the Daily and Saturday News.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Fifteen Admitted—At last night's meeting of the Authors' club 15 persons were admitted to membership. A meeting will be held Sunday at 4 p. m., at the Knutsford hotel to which all persons interested in literary work are invited, and a committee will be appointed to secure club headquarters.

Arrested for Burglary—Deputy Sheriff Joseph Sharp has arrested Richard Morris upon the charge of burglary. It is alleged that Morris entered the Rio Grande depot at Murray on Sept. 16, 1935, and stole a corner net from the baggage room. The corner net was recovered some time ago but Morris was not located until yesterday.

Real Estate Men Meet—The Salt Lake Real Estate association met last evening, and considered plans for obtaining a steady income of $12,000 per annum, for pushing the work of property advertising the city, and property holders will be asked to contribute toward this fund. It is the intention to hold evening meetings of the association twice a month.

Prof. Reynolds' Lecture—Prof. Fred W. Reynolds lectured at the University yesterday afternoon on "Lyrics." He illustrated the difference between lyrics proper from the folk song and ballad. The lyric writer must be one of deep emotion, sympathetic, and an admirer of beautiful things. The lecturer knew of nothing so promotive of refinement as the reading of lyric poems.

Typewriting Contest—The championship of the United States in type writing will be contested for in Chicago, shortly by two noted experts, Charles H. McGurkin of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Miss Mae Carrington of Springfield, Mass. Mr. McGurkin is a brother of the McGurkin brothers of this city, and it is interesting to note that Frank E. McGurkin of Salt Lake was formerly champion himself for a number of years.

Fat Stock Show—J. H. Seely, the well known sheepman of Mt. Pleasant, has been in Denver where many live stock fanciers assured him that their entire sympathy with the idea not only of an intermountain fair, but with the plan for holding a fat stock show as one of its special features. Mr. Seely was assured that every possible assistance would be extended from Colorado, to make of this a great success. Mr. Seely has also been among the live stock growers of southern Utah urging them to begin at once preparing their sheep, cattle, horses and swine for the intermountain fair fat stock show, and it is gratifying to know that his efforts promise gratifying results.

Zion's Saving Bank and Trust Company was organized in 1878; has opened over 43,000 savings accounts, and now opens an average of more than 10 new accounts every day. We want your business. Joseph F. Smith, President; George M. Cannon, Cashier.

WALTER S. MOSS DIED LAST NIGHT.

Manager of Lyric Theater Succumbed to Long Siege Of Illness.

HAD UNDERGONE OPERATION.

Was in Fair Way to Recovery But Suffered a Relapse Which Proved Fatal.

Walter S. Moss, who has been manager of the Lyric theater in this city since last October, and who was one of the oldest men in the show business, died last night at 8 o'clock at the Holy Cross hospital. He is survived by his wife in Salt Lake, and by a brother at Boise, Ida.

Mr. Moss had been ill for some time, and was taken to the hospital about ten days ago to undergo an operation for bladder trouble. It was successful, and he seemed on a fair way to recovery, but a relapse set in and in his weakened condition he proved unable to rally from the shock. Dr. R. Grant of Ogden, manager of the Holy Cross interests there, was in Salt Lake when Mr. Moss passed away, and has taken charge of the remains, and of making the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Moss has had a long and varied career, most of which has been spent in the show business. He was born at Oregon City, Ore., on July 10, 1848, when the northwest was in its widest days, and not his start in life as a jockey for Jack R. Keene on the early day California tracks. After that he carried shows through the west in stage days, and went around the world with a circus. The first Japanese jugglers ever brought to America came under his direction, and later he brought out Ezra Kendall in his funny talks, and Lottie Crabtree, the first woman to engage in the minstrel show business, and who is now living in Boston, having retired from the stage. Before starting in theatricals Moss became a practical printer, and worked for a time in the Nevada office of the Carson and White-Mark Twain was a reporter on the paper. He and Mr. Clemmens (Mark Twain) became close friends, and the friendship has continued since then. Of the old veterans of the stage, there are few who will not nod of Mr. Moss's death with a feeling of personal sorrow for he knew most of them, and to them his name will recall many of the struggles in the theatrical world of 25 years ago.

John Cort, himself a veteran in the show business, was much attached to Mr. Moss, and sent him here to manage his interests when he secured control of the Lyric from the United company which operated it last year. Like Cort himself Mr. Moss is a very generous man to those in need, and was always willing to share his last dollar with the needy. The stories which have been told about him abound in incidents illustrating this trait, but a story that has followed him down his early racing days when he became famous by virtue of some of Keene's biggest races, illustrated the "squareness" which he had always shown towards those associated with him.

It was when Moss was in his twentieth year, that Keene's great distance race was pulled off in California, and Moss rode the winner which captured a $20,000 purse. Afterwards a turf scandal leaked out in which it was shown that Moss had been offered $5,000 to throw the race, and had turned down the offer although he needed the money pretty badly. Keene called his little jockey in the he-hoed, and said that he was a small fortune rather than do him an injury, and presented him with a check for $5,000.

Since coming to Salt Lake Mr. Moss has handled the Lyric in a capable manner. He was not in good health at any time however, and his intimate friends have realized for a long time that his end might be near.

SMOOT VICTIM OF BIAS.

Good Roads Official Declares Senior Senator is Much Maligned.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Last year was a busy one for President W. H. Moore of the National Good Roads association and his associates. He was at the Hollenden yesterday. In his private car, Mr. Moore and the other officers of the association traveled 54,000 miles, through 27 states and two territories.

During these extensive jaunts, 123 conventions were held, at which the good roads propaganda was spread broadcast. The last convention was held in Utah, and was presided over by Gov. Cutler and ex-Gov. Heber M. Wells.

"Our canvass and tour of Utah, covering a period of several weeks," said Mr. Moore, "gave us a thorough knowledge of its social, agricultural and commercial condition. We met the leading men of the state—Mormons and Gentiles, engaged in political and commercial life; we met the active and expeditious. We visited Provo, the home city of Senator Reed Smoot, and held a convention in the old Mormon church of that city, with over 3,000 in attendance. The devoted ex-Congressman Roberts and Senator Reed Smoot spoke at that convention. Wherever we went we studied existing Utah conditions."

"We met President Smith and 19 of the Apostles of the Mormon Church. We learned much of the life and character of Reed Smoot. We met his faithful friends and bitter opponents. When we discussed his home life, never did we find a man or woman, Gentile or Mormon, even insinuate that Reed Smoot had ever lived or advocated a plurality of marriage."

"It does not believe the sound wisdom of the members of the American senate will be influenced by biased information, but upon a thorough investigation of facts will vote in favor of Senator Reed Smoot holding his seat."

ATTACKED BY A MOB

and beaten, in labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch, of Teikonsa, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at C. M. I. Drug Store, 112-114 South Main street.

AMUSEMENTS.

Salt Lake Theater—The Paul Gilmore engagement at the Salt Lake theater ends tonight in "Captain Debonnaire." It is two years since Mr. Gilmore appeared here in "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," and the memory thereof still lingers pleasantly with all who saw it. "Captain Debonnaire" is said to be even more pleasing.

Orpheum—Next week's bill at the Orpheum will be headed by the Orpheum company, who, supported by Walter Shannon and Harry L. Dickinson, will present the sketch "A Montana Beauty." Happy Jack Gardner, a troupe of performing dogs, three strong men and a couple of comedy teams will also be included.

Grand—At the Grand tonight Miss Harper will be seen in a new bill, "Nobles," which will continue up to and including Saturday night. Miss Harper made a good impression and many friends by her able presentation of "Magda."
