EASTERN.

The Berlin Panic.

NEW YORK, 1.—The German banks state that the impending panic in Berlin is caused by large advances in prices, and that the reported failures were caused by parties being short at Frankfort.

Approval and Thanks.

The chamber of commerce, today, adopted, unanimously, resolutions approving the action of Governor Tilden in his exposure of the canal frauds, and thanking him for his message.

The Ice Disappearing.

Reports from Wilkesbarre and other points in Pennsylvania, where disaster from ice gorges was apprehended, are to the effect that the ice is passing away without damage. At Easton it is feared, however, that wharves and other property will suffer somewhat from the overflow before the river is cleared.

The Great Trial.

A few minutes after the clock indicated 11 almost every member of the Beecher family came into the court room. Col. Henry and William Beecher, the Plymouth pastor's two sons, and Herbert Beecher, his nephew, came first. Beecher's boys gave up their old seats and took chairs just behind that usually occupied by the plaintiff. Rossiter Raymond sat at one side of them, and Stephen Pearl Andrews on the other. Mrs. Colonel Beecher next came in alone, and took a seat in front of the row. At five minutes past 11 o'clock the main door of the court room opened and Beecher entered, looking the picture of ruddy health, and accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Beecher, Mrs. Harriet Scoville, Mr. Beecher's daughter, and her husband, the Rev. Mr. Scoville, a Congregational pastor of Norwich, Ct., Mrs. Beecher's brother, Miss Catherine Beecher and three unknown ladies, Mr. Shearman and Francis D. Moulton. Moulton turned to the left as he entered the court and went round the jury box and took a seat near Morris, at the table of the plaintiff's lawyers, directly in front of the witness stand. Just at the instant this remarkable procession entered by the main door the tall figure of Theodore Tilton was seen inside the doorway leading to the judge's private room. Beach was beside him, and the two fell back and allowed the other party to pass, while Caldwell made room for the new arrivals. Beach smiled, Tilton stood behind him looking worn and pale. Beach made an attempt to pass, and as he did so his eyes met Beecher's and they shook hands pleasantly. Tilton looked steadily at Beecher, but the latter did not return the gaze. There was a slight attempt at applause when Beecher entered, but it gradually died away. As he passed through the spectators rose from their seats, and the group which had just arrived was minutely scanned. At three minutes to twelve Redpath left the witness stand, and Evarts, turning to defendant, said —"Mr. Beecher will now be sworn." There was a buzz in the court room, and Beecher, accompanied by an officer, walked round to the witness stand, behind the jury box; every eye was turned upon him, but he looked as unmoved and unconcerned as he does on a Sunday when ascending the platform of his own church. Frank Moulton bent forward in his seat as Beecher was seen on the platform of the witness stand above the spectators in the body of the court room. Moulton looked steadily at Beecher while the latter took his seat, and never released his earnest gaze while he gave his testimony. Beecher did not once look towards where Moulton or the plaintiff sat; he appeared to look over their heads at the crowd or at the jury. The preliminary testimony was closely listened to, though it was simply a recital, in answer to the questions of Evarts, of the history of witness' life from childhood, his labors as a preacher, journalist, lecturer and author, with an account of his marriage, and of his family affairs since. He was questioned about his life as a pastor, the original size and growth of Plymouth church, his habits of life, his regular vacations, his trip abroad, and the public speeches he made in England during his absence, the answers to all these questions giving a faithful picture of the busy life witness has lived, and the varied services he has performed as preacher, journalist, author and public speaker. He was asked in reference to his connection with the Christian Union, his replies showing that at the time he took the position as its editor its circulation was reported to be 3,000, but in his opinion it was not over 600 to 1,000, and during the first year of his editorship it increased to 30,000.

More Lying.

CHICAGO, 1.—A Washington special says that government officers have been giving very close attention to the reports of Mexican outrages, and are of the opinion that they are greatly exaggerated. It is thought that they originate with speculative contractors, who desire war, and with ranchmen, who want to create a sentiment in favor of the payment of Mexican claims.

Robbed his Mother-in-law.

BOSTON, 1.—M. W. Hodgdon, dry goods commission merchant, has suddenly decamped, taking with him, it is alleged, twenty thousand dollars worth of bonds belonging to his mother-in-law.

Rioters Commanded to Disperse

HARRISBURG, Pa., 1.—Governor Hartranft will to-morrow issue a proclamation ordering the riotous miners to disperse, and the vigorous policy pursued in the case of the Susquehanna rioters will be repeated if necessary on the present occasion.

$90,000 Fire.

KINGSTON, N. Y., 1.—The Overlook Mountain House, in the Catskills, a famous summer resort, was burned to-day; loss $90,000, insured $40.000.

Payment of Jurors.

ALBANY, 1.—A bill was introduced in the Assembly to-day, providing for the payment of jurors in protracted trials in Brooklyn. The bill provides that in case a trial is protracted beyond sixty days the supervisors may grant such extra compensation as they see fit. The Tilton-Beecher case is already on the thirteenth continuous week.

A Reign of Terror.

HAZELTON, Pa., 1.—The excitement at Upper Lehigh, yesterday, during the raid of the miners was intense: there was a perfect reign of terror. It seems that they divided their forces before entering the town, some coming in at the east, others at the west, end. Shots were fired indiscriminately. Many of the rioters were intoxicated, and went through a hotel, endeavoring to force the landlord and boarders to join them; some of the inmates took refuge in the cellar, while others escaped through the back doors. The company's store was attacked, and shots were fired into the building, but the superintendent and clerks escaped. Persons riding along the highway were stopped and fired upon when they refused to join the rioters. Riots are reported at Ashland, with the loss of several lives. All is quiet here this morning.
