

APPOINTEES TO CITY OFFICES.

Mayor Thompson Submits List to Caucus of Republican Councilmen.

GREENWALD KNOCKED OUT.

Vote Against Him was Unanimous—Chiefs Devine and Hilton Will be Reappointed—Condie Fight.

City Engineer—Frank C. Kelsey.
Health Commissioner—Dr. J. C. E. King.
Superintendent of Waterworks—Frank Hines.
Supervisor of Streets and Irrigation—Peter S. Condie.
Land and Water Commissioner—S. B. Westfield.
City Sexton—Thomas Carter.
Sealer of Weights and Measures and Oil Inspector—W. P. Nebeker.
Building Inspector—F. M. Ulmer.
Parkkeeper—C. A. Erickson.

The above names represent the list of appointees submitted by Mayor Thompson last evening at a caucus of the Republican city councilmen. They will be presented to the Council this evening for confirmation. The Mayor at the same time, it is believed, will name his choice for sanitary inspector, chief of police and chief of the fire department. The present incumbents of the two latter offices, Messrs. Hilton and Devine, will be reappointed, and the sanitary inspectorship will probably go to Joseph Lees.

The caucus was held in the Mayor's private office. After being called to order the Mayor submitted his choice for the various appointive offices. The list was the same as above, with the addition of J. J. Greenwald for sanitary inspector. Mr. Kelsey coming first was approved by a unanimous vote, as also was Dr. King for health commissioner. Mr. Greenwald's name came third, but the gentleman was rejected by a unanimous vote, much to the surprise of Mayor Thompson. Mr. Condie met with some opposition, too, at first, but after a short discussion, during which the members from the Second precinct urged the approval of Condie's appointment, the Mayor's choice for supervisor of streets was unanimously approved.

The reason Greenwald was rejected was on account of a strong pressure that had been brought to bear on him from certain quarters. Numerous dealers opposed him because of his action in condemning a large amount of ice while he held the office under Mayor Glendinning. Another element, it is said, opposed him because he operated slot machines at Salt Lake last summer.

AMUSEMENTS.

The only place of entertainment, open in town last night, was the Grand, where Finnigan's Hall made a big hit. This attraction is just from California, where it had a very successful season, and judging by the enthusiasm and laughter with which it was greeted last night, its California success will be duplicated here. Murray and Mack are the leaders of the fun and they are well supported by a crowd of clever men and bright girls. The bill will run the entire week with only one matinee, on Saturday.

The sale of tickets for the Black Patti engagement at the Theater is now going on at the boxoffice.

WARD ENTERTAINMENTS.

In the Eighteenth ward hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, his fellow-workers in the Sunday school, and other associations with which he has been connected, will tender a sociable to Elder Fay Whitney, who leaves Saturday on a mission to Holland. POLICE POINTERS.

A man who deals in junk, whose place of business is on State street between Second and Third South, read yesterday afternoon of the arrest of young Frank Williams, who stole several articles from a room in the Roberts block. He remembered that the lad had sold him a couple of sacks of copper wire, and he promptly took them to the police station. It was learned that the wire was not trolley wire, although at first it was believed to be that cut from the Lake Breeze line some time ago. The owner of the wire has not been found. The police feel sure that the wire was stolen.

THREE JURORS IN MILLS CASE.

Considerable Difficulty Experienced in Getting Requisite Number.

NINE MORE YET REQUIRED.

Those Sworn are William H. Haigh, Thomas J. Donkin and H. S. Spencer.

Contrary to all expectations extreme difficulty is being experienced in securing a jury in the Mills murder case. Up to a late hour this afternoon but three jurors had been sworn to try the defendant, and it begins to look as though the greater part of the week will be devoted to this matter alone. The present panel of forty is about exhausted, necessitating the issuance of a special venire this afternoon, calling for twenty-five more jurors.

The three jurors that proved acceptable to both the prosecution and defense, and who were sworn, are William H. Haigh, Thomas J. Donkin and H. S. Spencer. The first named were sworn before court adjourned last evening. Mr. Spencer passed muster today, and there being no objection, he was excused this afternoon until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The majority of the jurors examined had read of the shooting in one or the other of the three daily papers, and in consequence had formed decided opinions respecting the merits or demerits of the case. Although the proceedings involve a human life, sufficient of itself to create an air of solemnity in and around the court room, they have not been altogether devoid of a number of amusing features, chief among which has been the answers of some of the jurymen to the interrogations of Judge Powers.

