

WARD CAUGHT AT OGDEN LAST NIGHT

Brought Back to This City Today
by Chief Hilton.

THE CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

Accused of Bigamy and Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses—His Bad Record in Denver.

Chief of Police Hilton left for Ogden on the noon train today to bring back Michael T. Ward, who was arrested there last night by Detective Pender on the charge of bigamy. The arrest was made upon the request of Chief Hilton, and he is being held in the city jail at Ogden pending the arrival of the chief.

Immediately after Ward's arrest he was searched by Detective Pender and Chief Conkle, and in his pockets was found a telegram from Denver as follows:

"Denver, Colo., Feb. 16.—M. T. Ward, Ogden: Mrs. Ward was buried yesterday in pauper's ground. No doubt of her having been Miss McCarty."

There was also found on Ward the certificate of his marriage to Miss Fox of this city, on February 10th, this year, the clipping from a paper containing the account of his wife's death at Denver, a visiting card with this inscription on it: "Mrs. Frank Jaquette, 1102 Fourteenth street, Denver." An unsigned letter, written in Denver, containing this sentence: "I saw Mrs. W. today." There was also a slip of paper with the address of "Minnie M. Courtney, 107 Third street, North side."

Since Ward went to Ogden last night, he has made love to the proprietress of a lodging house, and asked her to go to Seattle with him and manage a 100-room house for him, which he claimed to own. When arrested Ward had only 5 cents on him. He said that on Saturday night he was robbed of a pair of gold spectacles while in a house of shady character.

In addition to being charged with bigamy, Ward will have to face the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. E. F. Jaquette of Denver is in the city, and he is who will make the charge against Ward. Mr. Jaquette says that when Ward was in Denver he stayed at a rooming house operated by Mrs. Jaquette. While there he talked incessantly of his extensive mining interests, and induced Mrs. Jaquette to invest $500 in one of his holdings. It is claimed that he also talked to her of a rooming house in Fruita, Colo., and finally persuaded her to go with him to Fruita to manage the place, but becoming suspicious she left him and returned to Denver. Jaquette says that he intends to prosecute Ward to the limit of the law.

WARD IN COLORADO.

The Denver Post of Saturday says: "Miss T. Ward, whom the woman who committed suicide at 2432 Welton street, last Tuesday night, supposed was her husband, has a record known to the police as an alleged swindler of women and confidence man."

He was arrested October 23 last, on charges preferred by Mrs. Mary McLean of Grand Junction, to whom he had "sold" a boarding house near Tacoma, Wash., for $175.

Mrs. McLean found out directly that the boarding house didn't exist. Ward had skipped, however, to Cripple Creek, where he had served a term for beating a hotel bill. Mrs. McLean got into Denver in time to have officers meet Ward on his alleged return from his supposed trip to Salt Lake. No witnesses appeared and the case was dismissed.

There appears to be some reason for connecting the story of Ward and his divorce with an alleged swindler who called himself A. R. Potter. Potter's specialty was swindling and marrying and deserting girls. His record in the police clipping file goes back to 1890. He always claimed to be a conductor on the Rio Grande, and to own city property in Denver. He married girls in Kentucky, Arkansas, Georgia and other States, getting their money and then deserting them. During the World's Fair he got an Ohio girl with whom he lived about three weeks.

Deputy Sheriff De Luz says he arrested Ward twelve years ago at Aspen for "biking" a woman, and that Ward escaped by jumping from a moving train near Manitou, handcuffed though he was.

Mrs. Ward was 34, a Canadian, and her maiden name is believed to have been Annie McEwan. She was a stenographer when Ward met her, and had saved $1,500 of her earnings. She was a devout Catholic.

Ward is described as over six feet tall, handsome and dashing, and especially attractive to women.

He always carries a pile of papers which he declares represent railroad stocks and holdings worth thousands of dollars. He is now about 45 years old.

HIS LATEST VICTIM.

