Coughling, a revenue assessor, testifled to prisoner's lack of memory, nervousness and excitement, which necessitated many corrections in his work. Michael Tulliby stated that prisoner called at his house in November and talked so strangely, that he considered him half a fool.

The books and records of the Appraiser's office were produced, showing many e rasures, blots and omissions in prisoner's entries. Specigh, a captain of police, testified that prisoner's actions were strange, and that he had a vacant stare and haggard look in his eyes.

Fitzhugh Ludlow testified that Me-Farland, after the receipt of the inter-cepted letter from prisoner, seemed to think that his wife would return, if left to her own impulses. He never heard from the prisoner that he and his wife Saddler, a publisher, testified to the troubles of prisoner, who seemed not to have the entire possession of his mind. He saw in prisoner's eyes a peculiar look, frequently belonging to insane persons. Judge Davis said an unintentional injury had been done a party wholly outside of the case, by prisoner's counsel, who, in reading Mrs. Calculater, made what was intended to represent the word "you," read "J.

In the Corps Legislatiff, Ollivier moved that the Chamber adjourn until the vote of the plebiscitum is taken. It is said that Government desires deputies to have an opportunity of going before the people and instructing them on the reasons for the measure on which they are to vote. Jules Favre vehemently opposed the adjournment as inconsistent with the duty of members to their constituents, who sent them there to remain at their posts. In an emergency like the present, he feit that they difficulty to the provisions of law, five per cent, will be added, with costs, and the same will be collected by destraint and sale.

> A Camanche Indian brought his squaw to a pioneer artist to have her picture taken. The artist got the squaw in position, when the old Camanche Upper thought he would investigate the mystery of making squaws' pictures. He accordingly lifted the cloth, and looked into the camera, when he was astonished to see his wife standing on her head. At this he grew indignant, and even beat her for assuming such an undignified attitude before the soldiers, but as she stoutly denied the offense, he continued his experiments, and at last came to the conclusion that a machine that could stand a squaw on her head in half a second, without her knowing it, was exceedingly bad.