Thirty-one jurors have been called by the clerk to the box. The following were excused for cause: Ed H. Needham, John R. King, James Cheesey, Joseph J. Daynes, Nathan P. Gray, William Asper, W. C. Crome, Charles M. Freed, B. D. Blackmar, Harry Finch.

The defense has exercised preliminary challenges as follows: John Harman, Lewis A. Angel, Edward P. Guest, Alfred Clough, Henry P. Richards. The State has exercised four challenges as follows: J. T. Raleigh, S. H. Conley, John D. Beasley and Herbert J. Shaw.

Pettit juror Alex S. Campbell, who failed to answer to the call of his name yesterday morning, put in an appearance this afternoon and upon making a satisfactory explanation of his absence to the court, escaped being fined. Mr. Campbell was later examined on his old dire and excused.

This afternoon the following jurors were called and requested to take their seats in the jury box: Levi M. Kuy, James Whytock, Hezekiah Mitchell, Eli A. Folland, John E. Busby, William M. Rash, Alex. S. Campbell, Albert M. Rosell and Robert Harman.

CITY DAMAGE SUIT ON TRIAL.

Case of Englebreten vs Salt Lake City before Judge Cherry and Jury.

The trial of the suit of Berent Englebreten against Salt Lake City, which began before Judge Cherry and a jury yesterday morning, is now in progress. The plaintiff in an original and two supplemental complaints demands $12,400 damages from the city, alleging that he is owner of a farm on the Jordan river below the city, and that the sewage discharged from the city is discharged in large quantities upon his land, rendering the farm unfit for cultivation purposes, and his home by reason of foul odors arising from the discharge, undrinkable.

The defense denies that plaintiff has been damaged in any sum whatever; that the amount of sewage discharged was very trifling; that instead of injuring his farm it proved a benefit for the reason that sewage was known to be an excellent fertilizer. The plaintiff is being represented by the law firm of Wilson & Smith, while the interests of the city in the case are being looked after by City Attorney Stephens and his assistant, Mr. C. E. Stewart.

The defense started to put in its testimony this morning. At the suggestion of the city attorney the jurors were taken out to view the sewer farm.

GOT DRUNK AND SWORE.

Mrs. Lindgren Asks for a Legal Separation from Carl J. Lindgren.

Eva L. Lindgren is the name of another wife who is desirous of having the matrimonial bond existing between her and Carl J. Lindgren annulled. According to the complaint, filed yesterday afternoon, the parties were married in Sweden in October, 1881. The defendant is accused of treating his wife in a cruel and inhuman manner, of calling her vile names, and telling her to leave home and go to that place where the power and policy of Satan holds sway. Mrs. Lindgren further alleges that the defendant is addicted to the drink habit; that he spends all his earnings in saloons and to come home drunk was of a frequent occurrence with him. There are four children born of the marriage, and Mrs. Lindgren, in addition to a decree of divorce, asks to be awarded their custody.

Suit on a Note.

Lewis Powell filed a suit against Henry Rogers and wife in the Third district court today to recover $500 on a certain promissory note secured by a mortgage.

Harman Wants a New Trial.

J. W. Hamilton, attorney for George Harman, convicted last week of receiving stolen property and petit larceny, and whose sentence on both charges is set for tomorrow morning, has filed a notice and motion for a new trial on the first named offense, on the ground that the verdict of the jury was contrary to law and the evidence.

Hearing Tomorrow.

William Lewis, the Sandy man, arrested yesterday on the charge of insanity and locked up in the county jail, will be given a hearing at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Lewis is the individual who shot a man named Gier.

JUDGE TIMMONY'S COURT.

John McDonald, drunk, $2.

Tom King was on the lineoleum again today and his plea to the charge of intoxication was guilty.

"It seems," said the judge, "that you will persist in coming here; when did you get out of court?"

"This wakes ego 'twas," replied Tom. "Well it will be $5 and if you don't stay away I'll raise the price."

Emma Jackson, a colored woman, was represented by Judge Twomey, who pleaded not guilty to the charge of using abusive and profane language. The complaining witness was Mrs. Ella Phelps, (also colored) who asserted most vehemently that the Jackson woman called her "a dirty hankcher" headed nigger, an old cow and at the end of her speech, a disgrace to Franklin avenue.

"Are you sure she called you these names?" asked Mr. Diehl.

"Yes, sah; she called me a cow and a nigger; didn't mind the nigger but I'm not a cow."