Ward and the woman now dead lived at the Warren hotel last fall. They came to the hotel September 1, and remained there until December 1, living as man and wife. When they first arrived in Denver they stayed at the Windsor, and had a maid servant. They said they had come from Washington State, and intended to remain in Denver until Ward had "arranged" some mining matters.

PLENTY OF MONEY.

George Purviance, manager of the Warren hotel, says that Ward had always paid his bills and had plenty of money. He gave champagne suppers.

Oct. 1 Ward left for Salt Lake, and rumors said he took with him $1,000 belonging to his wife. When he was gone Mrs. Ward discharged her maid and went into rooms. Apparently she made a trip to Salt Lake, from which she returned on Jan. 25, for her trunk bore a union station baggage receipt label of that date. She rented the room at Mrs. Gorch's house on the same day.

BUSY MR. WARD.

Meanwhile Ward was busy. During January he returned to Denver and managed to get Mrs. E. D. Welton and Mrs. Tilla Jaquette interested in the Bohemian mine in Douglas county, Ore.

with the Denver suicide. Frank Jaquette has gone to Salt Lake after him.

HER SECRET IN DEATH.

The Post of Friday said: "The secret of the woman who is supposed to be Mrs. W. A. Ward of Salt Lake, killed herself in the closet of her room at 2432 Welton street, by inhaling gas, has not yet been learned."

It was made by the coroner's trunk was searched by the coroner the reason would be learned. The trunk was supposed to contain two letters recently received by her from her husband. These letters were not found and it is supposed that she destroyed them.

PAPERS REVEAL NOTHING.

Some papers were in the trunk, but they were of a private nature and did not tend to show anything that would lead to her identity. She had told the landlady her name was Ward, and that her husband would come here within a few days.

An effort to locate her husband in Salt Lake was made by the coroner, but he has not yet been heard from.

FEW CLEWS TO HER IDENTITY.

Among the effects of Mrs. Ward are a gold watch bearing the initials "A. L. Ward," a small ring with the same initials, some small articles of jewelry and some papers, none of which gave any clue to her identity. In the notebook were a number of addresses, presumably taken by Mrs. Ward in her search for employment as a stenographer. Among the names and places mentioned were the following: Drawer J, Central City; Mrs. Graham, Hazelton, Colo.; 1055 Hazel court, 3514 Blake; 1321 West Tenth street, and 607 Thirty-first street.

WESTERN STOCK MARKET.

Special Correspondence.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Feb. 14.—The impetus given the cattle market at the close of last week seems to have kept things going in the face of receipts aggregating 10,000 more than were received during the second week in February last year. Finished beef steers reached the highest point of the year during the past week and not until today (Thursday) when prices are quoted at 4.25 to 4.50, did they show any perceptible decline. Of the 37,500 cattle received during the week, 6,400 of them were in the Southern yards, which shows an increase of over 3,000 in Southern cattle offerings as compared to the corresponding week in 1900.

A number of sales of prime beef cattle were made at 5.55 on Tuesday and Wednesday, and more at all offerings at the five-cent mark than at any time this year. Western beef steers were well represented and sold largely at 4.25 to 4.50, with occasional higher sales and one lot of two loads of 1,500-pound steers, good and heavy, made of all offerings at 4.40 to 4.70. A few, and common kinds down to 3.75.

The supply of Southern cattle was much larger than was anticipated, but the demand was equal to it and quick sales were made of all offerings at prices consistent with those in the native division. Arrivals sold largely at 3.75 to 4.45; Tuesday's receipts were 673 head, the heaviest weighing 1,045, and prices ranging from 4.15 to 4.50. On Wednesday 1,277 head were received and prices, weights considered, ranged a shade lower, 3.95 to 4.20 being paid for 905 to 1,116-pound averages, and on Thursday with receipts of 1,242, making a total for the four days of the week of 5,246 head, sales were generally made at 10c per hundred lower, weights ranging from 830 to 1,240 pounds, and prices from 3.80 to 4.50. Southern cows are scarce and 2.25 to 2.50, and bulls in good supply at 3.00 to 3.25.

