant was called as a witness, and testified that during the period covered by the indictment, the ladies named therein were his wives and lived with him in that relationship. The court instructed the jury to return a verdict of guilty, which was done, and sentence was fixed for Tuesday, April 12th.

In the case of the United States vs. Neph J. Bates, of Monroe, Sevier County, for a similar offense, the same method was adopted with the same result, and judgment will be passed on April 12th.

Nils Lauretzen and Sven Nelson were admitted to citizenship yesterday.

The case of The People vs. DeWitt Watts, indicted for grand larceny, was heard and submitted to the jury.

HOMICIDE AT FILLMORE.

Terrible Result of a Petty Quarrel.

M. A. McBride Kills Oliver Speed.

The following details, which come to the News as a special dispatch per Deseret Telegraph line, illustrate the terrible consequences of men allowing their passions to prevail over their better nature and revenge to take the place of sober reason. Happily for the people of this territory, such cases are not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

About seven o'clock last night Oliver Speed, when given up for dead by his wife, was accosted by little John McBride, who made the remark, "Doc, you place me a good sheep-herder." He also made use of some very obscene and disgusting remarks reflecting upon Mr. Speed, when the latter became exasperated and slapped the boy in the face. The lad ran and told his father, McBride, who was near at hand, and who came out and asked Speed why he slapped his boy. Speed began explaining, when McBride stepped up to him and struck him on the side of the head with a revolver, at the same time firing it off. The men then clinched, and McBride, being the stronger, threw Speed to the ground, and then, while the other was under the left arm, Speed, not so common here as in some other parts of the Union, but altogether too common when we have one such deplorable case to record. The dispatch is dated Fillmore, 1 p. m. to-day:

Change of Tune.—The facility with which the down-town crowd of vice, perdition and falsehood can shift from one position to another precisely the reverse, has never been more forcibly illustrated than in its latest and several hundredth achievement, a case of Gen. Dement. Prior to the General's confirmation, and while action on his appointment was hanging fire in the Senate committee room, there were no words too contemptible or vile for the organ to use against him. It was once pronounced his head and neck that it was useless to "aby any more bricks at him." Presto! The corpse revives, takes on a new lease of life, and receives that confirmation which neither the organ nor any person heretofore looked for, and the tone of the slanderer is immediately changed from a ragged diapason to a melodious flauto; it is as if he had previously regarded Dement as a "Mormon," but had lately apostatized and entered the ranks of the "cultured American gentlemen." This would be more noticeable if it were less frequent.

An Appreciated Lecture.—An American Fork correspondent sends us the following account of a recent treat which the citizens of that place have enjoyed:

"Under the auspices of the Seventies of this place, another treat has been afforded to the people of that place by Prof. Talmage, subject, 'A Peep Through the Microscope.' His first lecture to us, which was held last fall, had so captivated his audience, that a grand turnout met him on this occasion, anxious to peep at the wonderful works of nature, and indeed wonderful are they, as the exclamations of surprise heard through the audience did attest. The subjects represented on canvas, were varied and interesting, and so well described by the lecturer, that the younger portion of the audience seemed to grasp every idea advanced, and relish immensely the treat. If even then, the most modern methods were used in the common schools of Utah, instruction to the youths would be a relief, and even an easy task. We hope to be able to report a third lecture before long."

Utah Inventions.—Mr. James A. Faust, of this city, recently invented and had patented a safety stove for railway carriages, so constructed that in case of accident to the train, the stove would remain closed, while in the case of being upset, a reservoir of water connected with the stove would almost infallibly extinguish the flames, thus preventing those horrible railroad fires by which much valuable property is destroyed, and many people perish in frightful agony.

The present number of the Scientific American has the following notice of another invention by Mr. Charles F. Decker, of this city:

"A washing machine has been patented by Mr. Charles F. Decker, of Salt Lake City, Utah Ter. The machine is a series of vertical shafts, with plungers on their lower ends, surrounded by open-ended cylinders, springs connecting the cylinders to the shafts, while other springs connect the plungers to the shafts, and the plungers revolve through and beating the clothes."

The Theatre.—Considering the state of the weather and the bad streets, a fair audience witnessed the presentation of "Out of the Frying Pan into the Fire," by the Harrison & Gourlay Company, at the Theatre last evening. The acting was good throughout, the various parts of the comedy being well sustained. Louis Harrison as "Frank Featherly," played with apparent ease, and was encored several times, especially in the second act, in which his coming singing seemed to please the audience. It is a little inclined to be rather fast and for that reason some of his good points were partly lost last night. The part of "Fonterney Fluttwitz," by John Gourlay, was extremely funny and well rendered, and Miss Bigelow sustained the character of "Polly Drake" in an admirable manner. Mr. Tighe as "Capt. Drake" seemed to understand his part thoroughly, and the comedy was well sustained. A figure without which the play would have been very incomplete.

No Benefit for Prisoners now in the Pen.—The question regarding the application of the new "copper" act to those now under sentence in the penitentiary was again brought up in court to-day, and several points were raised by Messrs. Bigelow and Young, for the Court's consideration. Mr. Dickson defended his position in the case, that the Legislature had no power to mitigate the punishment of those now under sentence, and the law could only be made applicable to those on whom judgment was pronounced after its passage. The old act was the only one which could be applied to those sentenced while it was in force. This position, it is stated by the Court, was the Attorney's proposition generally are will exclude any of the prisoners under sentence before March 12th from any benefits under the new law, so that for some time at least there will be two classes of prisoners in respect to the benefits received for good behavior.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.
 COLLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.
 On Tuesday evening, at Logan, Miss Lucilla Parkinson, of Franklin Idaho, accidentally shot herself through the hand.