Then Mrs. Phelps grew reminiscent and proceeded to tell how once upon a time she prevented Mrs. Jackson from killing her own daughter. "Yes and she picked up a broom stick and dared me to come on," concluded Mrs. Phelps.

"Jamees," Mrs. Phelps little boy took the witness chair and testified that Mrs. Jackson certainly called his mother "a hankcher-headed-nigger, and an old cow."

His testimony was corroborated by Clifford Day, a small boy as black as midnight. He added, however, that Mrs. Jackson called Mrs. Phelps "a disturber of Franklin Avenue."

Mrs. Jackson took the stand in her own behalf and denied calling the other lady names. She said that the row was occasioned by her asking the Phelps boy not to make so much noise because they disturbed one of her lodgers, who worked at night and slept during the day. About a dozen witnesses for the defense were examined and when the court could get in a word said: "There is no more of argument in this case. It is another scene of much ado about nothing, and I would suggest that if you people (colored population) must live in the same neighborhood, you had better get a better class and follow its teachings, love one another and not fight."

The defendant was discharged, amid great rejoicing among her friends.

WITH THE JUSTICES.

W. J. Quinn was arraigned before Justice Nielson today on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and placing bets on the races. The complaint is William Langston, who alleges that Quinn purchased several articles at the People's Cash Store and in payment therefor presented a check for $30, which was subsequently discovered to be worthless.

IN HYMEN COUNTY, UTAH.

Never did the sun of heaven flash the face of fairer maiden, (Of the Indian style of fairness), Than was Mary-Mocketee-Jaybe of the Utes. Her face and figure would attract a crowd if pictured on a gaudy Gibson poster. Mouth the gods would take a smack at, in her eyes were rays of starlight. In her smile were clustered sunbeams. In her laugh were rippling waters. In her voice a dream of music. Every warrior of the nation strove his level best to win her. Brought the wild game of the forest, And the game from placid heronroost. And the fruits of game of moats, And the treasure laid before her. Sought for war to show their prowess. Show that they were trumps in battle—One even brought the scalp all gory Of the burly Pat O'Connell. Section boss at Hobs Sliding. As a mark of his affection. But she scorned their fond advances. Told them that they weren't in it. That their names, to use the lingo Of the paleface tribe, was Dennis. All because aspiring Marye Had an overripe ambition To corral a paleface husband Who was expert at draw poker And could keep her gown in fashion. Throbbed her heart, with hope new kindled.

When she heard the agent's best half Tell him as he fondly kissed her After taking in a dinner That the heart of one was always Easily reached through his stomach. With this careless speech to nerve her Marye vanished from her people. Glided like a brunette spectre In the soft, free silver moonlight From the haid reservation. With designs upon the stomach Of some unsuspecting paleface. Now, sly as prey-hunting tigress, She is serving as a waitress Singing fifteen-cent collocations To a gang of lanky boarders In an onion-scented food joint On Hymen county, Utah. Where she'd heard the men will marry On the easiest provocation.

UNION DEPOT SITE COMES UP AGAIN

Council Committees Hear Arguments For and Against.

PROPERTY RIGHTS QUESTION

Another Tour of Inspection is to be Made Next Wednesday—Result of the Meeting.

The Council committees on municipal laws and streets, with City Attorney Stephens associated, met last evening for the purpose of further considering the union depot franchise question. Chairman Thomas, the presiding officer of both committees, was present, as also were all the members of the committees.

The Oregon Short Line was represented by Attorney P. L. Williams, Traffic Manager Eccles and Acting Chief Engineer Critzer. The Rio Grande Western by Attorney Andrew Howat, W. G. Sharp, Engineer Yard; E. B. Wickes, the real estate agent, was also in attendance.

The protesters present were Attorney James H. Moyle, Peter Reid, James Thomson, J. J. Corum, W. A. Hodges, J. E. Ovenshaw, D. J. Jenkins and three or four other owners of property in the vicinity of the railroad depots.

The first to address the meeting was Peter Reid who said that the people he represented were favorable to the building of a union depot, but they objected to the closing of any streets until the closed part of the streets had been provided with viaducts. He also said the property owners wanted compensation for damages on account of the streets being used for additional tracks.

W. A. Hodges thought the railroad people should be made to put Fourth West street in good repair before the franchise was granted. Mr. Hodges further suggested the section of viaducts over South or North Temple streets.

James Thompson was of the opinion that the railroads should be required to build blocks north from the Rio Grande Western depot between Fifth and Sixth West.