There are occasional disputes, from day to day, as to the condition of the stocker and feeder market, but when a man who claims prices are lower is reminded that he is in Missouri and "must show," he fails to "make good." Heavy feeders were in good demand and weights ranging from 1,000 to 1,165 pounds brought 4.25 to 4.65, making them being some higher than a week ago. Light feeders, 600 to 950 pounds, are worth 3.70 to 4.75 for common to choice, and less than 600-pound weight up to 4.50, though sales are made mostly at 4.00 to 4.50. Western feeders were in good demand all week and George West, of the San Luis valley, Colorado, country, contributed a shipment of twelve cars, the heaviest 800 to 900 pounds, and brought 4.00 to 4.50, the lighter end bringing the latter price.

Moderate receipts and indifferent qualities have placed good sheep and lambs at a premium, and while 5.00 for good lambs was paid today, and some Navajo yearlings brought 4.65, there was nothing to test the market. W. A. Colt of Manxanola, Colorado, made a string of 1,000 head of 70-pound lambs on Tuesday, at the same price. The same lambs would have brought 10c to 15c more today. Two double deck loads of 90-pound New Mexico ewes and 250 Colorado 94-pound ewes sold on Wednesday at 4.00. The demand for both sheep and lambs is good and quotations range from 4.80 to 5.20, for good to choice Western lambs; 4.15 to 4.45 for Western wethers; 4.50 to 4.90 for 80 to 90-pound yearlings, and 3.50 to 4.00 for fat ewes.

Receipts for the second week in February were 16,000, against 18,700 for the same week last year.

LAMBS WILL BE SCARCE.

Colorado Only Section Showing Increase Over Last Year.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: The lamb market appears to be suffering from an acute attack of "too much talk." Early in the season the newspapers of Colorado began boasting about the vast number of lambs on feed in that State, and figures were compiled by them, showing that there were probably 600,000 on feed in the State. So much was written on the subject that the attention of everyone was turned in that direction, and the more the packers thought about it the larger that 600,000 lambs looked. They were quick to get on all selling points started out fairly well, though not as good as last season, but the talk about the big lot of Colorado lambs to come after the first of the year kept making buyers weaker and weaker, and during the last two weeks the market has been in very bad shape. Packers seem to feel that the lambs have got to come, and they keep holding off with the expectation that they will be able to get them lower.

At the present time it looks very much as if the packers had made a miscalculation. Granting that there are 600,000 lambs on feed in Colorado, although reports of that kind usually have to be discounted as the tendency is to exaggerate in such matters, there would still be no great surplus even then. Nebraska and Kansas are way short and the same is true of other localities that have formerly fed a good many sheep and lambs. If we take into account this shortage there is no doubt but that the total number on feed is less than 25,000 head. Another thing that is liable to fool the packers is that the Colorado lambs do not have to go to market all in a bunch, as was the case last season. In account of the high prices asked for feeders of less than 25,000 head, feeders do not fill their feed lots until late so that shipments from Colorado this year will be prolonged through June.

Another thing to look at is the shortage in receipts so far this season and at the same time the total number of Colorado lambs on feed would mean only 165,000 head for each one of the five markets. That would be an average of less than 33,000 head for each market, per month, during the shipping season. That certainly is a very small number and need not alarm anyone. When the whole subject is summed up, it is plain to see that this Colorado lamb business is nothing more nor less than a huge bubble that is being used by interested parties to pound down the lamb market at a time when all other kinds of stock are selling high.

VARIOUS COURT CASES.

As stated in Saturday evening's "News," the divorce case of Mattie A. Ellison vs. Charles W. Ellison, was referred to Deputy County Clerk Eldridge to take testimony, and later in the day the plaintiff appeared before him and submitted her testimony in support of her complaint against her husband. The grounds alleged are failure to provide and desertion. Catherine A. Harris and Mrs. A. J. White corroborated Mrs. Ellison in her allegations. The parties were wed at Leon, Ia., January 1st, 1891, and an acknowledgment of the receipt of a small contribution sent to the Association of Our Blessed Lady of Victory at West Seneca, near Buffalo, N. Y.

