FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

The January snow storm has been a failure, but not gone. The snow is now in order, and the weather is in the hands of the Council. The Council has decided to hold a meeting at the Council House at 7 o'clock on Saturday.

The California Excursion, conducted by Messrs. Riggs and Snell, left for San Francisco on Saturday.

Mr. J. A. Davis is bidding fair to be the Salt Lake Vendor of the year. In his Almanac he predicted a snow storm for January, and it is now a fact.

Do not forget the Young Men's Association Improvement Association meeting on Saturday at 7 o'clock. The officers and members of the Y. M. A. are invited to attend.

An exchange gives the following receipt for the cure of the "The surest and best medicine for the cure of the disease is a feather or brush at night. Three or four applications will cure it."

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

D. A. & M. Society.—The directors of the D. A. & M. Society are requested to meet at the usual place, City Hall, at 7 p. m., on Saturday night.

Fish.—Professor Barfoot, Fish Commissioner of Utah, has received word from Prof. Baird to the effect that he will forward the last order for Utah, of carp fish, as soon as the complete one received from Texas, which will be shortly.

Dakota and Statehood.—Our sister Territory, Dakota, is exercising over the matter of her being raised to statehood.

Masonic Concert and Ball.—The third annual grand concert and ball, under the auspices of the Masonic Fraternity, will be given at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday night, which will be the last of the series.

Theatre To-night.—This afternoon we received a call from Mr. J. O. Harris, who represents Mr. C. G. Locke's Bush Street Theatre, San Francisco. He is here in the capacity of agent for Atkinson's "Jollities," which will be presented at the Theatre to-night. This mirth-making company have been doing a good business. They performed at Eureka last, and will go to Denver from here. The S. P. Daily Report speaks of them as follows:

The City Police.—The position of a police officer in a western city especially, is one of the most thankless and dangerous situations that can be occupied in any community. Salt Lake City in the winter season is no exception to this rule. At this time of year many reckless and desperate characters flock in from the surrounding country.

In a large proportion of instances of ordinary breaches of the law—and extraordinary as well—the perpetrators resist arrest if anything like a favorable opportunity to do so presents itself. In numerous cases the officers are not only resisted, but subjected to furious and brutal attacks at the hands of the law-breakers, running great risk of life and limb from attempts to use deadly weapons upon their persons.

There are people, few though they be, who appear to suppose that when an officer is resisted, kicked and cuffed, beaten and abused, that it is a portion of his duty to bow in meek and lamb-like submission to the ordeal. In fact that he is especially employed to be bounced about by brutal ruffians. We do not see it in that light. If he were to deport himself in that fashion, he would be but a sickly, inefficient officer.

When the law has been broken and the peace and good order of the community disturbed, it is the duty of the police to arrest the offenders. If the guilty parties resist it is their sworn duty not to allow that to interfere with their action, but to use all the force necessary to secure their prisoners. When attacked, it is their duty to defend themselves as best they can, and vindicate the authority of the law represented in their persons.

Some people who are always on one side—and that never that of the officer—when any case occurs where the police are compelled to use force in making arrests, can be readily cured by what we deem an infallible process. If they were to be on the force for a few weeks, they would discover that they would be frequently in situations where either their prowess or fleetness of foot would be tested. They would have to occasionally use a good deal of physical force to secure arrests, defend themselves against attacks upon their persons, or beat an inglorious retreat. It is noticeable with our city police that they seldom or never adopt the running away method, as they are not made up of that kind of material.

The disposition to make a policeman the butt of abuse, and to place him on the wrong side of every question in which he is interested is wrong in policy and fact, and exceedingly unjust. The officers of the law should have the moral support of all good citizens while in the discharge of their duties, and the physical support as well, when needed.

We are opposed to the application of undue force by officers in the process of making arrests, and I should any case of that kind occur, the party so exceeding his duty is amenable to the law. If the parties who take the cowardly course of seeking to raise a mob, or create an erroneous public sentiment, would prefer charges with a view to investigation they would manifest a more manly spirit, which, however, in the majority of instances, they are incapable of doing. But while we would readily condemn an undue or unnecessary degree of force, we would view with equal disfavor the officers tamely submitting to be kicked about by lawless and lawless wretches, letting offenders slip out of their hands simply because they refused to be arrested, or fleeing from their post because it might be necessary to make some physical demonstration to quell a disturbance. It is a patent fact that the maintenance of good order in this city is largely due to the efficiency and diligence of the police force.

Samuel Nealen Loses his Property on a Legal Technicality.—A case of considerable local interest was decided by the Supreme Court of the United States on Tuesday. We refer to the suit of Brother Samuel Nealen, of this city, against Wells, Fargo & Co. It was decided against the complainant in the court of the Territory, and was carried by him, on appeal, to the court of last resort, which, sustained the decision of the lower courts.