J. J. Corum suggested the condemning all the tracks of both roads. J. E. Ovenshaw did not want to see Fourth West street occupied by any more railroad tracks.

Attorney James H. Moyle was the next to address the meeting. He said using abusive and profane language. The complaining witness was Mrs. Ella Phelps, (also colored) who asserted most vehemently that the Jackson woman called her "a dirty hankcher" headed nigger, an old cow and at the end of her speech, a disgrace to Franklin avenue.

Attorney P. L. Williams pointed out the necessity and gave some of the advantages of a union depot to a city. It would be impossible, he said, to find a site anywhere in the city where some property owners who wanted to sell out at exorbitant prices would not object. The railroad companies could better afford to do without the union depot and connections, which would cost $500,000 and meant no extra revenue to the railroads, than the people of Salt Lake could afford to be without it by denying the petition for the franchise. As to viaducts, they would be built when the necessity for them came, and on the subject of damages to property, Mr. Williams said the courts were open for the settlement of such questions.

Mr. Eccles declared that last year the two railroads had an interchange of 20,000 passengers in Ogden. The freight business was increasing. It could be just as well centered in Salt Lake.

The committees adjourned without taking any action, having decided to visit the streets which the proposed franchise will affect on Wednesday afternoon starting from the Oregon Short Line depot at 3 o'clock. All interested are invited to go along.

TRUNK LINE PLANS.

Vanderbilts Extending Their System to a Vast Degree.

At the Vanderbilt offices in the Grand Central Station, New York, on Monday several important meetings having reference to the extension of the Vanderbilt system were held. Only one of these—that of the directors of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway company—was formal. The others were in the nature of conferences between the Messrs. Vanderbilt and those who are nearest to them in developing and consummating their vast trunk line plans. These discussions lasted until late in the afternoon. One of the day's results was the adoption of dividend payments on the common stock of the "Big Four," which have been suspended since 1893. After the meeting of the board of this company its president, Melville E. Ingalls, announced that he was having prepared a declaration that corroborates all that has been said of the plans of the Vanderbilts in regard to "Big Four" and Chesapeake & Ohio. On authority of the "Big Four" it is wholly controlled by Vanderbilt interests and that at the meeting of its directors definite plans were adopted for the taking over by the Vanderbilts and the Pennsylvania Railroad of the Chesapeake & Ohio.

CONSOLIDATION PROHIBITED.

Officers of Georgia & Alabama Enjoined from Selling Stock.

Judge Emory Spear of the United States circuit court at Macon, Ga., for the Southern district of Georgia, has granted a temporary injunction restraining the officers of the Georgia and Alabama railway from consolidating that railroad with the Florida Central and Peninsula railroad or any other corporations, on a bill filed by Michael J. Dady, a minority stockholder. It is alleged in the bill that J. Skelton Williams is at the head of what is called a "voting trust" that controls practically all the stock of the Georgia and Alabama railway and is proposing to consolidate that road with the Florida Central and Peninsula, of which he is also president, and that the proposed consolidation with the latter road is in his interest as well as in the interest of other persons associated with him in the "voting trust," and contrary to the interest of the road and its stockholders.

Title Confirmed.

In an opinion handed down in the United States Supreme Court at Washington yesterday by Justice Harlan, the title of the Oregon & California Railroad company to large tracts of land in the State of Oregon was confirmed. The lands were granted to the railroad company many years ago, but its claims were contested by the government. The main controversy was between the Oregon & California road and the Northern Pacific. The Northern Pacific company claimed under an earlier grant, but it was shown that this road had not filed a map of definite location, and thus failed to earn the grant.

Fireman Ryan Killed.

The second section of No. 1, the west-bound Rio Grande Western, which left Grand Junction yesterday morning about 1 o'clock, was derailed by an immense rockslide at a point between Westwater and the Itasca line thirty miles west of here, which resulted in the death of Fireman W. F. Ryan. None of the passengers were injured.

Boycott of Operators.

The Order of Railway Telegraphers has declared a boycott against the Colorado & Southern railway, on account of the disagreement between the company and the operators regarding wages and hours of labor.

W. V. Powell, grand chief of the telegraphers' organization, is in the city and has issued a statement to other branches of the railway service, explaining the telegraphers' grievances and asking aid in their efforts to bring the company to terms.

Car Burned.

A Chicago dispatch to the "News" says that the barn of the South Chicago City Railway at Hammond, Ind., was destroyed by fire early today. Thirty-two cars were burned. The loss, fully covered by insurance, is placed at $150,000.