Charles A. Mace, son of Hyrum Mace, was on the ridge road on the range about six miles west of Fillmore, Friday last, when his horse stumbled and fell upon him, and he was killed in three places between the foot and knee. The animal rose and started, but immediately for his riderless help and alone. The accident occurred about 3 p. m. on Friday, and the riderless horse was found about 2 o'clock Saturday morning. The alarm was soon given to the citizens by the ringing of the town bell, and sturdy-bodied men, with horses and ladders, at once endeavored to find traces of the lost boy, who was without an overcoat, and the night was very cold. A brother of a missing man was dispatched to Holden, ten miles north of Fillmore, thinking he might possibly be there, but he way he heard voice from a distance and on going to the spot from which it emanated, he found his brother, who was a cedar tree in the position that he had spent the night. He succeeded in getting him out of his perilous position, and got him home, but soon found that he was unable to ride horseback, and was therefore obliged to leave him, and assist him, which he did, and conveyed the unfortunate boy to his home, where he was cared for.

DEATHS.
 NIELSEN.—At Monroe, Sevier County, Utah, March 10, 1899, of consumption, Peter Christian Nielsen, in the forty-eighth year of his age.

He was a native of Denmark, and came here a little over seven years ago. He has been sick and unable to work for the past five years. He has buried 13 children, and a wife, and one son is left to mourn his departure. He died from the fatigue.

HAYDOCK.—At Kanab, Kane Co., Utah, Feb. 21, 1899, of typhoid fever, Eliza Jane, daughter of Samuel and Eliza Haydock, aged 10 years 10 months and 16 days.

PACKER.—At Franklin, Onondaga County, Idaho, March 7th, 1899, of pneumonia, J. C. Packer, son of James J., and Julia Jane Packer; born June 21, 1884.

MORRILL.—At Junction, Platte Co., Utah, March 7th, 1899, Ann Elizabeth, wife of Charles Morrill, after a severe illness of about three weeks; born April 15th, 1855. She leaves a husband and one daughter, besides many relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

REMOVED.

John C. Cutler & Bro., Agents Prove Woolen Mills, have REMOVED back to the Old Constitution Building, 34 and 36 Main Street.

Prices of Photographs Reduced at FOX & SYMONS.

All work done by the Dry-Plate instantaneous Process.

REDUCTION PERMANENT.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY

A POINT WORTH REMEMBERING.—Buy your Books, Stationery, School Supplies and Magazines of JON. H. FAIRY & CO., 25 S. Main Street, where you get everything at Bottom Prices. All the Church Publications kept constantly in stock; also a well selected line of the best Miscellaneous Books, for both old and young. S. S. and M. L. A. Libraries supplied.

CARPETS.

Henry Dinwoodey has just received the largest and most elegant stock of CARPETS ever seen in this city, of ALL KINDS, WILTON, Axminster, and grades, selling at bottom prices. Give him a call.

975. A FINE ORGAN FOR $75.

H. J. HILL, Teacher of Music, No. 36 S. West Temple.

BABY CARRIAGES.

THE FIRST AND CHEAPEST, AT DINWOODEY'S.

PERMANENT REDUCTION.

— IN — Photographs.

"It's No Use," says the despondent dyspeptic. But it is of use. Your sufferings can be relieved. Thousands have been cured, and so can you. Broken down, desponding victims of dyspepsia, can command ability and find in Simmons' Liver Regulator a specific which reaches the source of the trouble and effects an absolute and permanent cure. It regulates the liver, dispels dyspepsia and restores health.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED: Have you Scrofula? Impure Blood? Kidney Disease or Rheumatism? Deays are dangerous. You can be cured now by using BROWN'S SANSAPARILLA and Dandelion with Iodine Potassium.

A blood Purifier that all Physicians endorse. Ask your druggist to show you the formula and commence using it at once.

YES! 100,000 boxes of BROWN'S ALEXICA SALVE, sold on a positive guaranty and not one failed. All the ways cure burns, cuts, bruises, sore throat, scalds, and all other eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. FOR SALE AT Z. C. M. I. DRUG STORE.

"A washing machine has been patented by Mr. Charles F. Decker, of Salt Lake City, Utah Ter. The machine is a series of vertical shafts, with plungers on their lower ends, surrounded by open-ended cylinders, springs connecting the cylinders to the shafts, while other springs connect the plungers to the shafts, and the plungers revolve through and beating the clothes."

The Theatre.—Considering the state of the weather and the bad streets, a fair audience witnessed the presentation of "Out of the Frying Pan into the Fire," by the Harrison & Gourlay Company, at the Theatre last evening. The acting was good throughout, the various parts of the comedy being well sustained. Louis Harrison as "Frank Featherly," played with apparent ease, and was encored several times, especially in the second act, in which his coming singing seemed to please the audience. It is a little inclined to be rather fast and for that reason some of his good points were partly lost last night. The part of "Fonterney Fluttwitz," by John Gourlay, was extremely funny and well rendered, and Miss Bigelow sustained the character of "Polly Drake" in an admirable manner. Mr. Tighe as "Capt. Drake" seemed to understand his part thoroughly, and the comedy was well sustained. A figure without which the play would have been very incomplete.

No Benefit for Prisoners now in the Pen.—The question regarding the application of the new "copper" act to those now under sentence in the penitentiary was again