A good share of Judge Morse's time on Saturday was taken up in hearing testimony in support of a motion to discharge the receiver in the attachment suit brought against Gus Lindgren of Sandy, by Clark, Eldridge & Co., and as the matter was not concluded at the time of adjournment, it was continued until next Saturday. Because of this case coming up, the trial of the hearing of the attachment suit was postponed to the next day.

In the controversy that has arisen over the sale of the Frederick H. Auerbach estate's interest in the Auerbach dry goods business, R. G. Wilson, who had $5,269.35, which was $2,593.45 in excess of the amount of the debt, had filed another petition in the district court, which is in the nature of a second application to have the sale made on the 2nd of this month, confirmed. In his new petition Mr. Wilson strongly urged that the sale be confirmed, and asks that the document filed by the surviving partner, in which he made a second bid of $60,000, and claimed his offer should have the preference because of a clause in the will which states that his interests are not to be jeopardized, be stricken from the files. Mr. Wilson sets up in his petition that Mr. Auerbach being interested in the estate, and heretofore having been one of the executors, is not a competent party to bring such a motion, and that he has spent some $3,000 in getting money with which to make good his bid, and in other ways has been put to considerable expense in order to protect his rights.

The court cannot set the sale aside unless such as no fraud is charged. He alleges that the sale to Mr. Auerbach was planned before the latter resigned as executor, and that the only excuse Auerbach has for asking for a new sale is that he did not bid enough. The matter was, as stated, continued till next Saturday, to allow Mr. Auerbach the privilege of filing a counter-petition to that of Mr. Wilson's.

CHRSTROM APPOINTED.

The board of control of the city and county building held a meeting this forenoon to consider the appointment of a nightwatchman for the interior of the joint building.

The board is composed of the county commissioners, Mayor Thompson, and Councilmen Hewitt and Whittemore. The first and only business taken up was the appointment of a nightwatchman, and the first ballot resulted in Alex Chrstrom and Mr. Goodsell each getting three votes, making a tie. The next ballot was for the next ballot by one of Goodsell's supporters voting for Chrstrom.

Mr. Chrstrom is a Republican, a resident of the Third precinct, and was formerly in the United States navy.

Mr. King, however, is puzzled to know just what sort of a request it is to be finally presented.—Washington Times.

EASTON A FINE TENOR.

Salt Lake Singer in Much Demand for Concerts in the East.

Although practically a newcomer in the metropolitan field, Robert C. Easton, says the New York Press, has made rapid strides in the direction of success. He is a lyric tenor of undisputed ability, and is at present a pupil of Dr. Frank Dossert at Carnegie Hall. Easton was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, and came to this country only a few years ago to follow a business career in the far West; he was then urged by his friends to cultivate his voice, which since childhood had given promise. Today he has a range of over three octaves, singing in flat above high C with perfect ease and purity.

Recently at the Burns dinner, given by the Burns Society of the City of New York at Delmonico's, Mr. Easton was praised highly by all who heard him sing, and especially by Andrew Carnegie, who was delighted with his charming rendition of the old familiar but ever beautiful Scotch ballad, "The Bonnie Boat." Mr. Easton's repertoire is extensive, and he is in constant demand for all sorts of entertainments. Next month Mr. Easton is to sing at Mendelssohn Hall, when Miss Carrie Bridwell and several artists of the Metropolitan Opera house are to be in the program.

Lewis T. Cannon petitioned for a foot bridge to be placed across the street at Tenth and Eighth West streets, which was ordered done.

John James asked that the crossing at Eleventh South and Fifth East streets be graveled. Referred to committee on roads and bridges.

North Point, appeared before the board and asked that it appoint a constable for that precinct. He said such an officer was badly needed there to look after and impound stray animals. Referred to committee on control.

Four applications to sell liquor in different parts of the county were received and referred to committee on control.