Our understanding of the case is that Mr. Nealen sold a valuable property in the 18th Ward to Mr. Chas. F. Smith, who was then employed in Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office in this city. The purchaser paid a small portion of the price of the property down and gave Mr. Nealen a mortgage for the balance.

It appears that Mr. Smith got largely behind in his accounts with the company by whom he was employed and gave them a second mortgage on the property. Whether Wells Fargo & Co. were informed that theirs was other than a first mortgage we cannot say with certainty, but if they were, it is singular that such security should be accepted by a firm so well informed upon business matters, in view of the fact that the two mortgages combined constituted an amount very largely in excess of the value of the real estate. This being the case if there was an understanding of the existence of a first mortgage for nearly the full value of the property, the taking of the second would be equal to accepting paper as a security for a round sum that literally represented next to nothing.

Mr. Nealen failed to comply with the law requiring mortgages to be recorded till a few hours after the second one had been placed on record, and the decision against the complainant on the ground that the priority of recording constituted the right to precedence of satisfaction.

The facts in the case make it tolerably clear that either Wells, Fargo & Co. were not made acquainted with the fact that the property was already incumbered with a mortgage when they obtained theirs, or that an advantage was taken of the omission on the part of Mr. Nealen to record his mortgage. In either case there can be no doubt whatever that Mr. Nealen has been stripped of his hard-earned property on a legal technicality. However much the decision may be in union with the law, it is, in our view, in all respects a most unfortunate one.

direct conflict with the principles of common justice. This case has developed a legal process by which it has been made possible for one man to discharge his financial obligations by the use of another man's property, and the operation has been judicially sustained. How wonderful and mysterious are the meanderings of the law.

More About the Bible Business.

January 12th, 1882.

Editorial Deseret News:

In your issue of January 11th, Doctor Fisher kindly names me as one to apply to by those in want of gratuitous Bibles, and he mentions my name no doubt with the kindest of motives. I am sorry to say that I have no Bibles on hand, and never had any to give away. The Doctor has never placed any at my disposal. In every case I have referred my friends to Dr. Fisher as a gentleman, professing to sell Bibles at cost. I am also at a loss to know how to get them should any person be so poor as not to be able to buy them. I endorse the sentiments about getting books for nothing, and think further, that our people were never in a better position to pay for what they get than now. I claim to have disappointed the Doctor in the matter of cheap Bibles, having sold a ton of them at half the retail prices within the last three years. Respectfully yours, C. R. SAVAGE.

Death from Injury.—Brother L. D. Bunce, of Sanpete County, sends us the following relative to the death of his wife, in the hope that the publication of the cause of her demise, may prove a warning to others:

"Having suffered a great loss and bereavement in the death of my wife, (which was caused in the manner below described) I deem it my duty to warn our Sisters through the columns of the News. My wife Elmita Vorhees Bunce, at the time of her death, was 51 years of age, being the mother of 17 children. A few days before her death she was in excellent health, and undertook a heavy washing of family clothing. In so doing, she attempted to lift a large boiler, hurt herself, inflammation set in, and after a few days of great agony, she died. Her parents joined the Church at Cincinnati, Ohio, and gathered up to Missouri, she having been a member of the Church since her eighth year. She was esteemed and beloved by all who knew her, and departed full in the faith of the everlasting Gospel. She died at Pellyville, Sanpete County, on the 23rd ult., and was buried in Mantle on the 28th, by the side of her father and several of her children. She leaves a family of 10 children.

A Ticklish Situation.—The following is an extract from a letter to the Territorial Enquirer, from a correspondent engaged on the construction of the Denver & Rio Grande R. R. in Castle Valley. The communication was dated January 1st:

"From my previous letter you may have learned that all the work between Buchanan Flat and Green River is stopped. Not knowing what else to do, and Messrs. Bullen & Hendricks, contractors, being in Salt Lake, I sent McGraw to Price Canyon to telegraph to B. & H. for orders, and the reply was to pay off the men for November and time-check the rest for December, which I proceeded to do and got along pretty well with one camp, but when I came to the other camp, where mainly Irishmen were at work, then the difficulty began; they wanted money in full or blood, thus placing me as paymaster in a ticklish position, for I had not money enough for B. & H. were in Salt Lake. I pacified them for one day by making them four days to communicate with B. & H. until night came, when eight men, armed with pistols, tied me to the store and told us that we must procure the money inside of 12 hours, failing in which we were to be 'blown up with powder.' They actually made preparations for that event, using very abusive language, about tearing hearts out, etc. We told them we would try our best and if we failed they would have to do their worst. But the bloodthirsty purpose of these outlaws overruled this by the timely arrival of a contractor from east of Green River, who helped us out of our difficulty, by advancing us the necessary funds with which we paid our dues the following morning. From what we afterwards learned our danger was really greater than we anticipated. We were told that had we ventured outside the tent for any purpose the evening of Monday, we would have been shot and robbed, as three men were secreted behind different cedar trees to shoot us on sight. We were armed with pistols and had they made a break during the night upon our tent they would have received a warm reception."
